MIXED BOWLING

Tournament Opens at Calumet Club
Monday Night

The annual mixed bowling tournament will open at the Calumet Club next Monday evening, schedules and prizes being completed yesterday by the bowling committee and to be sent to the teams engaged this week. The tournament will continue until April 16th, the teams bowling on an average three nights a week.

The bowling committee of the club, Messrs. Barton K. Stephenson, James P. Heaton, William Adair, Marshall K. Berry and Arthur E. Sanford, have been busy engaged for the past fortnight preparing for this most important tournament.

This year's tournament has an entry list of 16 teams of four couples each, making a total of 128 bowlers. Many old combinations are entered, and the tournament should prove the most interesting in the history of the Club.

Interesting in the rules to be enforced this year is the provision that a bowler coming in late may not take part in a match game if more than two boxes have been rolled before his or her arrival. Also the fact that the much discussed "loh line rule" is to be enforced. The bowlers are to be re-rated after the 7th match.

Five prizes are listed, three team prizes on points won and lost, an individual prize for high fast average and an individual for high average with handicap.

The composition of teams is as follows:

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL

During the recent vacation Coach Higbee has had his team practicing three times a week and it is shaping into a first class outfit. The new set of rules which have been evolved this year were at first confusing to the players, but during the recent sessions they have shown a thorough understanding of them.

Coach Higbee is well pleased with the team and looks forward to a most successful season. Captain Francis Tansley and Abe Winer make a fine pair of forwards and their teamwork is superb. James Fitzgerald at center has speeded up considerably and should match favorably with the best in the league. The team has an abundance of guard material all of whom are neck and neck for first honors. Arthur French, Glen Kendrick, Dana Kelley, and Clarence O'Donnell, one and all fill their position as well as can be asked. French and Kendrick have a shade on the others, probably because they have had more experience.

The teams opens its season with the Watertown game at Watertown on next Tuesday evening and according to reports the result hangs in the balance until the last whistle has blown. Watertown has built up a strong team of new material and will give a true fight.

BOAT CLUB MEETING TUESDAY

IDA M. TARBELL WILL DISCUSS BIG PROBLEMS AMERICA MUST FACE

Miss Ida M. Tarbell, famous all over the world as the greatest woman publicist of her time will speak here this season, discussing the causes of industrial discontent. She has been lecturing in American and Europe for several years in connection with her literary work. She was recently numbered as one of the "ten greatest women."

Miss Tarbell was one of the leading correspondents at the peace conference and while in Europe made special trips to England, Belgium, Spain, Italy, Switzerland and Finland, studying social and political conditions in each of these countries. Miss Tarbell will be remembered as the author of a series of interesting articles on "Labor and Social Conditions," which appeared in the American Magazine a few years ago and which created wide comment throughout the country.

She will speak in Winchester at the Unitarian Church this Sunday, Jan. 7th, at 7:30 p. m., under the auspices of the Metcalf Union. Miss Phyllis Tate, soloist, and Mr. C. H. Watkins, organist, will furnish special music. Everyone is cordially invited. All are welcome.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

On Monday, January 8, Mr. Loring Underwood will give an illustrated talk on "Old New England Gardens." Many of the gardens are of historical interest and some are located in nearby towns. Mr. Underwood, a landscape architect, has made a careful study of his subject and he uses very fine, true color photographs as illustrations. The lecture is a real delight and one which all should hear.

TURNED TABLES ON CENTRAL

Calumet Won From Somerville Team Friday Night

Although it lost the majority points on the occasion of its visit to Somerville, Calumet turned tables on the Central Club of that city last Friday night when it came to Winchester, and evened things up nicely. Central lost the tournament 6 to 11.

There was a large turnout for the tournament, which included matches in bowling, billiards, pool and cards. Central brought close to 100 members to Winchester. Calumet took five points in bowling, the first team winning all four and the second team one; lost three points in billiards, won three in pool and three more in cards.

The feature of the visitation was the creation of a new club record on the Calumet alleys, the first team of the local club rolling a total of 1676, raising the old record of 1666 by 10 pins. The best string by this aggregation was 578. Every man of the five rolling on the first team made a total of better than 300, Marshall Berry leading with 300, which was the best total of the evening. Bray of the visitors rolled the best single with 145, although other strings close to this figure were produced. His partner Stewart, rolled a string of 144.

The individual work was particularly good all along the line, and while the Calumet second team lost the match, it nevertheless howled a good match.

Calumet lost both its billiard matches, won both pool games and both card games.

THAT SHAWL THAT MOTHER USED TO WEAR

Clothing manufacturers discussing the possibility of the use of cashmere for making boys' clothing for the spring of 1923, and the girl of today, draping about her slim slender body deep fringed scarfs after the fashion of her great grandmother of a hundred years ago, are both harking back to the time when Kashmir, the land of the 100 native states of India, had developed an industry in the production of fine woolen fabrics and was famous for its shawls.

When the Aryan youth of that land of beauty sang beside the Shalimar gardens in Srinagar of the pale hands he loved, the object of his affections probably had draped about her own youthful shoulders one of those products of the weavers' art which put Kashmir on the map, or at least made it synonymous in our minds with woolen fabrics of the softest and finest texture.

From Land of "Lalla Rookh" Always Kashmir has been famed for its beauty. The Tibetan poet Moore wrote the fitting lines of his sugar-coated romance, "Lalla Rookh," and probably long before, Srinagar, the capital of the picture-world of the fertile vale of Kashmir along both sides of the river Jhelum, the whole of the country itself lying in the foothills of the Himalayas.

Race in the reign of Napoleon Bonaparte, when that temporarily devoted husband was looking for rare gifts to please the fancy of his charming and gracious wife, he bought one of the most beautiful of the shawls for her, and from that time on the Kashmir shawls ran a long and brilliant course at the court of fickle fashion, and Srinagar developed an industry which kept the shuttle flying through 16,000 looms in the city.

Brought Here by Whalers

About the same time, American whalers and sailing vessels that were plying the Pacific, exploring, naming and renaming islands in the South Seas, made their way into the ports of India in order that the women waiting at home for the welcome of a sailor might add to their collection of treasure one of those prized light wraps which have become renowned for the glowing harmony, depth and enduring qualities of their brilliant colors.

One of the most beautiful of the elaborate designs was the "cone" pattern, the center of which was being the "ring" shawl, which, though not at all transparent, is so soft that it can easily be drawn through a finger ring. For a long time the women who happened to possess one with the delicate embroidery which made them so handsome and so costly.

the largest South American states, it is of vast extent, covers the heart of a continent, is situated in the tropics, and has flowing through it one of the world's greatest rivers, capable of carrying an empire's commerce. It is only to the Amazon, premier of rivers, that the Congo river can in truth be compared. Other great streams are longer than either, but none approaches them closely in the volumes of water which they pour into the sea. The average width of the Congo is five miles for about half its nearly 3000 miles of length, and in places it is as much as 16 miles wide.

Area One-Third That of U. S.

Perhaps the vast bulk of Belgian Congo can best be understood if one imagines the country lifted bodily, and set down on the surface of the United States. Its 909,000 square miles would cover almost exactly one-third of the area, not including Alaska. If the southwestern corner of Congo were placed in San Diego, California, the southern boundary would roughly correspond with the Mexican border, and the southeastern corner would fall at the southern point of Texas. Forming a very rough square, its northern corner would lie at Des Moines and its southwestern corner in Yellowstone Park.

But though this comparison gives a good idea of Congo's great size, its latitude and climate are far different from those of the states covered. If it were shifted to the Western Hemisphere, its latitude it would lie astride the Amazon and would cover most of the Guianas and a large slice of northern and central Brazil.

Radio Replaces Savage Drum Signals
What is unusual the Belgian Congo has had an unusual history. Livingstone and Stanley put the country "on the map" in 1877. In 1882 an international committee organized a government, called it Congo Free State, and selected King Leopold of Belgium to be its ruler. Many irregularities in the administration of the region were alleged to have resulted from this personal rule, and in 1908 Leopold ceded the territory to Belgium. A year later King Albert came to the Belgian throne, reforms were pushed in Congo, and a new constructive era began.

Measured in dollars and effort expended, much has been done to open up this personal rule, and in 1908 Leopold ceded the territory to Belgium. A year later King Albert came to the Belgian throne, reforms were pushed in Congo, and a new constructive era began.

WHO ARE THE SIKHS?

Trouble over Sikh Shrines, cable dispatches continue to inform us, is the greatest immediate danger to the peace of India.

"Does 'Sikh' mean a religion or a nationality?" is apt to be the first question asked in a discussion of the subject.

While Sikhism primarily is a religion it has placed its mark strongly on its adherents who inhabit northwestern India, says a bulletin from Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Religion Sets Them Apart
Even today, when the Sikh commonwealth no longer exists, their religion sets Sikhs apart practically as a distinct people from the followers of the Hindu and Mohammedan religions who surround them.

Sikhism originated in the important plains country of the Punjab in northwestern India, not far from the great Indus River and the mountains which form the boundary between India and Afghanistan; and this has remained the region of its greatest strength. It arose toward the close of the 15th century. The immediate cause for the birth of Sikhism seems to have been the need for a protest against the idolatry, caste system, and cruel practices of Hinduism, the fanaticism of Mohammedanism, and the subjection of women practiced by both those dominant religions.

Nanak, the "Guru" or Teacher, who founded Sikhism, struck out boldly against abuses in the religions about him. He taught there is one God, though He may be called by many names. Simplicity was emphasized. Unlike Hindus, Sikhs could eat meat, though beef was excepted.

A phase of sikhism far-reaching in its results, was its insistence on the observance of rules of health. In addition to eating what most Westerners regard as a more strengthening diet than the vegetarian fare of the Hindus, Sikhs were to have alcoholic beverages and tobacco, were to bathe daily in cold water, and were not to make pilgrimages to Hindu holy places. The practice of making pilgrimages is considered an important factor in the spreading of disease in India.

MASSACHUSETTS NEEDS A NEW STATE PRISON

After a careful personal examination of the Prison, becoming convinced that the condemnatory reports concerning it then in existence were amply justified, I introduced last winter into the Senate a bill, which was a bill designed to remove the State Prison from Charlestown to some suitable place in the country within fifty miles of Boston. This bill, in substance, provides:

1. That the Governor, with the advice of the Council, shall appoint a new State Prison Commission of three men to serve five years.
2. That the chairman of said Commission shall be the Commissioner of Correction and the other two members shall be citizens of the Commonwealth, men of broad business experience.
3. That all three members of the Commission shall serve without compensation.
4. That said Commission be empowered, subject to the approval of the Governor and Council of Boston:

- (a) To select a location for the new State Prison within fifty miles of the State House.
- (b) To make plans.
- (c) To travel to other states, if necessary, to secure information.
- (d) To let contracts.
- (e) To have charge of the construction of the new State Prison.
- (f) To sell the old Prison.

The Committee on Public Institutions, after giving a public hearing on the bill, voted unanimously to "withdrew." The petitioner again presented his cause on the floor of the Senate, stating among other things that after applying the proceeds from the sale of the Charlestown property, a conservative estimated cost of transferring the old prison from the heart of a great city to the open country, if the unskilled labor was furnished by the inmates, would be less than one million dollars, and showing further that the revenue which would immediately accrue from this change would not only pay the interest on the necessary outlay but in a very few years would liquidate the principal itself.

Of the 29 members on the floor of the Senate 2 voted for it, 12 voted against it; the others were either absent or failed to vote. The House concurred with the Senate without debate.

It is a fair question to ask, why should a matter of such importance receive such consideration in our Legislature? An answer can readily be found.

Whenever an economic question gets into legislative halls it is always in danger of becoming entangled in political meshes. Such was the case in the Legislature of 1922. The Governor had recommended state control of all the penal institutions of the Commonwealth. This aroused tremendous opposition. Hearings were held throughout the State. Able attorneys were engaged. A powerful lobby was set at work and throughout the entire session the question of who should control the penal institutions of the state was constantly in the center of the political arena. Every man in the Senate and the House was expected to take sides on this question and neither of the two camps into which the Legislature was divided wanted to advocate the building of a new State Prison. The session of the Legislature was prolonged far into June, largely on account of this question, and during the last days of the session on Beacon Hill the debates on it were the most bitter that I ever listened to.

As a result nothing was done, and I fear that we may suffer in the same way in the Legislature of 1923; for while the Governor, now convinced by the report of his personal representative, condemns the State Prison in his inaugural address in language as strong as any one could, this is accompanied by another demand for state control of county institutions.

For that reason I have decided to introduce again the bill referred to above, originally prepared at my request by an eminent painstaking attorney, in the hope that this matter may be taken up as a concrete example, which needs immediate attention before anything is said or done with reference to the much mooted question of who shall control our penal institutions.

This bill differs from the recommendations of the Governor in only two respects: one of some importance; the other of considerable importance. This bill calls for a committee of three. The Governor recommends a committee of five. Generally speaking, for executive purposes, a small committee is more efficient; but if the Governor thinks that a committee of five would be more serviceable I should be very glad to have such a committee appointed.

There is, however, one essential difference between this bill and the recommendations of the Governor. He asks to be authorized to appoint a commission to investigate and report to the next session and also to report upon the need of any change or reform in our system of prison administration.

If this plan is followed it is almost sure to precipitate another interminable debate and again delay action. Under the most favorable circumstances this commission, appointed in 1923, would report to the session of 1924, and the prison could not be built until 1925 or thereafter.

This bill calls for a committee to serve for two years from March 1, 1923, so that they would have ample time to dispose of the old Prison. They could study the situation, select sites, make plans, and build a new prison well before the end of the present year, and complete the work in 1924, before the present Governor's term of office would expire.

Now that all who have investigated the question, from the Governor down, are agreed that this change should be made, why delay longer? DO IT NOW.

A great saving in the operating expenses of the prison would immediately follow—over $50,000 a year, and probably more than twice that sum. The repairs alone on the old prison for the last ten years have cost $13,000 and must be greatly increased in the future if the prison stays in Charlestown.

No power on earth except the Legislature can change these unwholesome and wasteful conditions. Public sentiment must be aroused so that the members of the General Court will feel that they are carrying out the wishes of their constituents by voting to do away with this ancient dungeon and replacing it by such a plant as other states have found to be economical as well as conducive to the reformation of the inmates.

This is a humanitarian, educational, and economic question; not a political issue. Let us forget for a time that we favor either state or country control of penal institutions, and all get together, as fellow-citizens of a great Commonwealth, determined to wipe off the face of the earth this relic of medieval times and substitute an institution not elaborate or extravagant in its appointments, but plain, substantial, and adapted to the needs of the times, and so profiting by the experience of other forward-looking states, we can take our place among those who lead, and not those who lag far behind, in the modern method of caring for these unfortunate members of society.

I appeal to all men and women who believe that even the most unfortunate have some rights which must be respected.

I appeal to all those who believe that the supreme aim of prison discipline is the reformation of prisoners.

I appeal to business men and to organizations of business men throughout the state to lend a hand.

MUDANIA: SCENE OF NEAR EAST PEACE PARLEY

Inconspicuous as it is, Mudania, scene of the Near East peace parley, was far from being unfrequented before the World War began, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

In those days its visitors went through Mudania on the boat-and-rail trip from Constantinople to Brusa. The Turks have probably chosen Brusa's port for their conference with Allied representatives because Mudania is the nearest town, in the neutral zone of the Straits territory, to the chief Asia Minor city, which lies just across the line where the Turk rule still is absolute.

Many Petty Exactions

When the Marmara was yet an inland Turkish sea the boat from Constantinople to Mudania was apt to be late and crowded, and many travelers complained of petty exactions from porters and customs officials. While the trip was wholly within Turkish waters the city of Constantinople long levied a tax on outgoing luggage, and it was a saying that at Mudania, one had first to pay to get on the pier and then pay again to get off.

Petty annoyances cannot wholly mar a trip across the Marmara, and the western traveler who views the Asiatic coast line of this placid lake for the first time has a sight of rare beauty and probably a surprise. Capes and islands, bays and forested shores, make the approach to almost any point between Chanak and Lemniz a scene of beauty. And the mid-city of the south Marmara shore, Mudania, is no exception.

Upon landing, the illusion of a quaint and pretty town, nestling among hillside panels of olive groves, mulberry trees and vineyards, is dispelled. After one look at the ditches that do for streets, the passenger usually is willing to take the comfortable conveyance for Brusa, some fifteen miles to the southeast.

An Episode in Railway Building

This railway, built in the early nineties, used to be cited as an example of the Turk's inaptitude for engineering projects. After the line was built at extravagant cost the Turkish government bought locomotives not adapted to the tracks and wheels and locked them up for some years while the new-laid rails rusted, and the wagon road to Brusa was in almost impassable condition.

Even the critical had to admit that the road trip to Brusa, barring the bumps, was a delightful experience. The hillside stretches of olives and grapes and mulberry illustrated western Asia Minor's major function of supplying luxuries to the Western World.

Silk, tobacco, figs, olive oil and cereals constitute the normal exports of the viceroy of Brusa, wherein Mudania, before the treaty of Sevres was effected, occupied the northeastern corner.

Looks Upon Olympus and the Sea

On top a ridge some eight miles from Mudania the traveler looks back upon the red hills and white houses of the port, and forward toward Brusa, perched upon the rim of a ribbed valley, with snow-crowned Mt. Olympus rising behind this "gem city of Asia Minor."

Brusa, city of mosques and the tombs of sultans, first capital of the Turks, where clear mountain streams trickle through the streets, atones for the trip.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

Many persons who would ridicule a 1900 model automobile are using out-of-date, broken-down ranges 20 years or more old, trying to obtain modern, efficient service from them.

It simply can't be done. Old age plays just as much havoc with a range as it does with any other appliance which is used under similar circumstances.

To obtain full economy and efficiency from your gas service you must summon to your aid modern appliances, built according to present day tastes and requirements. Gas-burning equipment 20 years old is an eye sore. Furthermore, it will never make your workday easier, shorter and happier.

Use gas the modern way. Give your home a change of life. Install in it the kind of gas equipment that will enhance its beauty and give you the best of service in return.

the trip from Mudania. But Brusa is another story. If the railway ran beyond Brusa Mudania might enjoy greater prosperity, as the port of one of the richest agricultural regions of Asia Minor. Instead, Panderma, to the west, as the terminus of the railroad to Smyrna, completely eclipses Mudania, with only its short line to Brusa.

Counting some 4,000 Greeks, Mudania's normal population was only 6,000. The Greeks, of course, have departed but many Turks have clustered there in recent months.

REPORT ON SCHOOLS

Annual Statement of Committee and Superintendent

Through the courtesy of the Superintendent and School Committee, the STAR has received for publication an advanced copy of the report which will appear in the annual town report. This will undoubtedly be of interest to Winchester residents.

Report of the Winchester School Committee for the Year 1922

To the Citizens of Winchester: The School Committee look back on the past year as one of progress. The enrollment of the schools shows a steady increase. In 1922 it was 1688, in 1921 it was 1765, in 1922 it was 1824, an increase of 57 pupils over last year. An analysis of the total enrollment shows that 27% of all the children attending the Public Schools of the Town are enrolled in the High School, and that nearly one out of every three pupils entering the first grade of the elementary schools graduates from the High School.

The graduating class of the High School is between 50 and 60 pupils each year; this year the Senior class numbers 60 pupils. Comparison of attendance in the High School for December, 1922, and December, 1922 shows an increase over the preceding year of 15 pupils in the senior class, 26 in the junior class, 6 in the sophomore class, and 1 in the freshman class. While the attendance in the High School as compared with the attendance in the grades is increasing, the attendance in the upper classes of the High School as compared with the lower classes is also increasing.

Some additions and changes have been effected in the teaching staff. Several new departments have been created. Among them are a supervisor of drawing, a supervisor of the Americanization work, a supervisor of music, a teacher of printing and mechanical drawing, a teacher of the High School Principal, and an additional man teacher as head of the English Department of the High School.

The resignation of Mrs. Rho Fisk Zuehlbin of the School Committee, accepted by her, and the resignation of Mrs. Zuehlbin's place was filled by Mrs. Elsie B. Tompkins of Middlebury, Vt., who was elected to the Committee and the Board of Selectmen. Considerable time has been given to the subject of the school milk supply. The Committee has been interested in co-operation of the School Physician and the Board of Health in this matter.

During the months of February, March, April and May, 1922, from 161 to 163 pupils were furnished free milk. $407.75 was spent. This fund was raised partly by subscription, and partly by contributions from the community.

It is gratifying to learn of the increased amount of reading that is being done by the children of the Town. The Town Hall libraries; this is a great measure has been accomplished through the desire for greater knowledge of subjects in the Wadleigh and High Schools.

The conferences of the teachers of the Wadleigh and High Schools have developed an excellent correlation of the work and the subjects taught in both schools.

Excellent co-operation is shown between the parents and teachers. The Wadleigh-Prince Parent-Teacher Association has made a remarkable record during the past year and the High School Parent-Teacher Association gives promise of equal success.

The equipment of the schools is better than ever before. The most unusual and supplementary books. Pupils of the grade schools have the use of 16 to 20 books during the school year. Most of these books have been purchased within the past few years and represent the best material available in education.

The organization of the schools is also better. This is particularly true of the Wadleigh, Prince and High Schools. The grade schools all speak for themselves, a system thoroughly organized and producing excellent results.

The High School football team, a very well coached and trained organization, won the Mystic Valley Championship for the first time in ten years. This success noticeably developed a keen interest and esprit de corps in the school and throughout the Town.

Few people outside of the school organization realize how much money is raised by interested citizens for educational purposes, and for equipment not supplied by the Town.

A group of citizens interested in the Wadleigh School under the name of the Citizens' Committee on Athletics provided additional coaching for the boys' soccer, hockey and basketball teams and the Wadleigh football. The boys used the High School gymnasium and the girls used the Town Hall basketball.

SILVER TEA AND RECEPTION

There will be a silver tea and reception to the new board of the Mothers' Association at the home of Mrs. Harrison Parker, 408 Main street on Thursday afternoon, Jan. 25, from 3 to 5 o'clock. This is given by the Congregational members of the Association and a cordial invitation is extended to all members to be present. Tea in charge of Mrs. Harris Richardson and Mrs. Dodge.

MISS ELIZABETH LIVINGSTONE GAVE SLEIGHING PARTY

Miss Elizabeth Livingstone gave a sleighing party on last Saturday evening. The weather was quite right for such an affair and all present passed the time very enjoyably.

The party gathered at the home of John Kenerson and a social hour spent in dancing, was enjoyed until nine o'clock. The party then started down Grove street to West Medford, then to Medford and the Border road to Winchester, where refreshments were secured. The party then turned homeward.

Among those present were: Mrs. Robert Livingston and Mrs. Edward Kenerson, who acted as chaperones, Misses Margaret Comins, Elizabeth Crowley, Doris Bucher, Margaret Lampy, Camie Alice Eaton, Catherine Schultis, Dolly Gulick, Elizabeth Livingstone, Edward Hadley, William McCann, Louis Ronalton, Ronald Taylor, Charles J. Hart, Richard Dow and John Kenerson.

FORUM ADDRESS

Mr. R. H. Newcomb, assistant to the president of the Boston & Maine Railroad, was the speaker at the First Congregational Church on "Our Transportation Problem." Sunday, Jan. 28, right after the morning service.

Mr. Newcomb will take up the general railway subject, then go over the New England situation, paying special attention to the Boston & Maine. Here is an opportunity to learn first-hand about our railroads, "the arteries of the country," a chance to find out about the future of New England, as its life depends to a large extent on the transportation system, and a means of ascertaining the true condition of the Boston & Maine.

Are our railroads coming back? Is the Boston & Maine making progress? These and similar questions will be answered. All citizens are invited. Sunday, Jan. 28th, at 12 o'clock noon, First Congregational Church.

MRS. TIMOTHY HANSON

Mrs. Sarah T. Hanson, aged 61 years, wife of Mr. Timothy Hanson, died at the Winchester Hospital on Friday. Mrs. Hanson was a native of Andover, Mass., and lived in this town for over 30 years, where she was known to many residents. She was a member of the Church of the Holy Trinity and of the St. Elizabeth Guild.

She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Clarence Voges of Medford, N. H., and a son, Mr. Patrick Cady of this town. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. William L. Parker on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home in Winchester. There was a beautiful display of flowers and a large attendance of old friends. The interment was in Wildwood cemetery.

SUBSTITUTES REQUIRED WITH COAL

A ruling went into effect Saturday requiring that all hard coal orders contain 25 per cent substitutes. One ton of hard coal must consist of one-half ton of coal and one-half ton of coal, buckwheat or camel coal. As the latter is now unobtainable here, it means that householders must take care to obtain substitutes.

The coal situation in Winchester eased up considerably by the middle of the week, the arrival of a car of substitutes. The coal provided for students are doing their own carting, limousines and touring cars being pressed into service. We apparently have enough coal for the winter.

Delivered, the latter problem being the worrying point.

CONCERT NEXT WEEK

Next Friday evening, Jan. 23, there is to be a ladies' night at the Calumet Club. The evening's program will consist of a concert by a group of well known artists and is said to be the best presentation music lovers have heard of here this winter.

In order to have the largest attendance, the committee in charge has felt it necessary to announce that the attendance is to be limited to members of the club and their families only. The artists who will feature the program include Mrs. Florence Carroll, soprano; Chester Cook, pianist and Julius Durshakovich, violinist.

ICE IS ICE

It is interesting to watch the ice on the Horn Pond Ice Co., the local company serving Winchester, is doing its utmost to harvest its crop of ice. One thing we must give the company credit for is perseverance, for the majority of the ice companies in the State have given up the ice business long before now given up as impossible the undertaking and are making contacts in Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Even in the northern states they are scraping the ice, something unthought of by the ice company here. The usual methods of scraping by horses not giving satisfaction, a tractor was tried this week, but this too, proved unsatisfactory.

The latest scheme for reaching the ice is to break down the covering crust to the water, allowing the top to freeze again, and then cut. Experiments are being tried in this method. The ice is covered with a layer of oil, and the tractor is used to break up the top crust. By breaking up the crust it is thought the water will saturate the snow and freeze into ice.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervine Johnson are closing their house and will go to Brookline for the remainder of the winter.

"A MID-WINTER FROLIC"

Masonic Bodies of Winchester Entered at Town Hall

The Masonic bodies of Winchester, comprising William Parkman Lodge, Mystic Valley Lodge and Winchester Royal Arch Chapter, entertained nearly 800 members, ladies and guests in the Town Hall on Friday evening, and all thought the night was one of the worst of the winter, the weather failed to keep any way for a detour in the least from the attractive program, carefully prepared weeks in advance.

The affair was largely a ladies' night, although it was a fulfilling of the obligations of the three organizations to friends and fellow Masons of the town, and the program was of a variety of features, well calculated to engage the interest and provide enjoyment for all.

The program opened at eight, a variety of entertainment with musical numbers and specialties being presented as follows:

Overture by Miss Florence Fitzchambliss
Minstrel Men by the Girl of Personality
Dainty Dance "Her Own Sweet Self"
Gaily City "Hill Own Sweet Self"

Owing to the inclement weather, the address by Most Excellent Grand Master Percy W. Withersell, was given in the evening, he being introduced by Past District Deputy Grand Master Percy W. Withersell.

The dancing, with music by the military orchestra, was interspersed with the entertainment program, following a short concert by the orchestra and at 10:30 refreshments were served by a large corps of young ladies.

The hall was decorated for the affair with streamers and bunting, 150 tables being arranged in the small hall, on each side of the large hall and in the dining room, where the center of seats had been removed.

The scene during the evening was one of the most brilliant spectacles in the history of the town. The gathering occupied the numerous tables and the ladies with their evening dresses, the last corps of young ladies in the town, in their costumes, together with the attractive decorations and the group of artists providing the entertainment, made a beautiful scene not soon forgotten.

A MESSAGE TO GIRLS

The opportunities which the Massachusetts Agricultural College offers the girls of this State were told the girls of the Winchester High School by Miss Margaret Hamlin, agricultural counselor for women at the Massachusetts Agricultural College. As the college is now offering college education, which gives an outlook on life from the standpoint of science and nature, it also offers a broad field of usefulness.

For the girl who likes science there are opportunities to do scientific research work of agricultural problems in the college.

Junior extension work, the carrying on of agricultural and home economics education, which gives an outlook on life from the standpoint of science and nature, it also offers a broad field of usefulness.

Landscaping gardening often appeals to the girl of artistic temperament.

Social service work offers opportunities through agricultural extension work, which gives an outlook on life from the standpoint of science and nature, it also offers a broad field of usefulness.

For the girl who likes out-of-door work, the college offers an opportunity in raising and caring for plants, fruits and vegetables, in poultry raising and floriculture.

Besides a four-year course, giving the degree of B. S. and offering science, agriculture and some home economics, there is a two-year course for which there are no college entrance requirements. This course offers a general course which fits women for rural life and includes courses in agriculture and home economics.

There is no tuition, room and board are furnished at $120 per term, and there is an attractive new dormitory for the accommodation of the women of the State are offered a real opportunity at the Massachusetts Agricultural College.

"PEACE HAVEN"

The four-act farce comedy, "Peace Haven," which has been a success in a play of many misunderstandings, laughable situations and funny characters in the preparation of the comedy. The twists and turns of the plot are numerous, making one wonder how in the world the various characters are ever going to get out of their predicaments and the interest is sustained till the last moment and the outcome is all quite satisfactory.

The persons of the comedy are hereofore well suited to their various roles, which should add much to the success of the play. All who are interested in the comedy should be at the town hall Saturday evening.

A COMMUNITY SCHOOL DAY

The program which is being prepared by the High School Parent-Teacher Association for Tuesday, Jan. 30, contemplates what is in effect a Community School under the auspices of the Association.

Upon that day, the session of the school will be from 3:30 until 8:30 P. M. and all citizens are invited to be present throughout the entire session. The schedule for the day will include six periods, during which the subjects will be the customary program of recreation, study and physical education.

Unless all signs fail, there will be a large number who will improve this opportunity to visit our High School at an hour which will not interfere with the duties of either home or office.

Added to the attractions of a normal session of the school, there will be a variety of features, art and commercial work, a general gathering with a community "sing" in the Assembly Hall (5 to 5:30) while the subjects will be their gathering in the lunch room.

Luncheon will be served to the visitors from 6 to 7; the bill of fare and price being as usual. Here is a chance to find out just how much can be purchased for 20 cents in these days of H. C. L. It is not enough another winter, time will probably be sufficient to complete the job.

Prospective students of kindergarten who cannot be conveniently left at home will be entertained by Miss Phyllis Fitch so that the mother can be free to visit the class rooms.

Visitors will be given schedules for the day and assisted in locating the various recitations in which they are most interested.

At the close of the formal program, there will be a social hour which the school cannot be conveniently left at home will be entertained by Miss Phyllis Fitch so that the mother can be free to visit the class rooms.

By you think you will be conspicuous, you are invited to attend the Town is going to be there. Perhaps you are one of those who believe that schools should be visited when they leave school, and you show just how old fashioned are your ideas of High School. If Winchester is to be a school, it must be a school program for one day, up-to-date and interesting. So let's go there and see it. Say "Yes, I'll be there." To the invitation, "I wouldn't miss it, the idea!"

WINCHESTER MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Winchester Mothers' Association was held Wednesday afternoon in the High School Assembly Hall.

The annual meeting of the Winchester Mothers' Association was held Wednesday afternoon in the High School Assembly Hall. Mrs. Fletcher Parker presided. Mrs. Savore, the school nurse reported on milk furnished needy children. Reports from secretary, treasurer and chairman of social committee were also presented.

A pleasing program, vocal and instrumental was given by four members of the Music Group. The food table was well patronized. Refreshments and social hour followed. The newly-elected officers are:

President—Mrs. John H. Powers
1st Vice-President—Mrs. Henry F. Bryan
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Harry E. Gardner
Treasurer—Mrs. Franklin S. Hunt
Social Committee—Mrs. A. H. Dairymilk
Music Committee—Mrs. F. B. Cole and Mrs. H. Wadsworth Hunt

There will be a silver tea and reception to new officers and members of the board at the home of Mrs. Harrison Parker, 408 Main street, Thursday afternoon, Jan. 25.

During the past year the Winchester Mothers' Association has held nine regular meetings. The meeting in February being omitted on account of a severe storm.

In March Miss Marion Noyes and Mrs. Henry C. Greene gave a talk on "The Child's Personality." Reading is the first of known to the mind of a child and it requires serious study on the part of the parent to develop this.

"Playgrounds" was the subject for the April meeting and Prof. George Johnson of Harvard presented it very clearly. A child's personality is fashioned at the age of 2, the height attained at 14. He plays because he has to grow and his muscles are developing. The child's personality is fashioned at the age of 2, the height attained at 14. He plays because he has to grow and his muscles are developing.

The annual lawn party was held at the Chapin School. The children of the school entertained us with a very interesting program and at the close the Washington Chapter joined with the association in serving ice cream to all.

It has been our custom for several years to have some of the teachers speak at the September meeting. This year Mr. Hall of the High School spoke on the school program, suggesting an increase in the number of books in the school library and supervised study. Miss Pratt told of the work in the elementary grades and Mrs. Savage, our school nurse, spoke of the need of giving milk to the children and urged us to assist in increasing the fund.

The annual Teachers' and Mothers' Night occurred in October, when Mr. Gibson talked to us on the subject of "The Child's Personality." The mothers the great need of keeping in closer touch with their daughters.

Dr. Karl N. Bowman of the Boston Psychological Hospital was our speaker in November, his subject being "Dental Hygiene of the Normal Child." This talk was a great help to many of us.

The closing of the year program was an illustrated lecture by Mrs. John Hull on the Christmas meaning of the Nativity. Mrs. Hull showed many slides of famous Madonna pictures which proved to be a rare treat for those present. A silver offering was taken for the Christmas fund.

Music has been a delightful part of all our afternoons, and we are greatly indebted to Mrs. Saunders and the social committee who have worked so hard to make the social hour a pleasure for all.

Since July we have been without a president. Our first vice president, Mrs. Kathleen Lynch and Miss Helen O'Connor.

MANY SAE ECLIPSE

Many early risers Saturday morning will treat themselves to a most unusual and beautiful sight when the planet Venus was eclipsed by the moon. Although few knew what was taking place, the sight was one not soon to be forgotten. Just at day-break the brilliant star appeared to attach itself to the planet Venus, and in fact being visible even when the sun had risen. It made an impressive and beautiful sight. According to astronomers the eclipse proved of no scientific value, and at no period was the star completely hidden by the crescent of the moon.

FEED THE WILD BIRDS

Winthrop Packard, Secretary of the Massachusetts Audubon Society earnestly urges everyone to feed the wild birds. The ice and deep snow cover their accustomed food supply and thousands of feathered friends will starve to death in bitter cold if we do not feed them. Give them scraps from the table, chaff from the hay-mow, grain and seeds of any kind. Put the food out near the house where you can watch them from a window. A good way is to set a common packing box on the snow with the opening toward the house. Scatter the grain on the top of the box and put more inside. The birds will find it and the box will keep it from being buried in the next snow. You will find it very pleasant to watch these birds feed and you will be surprised to find how much they need. One found they will go back and forth to the food all winter long.

Our winter birds withstand even the severest cold if well fed. But when the snow covers the frozen insects, dormant larvae, eggs and seeds of weeds on which they naturally feed, they often starve in great numbers. Feed them then in your yard and near your house, in the fields and woods if you wish. Almost any feed is suitable for use. Grain and "scratch-feed" scattered on trampled snow or under evergreen trees will keep the quail, pheasant, grouse and other smaller birds well fed. In fact, crumbs and chaff from the barn floor are cheap and useful. Hemp and sunflower seed, wild bird seed, and especially nutmeats are most attractive to many birds. With bits of broken peanut you may coax chickadees and nuthatches to eat out of your hand. Very many people are successful in this, and such and split marrow bones, refuse meat, all are eagerly eaten.

To feed the birds is a fine philanthropy. In saving them we save ourselves for the birds are of great value in the economy of nature. The Massachusetts Audubon Society, Boston, Mass., will gladly give further information concerning methods and material for this work.

EPHRAIM MEN'S CLUB DINNER

WINCHESTER COUNCIL BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

The first meeting of the year of the Winchester Council was held on Jan. 10th, at which time reports were received by the Council from the treasurer, Scout Commissioner F. H. Smith and Scout Executive A. E. Butters. There was also a review of the work accomplished during the past year for the boys of Winchester given by Mr. Merton P. Stevens, President of the Council.

Mr. Stevens has been most unanimously elected president of the Council for the coming year and the hearty response which he received from the Council members present showed that the time and effort that he has given to this work has been greatly appreciated.

The Council had a very interesting meeting, hearing from the Regional Scout Headquarters of New England through Henry H. Willard, Deputy Regional Scout Executive. The work which has been done throughout New England by the Regional Executive in building up and taking care of smaller localities where there does not seem to be the interest among the older boys in the scout movement that there should be, shows that a great deal of true missionary work is to be done to help scouts get the benefit of this wonderful work and organization.

Guests were asked and answered for the benefit of the council and the first meeting of 1923 developed into one of the most interesting and profitable meetings that has been held for a long time.

The reports which were rendered by our own local officers show that this work among the boys has been greatly stimulated during the past year. It is to be regretted that the townspeople have not seen their way clear to back up the scout movement in Winchester in a better way financially than has been the response to the letters sent out in November. Thirty of our representative citizens are giving their time and energy to foster and help this idea in Winchester and the rest of our citizens surely should show their appreciation by supporting the movement by a two-dollar contribution.

ELEANOR HILL AND DOROTHY ABBOTT ARE PROMINENT IN COLLEGE ACTIVITIES

Students from Winchester and vicinity are making a record at Boston University. College of Secretarial Science both in scholarship and in college activities. Since the college has an enrollment of nearly 1000 students coming from states from Maine to California, and from several foreign countries, the holding of positions of prominence are correspondingly hard to obtain.

Two Winchester students, Eleanor Hill and Dorothy Abbott, seniors, will participate in a German play "Eisenstein" to be given by members of the German Club on all-German night, Feb. 9. Miss Hill will take the part of "Hilmarich" a servant and Miss Abbott will give a German dance. The play deals with the trials of the male members of a modern family who try to force their wives and sweethearts to say "Thank Heaven, the table's set!" Being up-to-date, the women refuse to be dictated to—with interesting results. Following the performance, German dances will be given.

Miss Hill and Miss Abbott are members of Theta Psi Omega Sorority. In her Junior year, Miss Hill was on the "Sivard" board, the "Sivard" being the junior year book, was secretary of the Junior class, president of the English club and its student government representative. She also belonged to the Dramatic Club, Athletic Association, and Y. W. C. A. This year she is secretary of the Student Government Board.

Miss Abbott is a member of the French Club, Dramatic Club and Athletic Association. Other students from this vicinity are prominent in college activities. Miss Grace Woolley of Malden was elected secretary of the sophomore class. Miss Jean Wear of Medford was elected treasurer of the sophomore class. She will also give a German dance on German night.

POPULAR WINCHESTER GIRL ILL WITH MENINGITIS

Miss Winifred Vago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Vago of Arthur street, one of the most popular members of the Junior class at the High School, is seriously ill at her home with spinal meningitis. Latest reports hold out little hope for her recovery, although it is stated that she has a chance to live, even in a weakened condition. Her previous strong and healthy condition gives this chance.

News of Miss Vago's condition is a source of grief to every scholar at the High School. She was very popular and most affectionately regarded by her classmates.

The cause of Miss Vago's condition has not been determined. At the girls' athletic meet just before Christmas she received a bad fall when performing some of the work. She was taken home and was later on and about, although suffering from its effects. It is said that later serious and continuing headache developed. Physicians, it is reported, are undecided whether she has a fractured skull or an injured brain.

A DELIVERY MANAGER'S OPINION

To the Editor of the Star:
As delivery manager for The Winchester Laundry, Inc. with a fleet of 40 trucks operating in and around 32 different cities and towns, it is pleasant to note that the Winchester streets are in better condition for traffic than any other territory we cover, with the exception, perhaps, of Brookline.
Great credit is certainly due those who are responsible for the good work which has been done through the snow storms.
Harry J. Pickering.

WINCHESTER LOSES A CLOSE GAME AT WINTHROP

Playing their third league game of the season, Winchester High came out on the small end of a 13 to 11 score in the basketball game at Winthrop on last Tuesday afternoon. It was a poor form to make alibis but Winchester was certainly suffering from a jinx of some sort in the game. Playing all around Winthrop the local boys had the ball in the r own territory for the majority of the game and though they had many more shots at the basket than did their opponents the ball seemed to be adverse to dropping in. On the other hand Winthrop had but few tries for floor goals, but made the most of them.

Winer playing what was by far the best basketball displayed by any individual on either team, did not get a single basket and caged but three fouls. His defense and dribbling were exceptional and time after time he took the ball through the entire Winthrop team only to miss the basket by a scant few inches.

Captain Tansey did not seem to be able to get going in the first half, but at the beginning of the second he started and before the whistle blew had scored four baskets, being the only Winchester man to score from the floor.

O'Donnell started at center and played his usual good game. He was able to get going in the first half, but at the beginning of the second he started and before the whistle blew had scored four baskets, being the only Winchester man to score from the floor.

The playing together of French and Kendrick became better and better as the game progressed. French and Kendrick had it not been for their wide-awake Winthrop might have been able to show up much better. Captain Winthrop of the Winthrop team was their star. He jumped well at center and then dropped back to guard in first class style.

HEDJAZ, WHERE MOUNTAINS AND RELIGION SAY "KEEP OUT!"

The possibility that Hedjaz will send an envoy to Washington raises the interesting question: Where would an American Minister to Hedjaz live where he appointed? Save a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

The former Emir of Mecca is King of Hedjaz and his capital is Mecca, which no Christian is allowed to enter and where every Mohammedan is supposed to go at least once.

Imagine the Crusades conducted on tourist trains at special convention rates and you sense something of the geography which attaches to the Muslim throngs who make the steel-rail pilgrimage to Mecca.

Throw Stones at Satan
At Medina the faithful leave the modern coaches to proceed alone to the pilgrim trail to Mecca. Before entering the gates of their holy city they discard all garments to put on their worshipers' uniform: apron and a piece of cloth thrown over their left shoulder. There these modern Moslems engage in the historic round of ceremonies which include the stinging of Satan and slaughter of sheep.

All passengers other than Mohammedans must leave the railway trains at El-Medina and to Moslems who enter Hedjaz by steamer approach no nearer Mecca than the Holy City of Petra, Judea. The city of Medina, where the bones of the Prophet are believed to repose, also is forbidden, though visitors are not excluded from its environs, nor is it so jealously guarded as Mecca.

The Damascus-Medina railway, built to facilitate a religious ceremony, enabled Feisal to throw off the Turkish yoke along the Red Sea, turning over the sovereignty there to his father, the present ruler, while he entered Damascus ahead of Allied forces and proclaimed himself King of Britain's Mesopotamian manditory.

Geography Conspires With Religion
Geography conspires with religion in Hedjaz. Before the war no region had been less accurately mapped and contained more untraversed areas than Arabia. This isolation, in Central Arabia, arises from the vast desert; Arabia's far west, or Hedjaz, is a bannister for other reasons. There the mountains masses of broken granite, and lava surfaces which resemble a newly ploughed field of many tracks, forestall travel and often forbid habitation.

In area and shape Hedjaz is comparable to California. In one other respect it resembles our El Dorado State. Its mountain masses swirl into a figure 8, effectively cutting off northern Hedjaz from the southern part. The Hedjaz escarpment. Instead of abundant fertility in the loop of the "8" the southern division of Hedjaz is a lean land, which even Bedouin tribes can not sustain an extensive corn. There a few ancient and once by cultivating the occasional arable patches and by leaving tribute upon the pilgrims, Mecca dominates this region; hence the Sherief of Mecca was a strong figure under Turkish rule and now finds himself independent, largely owing to geography.

Lava Wedge Spits Hedjaz
The barrier that spits Hedjaz into a triangular plateau, a lava with its apex pointed to Rabigh, the seaport where the British landed supplies to aid the Arab uprising against the Turks. One route around this mass lies along the sea by Rabigh, the other is far inland by way of Medina. Its rough surface makes this lava-table impassable. Lack of water makes it uninhabitable. "Sale" another week.—F. E. Barnes. There was a large turnout at the Calumet Club last Saturday night to hear Mr. Edward E. Whiting of the Boston Herald, who spoke before the members on "Newspapers, Politics and People." Widely known as the special writer of Washington news and conductor of the celebrated "Whiting's Column" in the Herald, the speaker gave a talk both interesting and witty—as was to be expected. His anecdotes and reminiscences of life at the nation's capital, serious and amusing, was most enjoyable to his hearers, and he was called upon to answer innumerable questions, both political and personal. He was accorded quite a reception during the evening. Following the talk a collection was served.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Monday afternoon program, as arranged by the Music Committee, with Mr. Leon Tamarkin, pianist, and Miss Florence Hermon, contralto, as the artists, was exceptionally fine and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Owing to a misunderstanding as to directions for reaching Winchester given to him at the North Station, Mr. Tamarkin's arrival was somewhat delayed. Miss Hermon kindly offered to give her entire program with only slight periods of rest in order to keep the audience entertained while waiting for Mr. Tamarkin. Miss Hermon has an extremely pleasing personality and a voice of unusual range and richness of tone. Her intelligent interpretation of the various songs in her two programs of selections as well as her remarkably clear enunciation, added much to her audience's enjoyment of her performance. Mrs. Watkins was accompanied at the piano.

In spite of the unexpected circumstances of his late arrival Mr. Tamarkin's performance was truly remarkable. He is a young man of an emotional artist. Through the very spirit of his playing he seemed to cast over his audience the spell of poetry and mysticism with which his whole being seemed to be inspired. His technique is excellent. Though only seventeen, Mr. Tamarkin, already shows ability as a composer. As he is to continue his studies in New York next year those who have heard him play this winter have been extremely fortunate.

Owing to an error in the Year Book, Mr. Tamarkin's name was incorrectly spelled in last week's notice. Mr. Loring Underwood's lecture on Monday, Jan. 22, with treasured photographs of Old New England Gardens is very fine and should be heard by all. No complimentary tickets are issued on this day. Members are admitted free. Mrs. Joseph W. Atwill will speak on legislation and as State chairman of Legislation she is an authority on her subject. Mrs. Theodore Smith will play the violin. This is a meeting not to be missed.

The Social Committee, at the close of the meeting on Monday, Jan. 22, will have tickets for the play "Billeted" to be given on Guest Night, Feb. 26th. Members are asked to obtain tickets of admission at this time so that the social committee may be able to plan for the refreshments.

The play "Billeted" which is to be given this year on Guest Night under the direction of the Dramatic Committee was written a few years ago by F. Tennyson Jones and H. M. Harwood for Miss Margaret Anglin, star Mr. Frank Fowle of Malden is the coach and the cast of twelve is doing unusually well under his supervision.

Six talks on the family and home are to be offered by the Home Economics Committee. Mrs. Gladys Jones will give two lectures on "The Well Dressed Woman" on Thursdays, Feb. 8 and 15 at 2:30 P. M. Mrs. Elsie Chambliss, who has just returned from studying decoration in New York, will give two talks on "The Well Dressed Woman" on Thursdays, March 8 and 15 at 2:30 P. M. Telephone Mrs. Balke 118 R.

Those who were fortunate enough to witness tickets for Mrs. Census Bullock's series of lectures, enjoyed the rare privilege. Thursday morning of going through the stained glass studio of Reynolds, Francis and Reynolds, personally conducted by Mr. Reynolds, and Mrs. Dallin. Mr. Reynolds explained first, the general principles of stained glass windows, and the steps through which they must pass to completion. The glass is not stained but is brought from England in sheets of color, ruby, blue, green, gold, violet, and the pieces are cut out from a paper pattern made from the original design. The details, faces, etc., are traced upon the glass with an opaque, vitriolable pigment, which, when fired, becomes a part of the glass. After firing, the pieces of glass are placed upon the table and heated, the joints soldered, and last a water proof cement applied to each side. It is most interesting to see such process. Mr. Francis, putting in the details on the beautiful mosaic of tiny pieces of colored glass, assembled upon a large plate glass case. Mr. Kronstock, selecting and cutting the glass; and finally the putting together of the hundreds of pieces, with lead and solder.

The morning ended with lantern slides showing glorious windows of the 12th to 16th centuries, lovely jewel like modern windows, and windows which do not fulfill the requirements of stained glass, being most frequently of the pictorial type, a picture in glass. A stained glass window which is a work of art should be designed from the standpoint of pure decoration.

The next lecture by Mrs. Dallin will be at 10 A. M. on Feb. 1st in the Fortnightly Room, the subject being, "The Civic Value of Paucity." Mr. James Walker, a teacher in the Town High School, is to be the speaker in the "Fundamentals of Citizenship" Class. There are to be six one hour lectures given in the Fortnightly Committee Room on Friday afternoons beginning January 26th at 2:15. New members may be enrolled at the first meeting. Any Winchester woman interested in this subject may join this free class. Come to learn more about the machinery of our government.

Mrs. Joseph Atwill, our State legislative chairman, will be at the meeting January 29th, to explain the measures which are to come before the delegates at the mid-winter Federation meeting for endorsement. Mrs. Atwill thoroughly understands her subject and will interpret the bills of particular interest to women.

Saturday forenoon a Pierce Arrow truck driven by James F. Dunn of Everett and a Ford truck owned by the James J. Fitzgerald Contracting Co., and driven by W. R. Carroll of Oak street, collided on Main street near the Jenny capsule station. The Ford was considerably damaged, its rear end being sprung and its cross rod broken.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the home of Mrs. Annie Blash, 8 Wedge Pond road on Friday, Jan. 19. In conducting the devotional service Mrs. Hamilton paid loving tribute to the memory of Mrs. Jennie Lott, Mrs. Margaret Chaffin and Mrs. Martha Kelley, three local members who have passed on. They were heavenly home during the past year. Reports given by the different superintendents of various departments showed much work accomplished. It was decided to hold a rummage sale early in April and members and friends are urged to save anything and everything suitable for such a sale.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Charles Forsyth; vice presidents representing the First Congregational Church, Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Felt; Baptist Church, Mrs. Lorenzo Crowell; Methodist Church, Mrs. John Mason; Episcopal Church, Mrs. George Arnold; Second Congregational Church, Mrs. Jennie Chaffin; secretary, Mrs. Frank Roberts; treasurer, Miss Eugenia M. A NEW HOME FOR AGED WOMEN

To the Editor of the Star:

Tuesday, Jan. 30, from 2 to 5 p. m., the new Harriet E. Sawyer Home for Aged Women will hold services of dedication. This home was opened three years ago last fall as the White Ribbon Home for Aged Members of the Massachusetts Women's Christian Temperance Union, occupying buildings used during the war as a hotel for the women relatives and friends of the soldiers at Camp Devens who came to visit them. Last fall it was transferred to its present location, 22 Parker street, Malden, where there are now 29 women enjoying the care and comforts needed in the evening of life.

For the dedication Mrs. Arabella Wood Wilson, of Malden is chairman of the committee and has arranged an attractive program of music by Mrs. Lillian Evans Marshall of Esch Bluff and Mrs. Edith S. Wilson of Melrose. Mayor Kimball of Malden will give an address of welcome and Mrs. James T. Elder, now of Tremont Temple but formerly located at Ayer, will conduct the religious portion of the service. Mrs. Mary E. Frost, president of the White Ribbon Home Corporation will speak of the home and of the work of Mrs. Sawyer, for whom it is named and who has received much praise.

Following the program there will be a reception by the officers: Mrs. Mary E. Frost of Dorchester, President; Mrs. Alta H. Bliss of Ayer, Secretary; Mrs. Helen H. Foster of Boston, Treasurer; Miss Caroline E. Caswell, Vice President, is now in Florida and cannot be present. Tea will be served.

STRING QUARTET GIVES PROGRAM IN INSTITUTE COURSE

A string quartet concert under the direction of Joshua Phippen of Winchester, which was the second event on the program of the Essex Institute free lecture course at Salem was given before an audience before every war in Academy hall. The four artists, who were Irene M. Nelson, first violin; Gertrude Feltner, second violin; Marion Woodsum, viola and Helen W. Wood of Winchester, collectively did some remarkably fine work in this satisfactory, difficult combination. It has been said that there is no combination on a higher artistic plane in the whole range of music than the string quartet and the players Monday evening showed a careful study and agreement of interpretation and feeling. The selections chosen were well adapted to playing, resulting in a pleasing concert.

The program was divided into four groups. The first group, including a quartet in D minor, Allegro, Andante, Scherzo and Presto by Franz Schubert; the second group, three short works of Alfred Schumann, namely, the old English folk song, "Drink to me only with thine eyes," "Ave Maria" and "Song of the Lark"; the third group, three short selections, "The Sandman," "Lullaby," by C. S. Schumann, and "The Waltz," by P. Tchaikovsky, seemed to be the favorite of the audience as Andante Cantabile was received with much appreciation as the first piece of the fourth group. Les Valse, by F. Chopin, and "The Waltz," by A. Liszt, was the last number in that group and also on the delightful program.

Miss Miriam Cobb, a senior at Framingham Normal School, teaches domestic science Thursday and Friday of each week in the Arlington High School.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Love is the greatest thing in the world—except Loyalty.

We see an article in an exchange about "business men" who do not advertise. But if they are real "business men" they DO advertise.

About the only Winchester man who doesn't make a fool of himself occasionally is the one that nature saved the trouble.

A Chicago man choked on a button in his soup. Maybe the soup was made out of "dressed" beef.

It's warm in Florida.

When you visit the High School next Tuesday, don't forget to knock —that is, going in.

The new song at the High School, broadcast for the first time next Tuesday, is said to be "Three O'clock in the Afternoon."

Undoubtedly by this time you have seen to it that there is a path shoveled for the coal man. Dealers reported last week that they were classified by some of our residents as a snow shovel as well as a shovel of coal.
Not so!

Although town politics have not broken through yet, they are growing hot, and our March election promises to be as active as ever. Still, it is about time that those loving friends to begin to urge the shy and retiring candidate to allow his name to be placed before the populace.

The Star is again called upon to record this week the passing of one of its prominent citizens. In the death of David N. Skillings a citizen of the past generation leaves us one who, by his upright character, his influential and civic interest, may well be classed as a builder of the Winchester of today. Of a retiring disposition, his acts of kindness and generosity have been heralded abroad, but there are many in Winchester today who can testify to his help, both of a private and public nature, and one and all mourn him.

NOT THE RESULT OF MR. SANDERSON'S WISHES

To the Editor of the Star:

There is an intimation in your communication of last week that the school superintendent had met with the school committee other than his chairman were not invited to the football team banquet because of Mr.
Sanderson's wishes. Mr. George Barbure, Vice Commander, and Mr.
Louis E. Goddard, Post Adjutant of the Legion, which was the host of the banquet, have just called upon me to say that the omission was not the result of Mr. Sanderson's wishes. They have explained that the number of guests were asked to pay enough which they had to spend and that therefore they were obliged to select their guests. They were particularly intended to assure me that no slight was intended to the uninvited ones.
They expressed the belief that no slight would have been felt if they had not been for the unfortunate publicity given the affair by the Boston papers.
I am glad to state that I feel sure intended to slight no one, but I am unable to change my own personal opinion that under all the circumstances the Legion made a mistake, and that it was unfortunate that the members of the school committee and the superintendent were not among the invited guests.

FROM THE SALVATION ARMY

To the Editor of the Star:

As we review the results of the year in our work, we analyze the contributing factors to our great success, and as we undertake to bestow credit where credit is due, it becomes a stupendous task to say enough about the part played by the public press and the columns edited by you.

Your paper has been generous in its news space and strong and unflinching in its editorial columns, quick to sense and reflect public opinion, instrumental in winning new blood and new friends to the cause of suffering humanity and thus to the cause of The Salvation Army. You have been most inspirational and above all else, you have been absolutely fair.

May I, in this small way, express my sincere appreciation of these things and for the indispensable moral support that you have given to our workers.

I pray that you may be abundantly blessed with the things that will bring the greatest happiness ever known to you during the New Year and may you prosper by your own good work.

Cordially and sincerely,
W. A. McIntyre, Colonel.

SWEDISH GIRLS DO LOOK IN MIRRORS

To the Editor of the Star:
Would you kindly tell us where you get that information in regard to Sweden that you wrote about in the last issue of your paper. I have lived in Sweden for about 20 years, but never heard of anything of the kind.
If you have some facts to write about Sweden give it to us, but please stop kidding yourself with such silly stuff as that.

—A Son of Sweden
Our correspondent evidently refers to the following paragraphing. It was pleasure that we correct this false impression.

Mirror Gazing Barred
In Sweden it is a popular superstition that a girl must not look in a mirror after dark by the aid of any artificial light, under pain of losing all attraction for the opposite sex.

EPHRAIM MEN'S CLUB DINNER

The Men's Club of the Church of the Epiphany held its regular dinner and smoke talk at the parish hall on Wednesday evening, May, following the attendance of about 50 members. The occasion was of especial interest to men of the parish in that it was the first informal occasion for greeting the new rector of the church, Rev. Allen Evans, Jr.

A most appetizing turkey supper was served by a committee of ladies of the church headed by Mrs. Thomas L. Freeman, assisted by Mrs. W. H.
Cole, Mrs. Joshua Kelley, Mrs. Alice
Cole, Mrs. E. B. Smalley, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. M. Smith, Mrs. Rufus Clark, Mrs. John J. Whittlesey, Mrs. Alfred
L. Radley, Mrs. Douglas N. Graves,
Mrs. Edward B. Smalley, Mrs. Lawrence G. Holden, Mrs. A. Miles Holbrook and Mrs. Everett W. Ginn.

The singing was led by Mr. Henry K. Fitts, with Mrs. Arthur B. Corbitt.
President John J. Whittlesey presided and Rev. Mr. Evans led in the prayer. His very effective remarks, light and serious, instantly communion him to his hearers. A tribute to the late Robert W. Hart was paid by Mr. Alfred S. Higgins stating the cas-so far as the parish is concerned in the campaign to raise a million dollars for the new hospital at Cambridge. Mr. Douglas N. Graves, former president of the club, present after a long illness, was given a warm welcome.

The speaker of the evening was Chaplain W. Bradley Whitney of the State Prison, who gave a very interesting talk, illustrated with abundant stereoscopic views of the prison and reference to the proposed new prison, supporting the move.

The dinner and evening was voted the best yet held by the club.

AMERICAN RADIO AND RESEARCH CORP.

WGI, Medford Hillside, Mass.
165 Main (Amrad)

The desire on the part of the radio audience for practice in the reception of Code Signals has encouraged WGI to insert a fifteen minute period in its program each evening for this particular purpose. In answer to a query broadcast some weeks ago asking if radio fans desired this instruction over three hundred replies were received and almost as many telephone calls. The radio audience seems eager to learn what the mysterious dots and dashes are saying. Not a few letters have been written in the vein that "if we must listen to these darn things, let us know how to interpret them." It is believed that practice in Code will encourage many of the citizen radiophans at present interested only in listening to to become real "DX" enthusiasts in amateur work. There is no doubt the ability to read Code will eliminate many caustic comments passed on the interruptions by amateurs and commercial stations during broadcasting hours.
These lessons are being placed on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 8:45 P. M. Each lesson will be repeated the night following at

East give a TWO piano Recital from Radio phone WGI on Tuesday, February 1st at 8 o'clock. The program will include at 8:30 P. M. Numbers by Arensky, Chopin and Debussy, grace their program.
A season of good music is assured the radio audience. Soprano solo by Mrs. Kathleen Cunningham are on the program as well.

RADIO VISITING DAY

INAUGURATED

A Radio Visiting Day has been established whereby New England Radiohams may visit the Amrad Station at Medford Hillside. People who might listen to this or that broadcasting station have a certain privilege to see what the station and the faces of the announcers look like, as well as "how the darn thing works." Heretofore, the main reason why the big broadcasters have not invited their audience to visit them has not been because they were not wanted, but because there was not sufficient space to accommodate all those who might care to come.

This main difficulty has been eliminated at the WGI Studio by a drawing system which, it is believed, will be adopted, with more or less modification to fit local needs, by other broadcasting stations all over the country.

The drawing system works as follows: Those desiring to visit the Broadcasting Station are invited by radiophone to make application. These applications are numbered. Then a list of numbers is put in a hat and a drawing is made by a Committee.
Those numbers selected are the invited guests of Amrad at the first convenient date. This visiting plan was first put in operation at Amrad last Friday evening when at 10:20 P. M.
Amrad "HDH" broadcasted that all listeners desiring to visit the next night would be included in the first drawing. Over 500 letters were received, including special deliveries and telegrams. One resident within a few miles of the Station came over in person, his automobile being the first to break through the drifts on the snow-covered road.

At present rate of application Radio Visiting Day will be a regular feature for many months to come.

WINCHESTER CIRCLE GAVE BRIDGE PARTY

The Winchester Circle of the Florence Crittenton League held a most enjoyable and largely attended annual bridge party in the Town Hall on Tuesday for the benefit of its quota towards the building fund. Three hundred ladies participated in the game, and the evening was a most successful one.

The honors were won by Mrs. W.
Walker, Mrs. Henry Chapman, Mrs.
Vincent Farwell, Jr., and Mrs. C.
S. Barry. The prizes were all donated and the thanks of the committee are due to Mrs. W. E. Schaffert, Mrs.
Leslie Cole, Mrs. T. G. Abbott and Mrs. J. E. Sexton for their generous and attractive contributions for the winners. The remaining prizes were contributed by the members of the committee.

The afternoon was in charge of the following members of the Winchester Circle:

Mrs. J. H. Blackwell, Mrs. Herbert Goffe,
Mrs. William L. Hall, Mrs. Rufus Clark,
Mrs. William L. Hall, Mrs. Rufus Clark,
Mrs. Nathan Schroeder, Miss Marjorie Barr.

Not Many Women Color Blind.
The number of women who are color blind is very small as compared to the number of men so afflicted.

EXCEPTIONAL CONCERT

The concert given Tuesday evening at the Calumet Club in observance of Ladies' night was of exceptional quality, the affair being planned by the entertainment committee as the banner event of the season at the Club. Owing to the exceptionally large attendance, the attendance was limited to members and their families only, it not being felt that the club hall would accommodate any outsiders. The rule proved a wise one, for the attendance numbered close to 200.

Mrs. Florence Ferrell, soprano; Julius Dureshkaivich, violinist; and Chester Cook, pianist, were the contributing artists, and the trio gave what many music lovers who attended stated was the finest program heard in Winchester during the past year.
The program was as follows:

Humana Dance, Winiarski
Soprano, Dureshkaivich, Violinist Waiting (Old English air), Milford
Duet, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
Duet, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
Song of the open sea, Ferrell
Melody, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
Garcin-Vale, Tschakovsky
Farfalla (The Butterfly), Winiarski
Aria, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
Aria, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
Waltz, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
Paraphrase from Rigoletto, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
Berceuse, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
Guitar, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
Low Adieu, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
April Evening, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
You Cannot Little thing, Dureshkaivich, Violinist
Love I have won you, Dureshkaivich, Violinist

The signal not only is said to be an exceptionally good warning of danger, but will save considerably in the work of placing the lighted lanterns on each night and collecting them each morning.

FOURTH ANNUAL LEGION SHOW

The annual dramatic production of the local post of the American Legion is an event which is looked forward to with much interest by those who attend Winchester's amateur theatrical performances. This year an exceptionally good play, "The Black Feather" will be staged on Saturday, Feb.
17th.

Among those who will make up the cast are the following Legionaries:

Animals Good Friends.
Animals are such agreeable friends
—they ask no questions, they pass no criticisms.—George Eliot.

HUNGARY'S GREAT LAKE RUNS AWAY

Even the lake is running away from the schiefers.

By a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society, are the ways of Hungary explaining the mysterious behavior of Hungary's and Central Europe's greatest body of fresh water, Lake Balaton, while scientists are silent. The lake, until recently brimming full, now seems on the way toward drying up.

If Seneca Lake or Inake Tache were within fifty miles of Washington to serve as the Capital's pleasure resort and were rapidly drying up for no apparent reason, says the bulletin, it would cause something of a commotion. Just such a commotion is being stirred up now in Western Hungary where Lake Balaton, in easy automobile reach to the southwest from Budapest, is shrinking season by season.

Only Important Hungarian Lake

Balaton is the only lake of any importance in Hungary. During the summer season the people of Budapest flock there by rail and automobile, and the day's temperature of the water is as dominant a topic of conversation as is the fairness of the sky to the holiday goffer back home. But almost monthly of late one could note the lake's behavior. But the wags among the vacation crowds are less reticent and explain with a chuckle that "even the lake is running away from the schiefers"—the slang term for the war-piters who have taken a heavy toll in Hungary as in the remainder of Central Europe.

Lake Balaton is some 45 miles long and varies in width from three to ten miles. Its maximum area was 420 square miles including flood marsh lands and its greatest depth more than 100 feet. On the north rugged hills approach the lake, contributing a picturesque beauty to the scene.

There are many villa buildings. To the south, east, and west, however, the rolling Hungarian plains reach up to the now receding shore-line.

Inland "Atlantic City"

Siofok, on the southeastern shore, is the diminutive inland Atlantic City of Hungary. So many war-torn peasants make their homes there that it is called "the town of millionaires."

But the quarters near the lake yield the resort's true savor. There Siofok is seen to be a place of restaurants and villa-like hotels, cabarets and dancing pavilions, gaming casinos, hand-stands, bathhouses, boating piers. One omission may stir conflicting emotions in the breasts of American tourists to Siofok, depending on their aims and tastes: there are nooney Island amusements.

Bathing at Siofok is not a thing of exhilaration. The water is usually placed and heated on a shore, and it feels as though fresh from a hot-water tap ministered to by an efficient janitor. Farther from shore the water is cooler, but the water swim must wade a seemingly interminable distance. Some American tourists, in a hurry for their sports, solve the problem by dashing lakeward in motor-boats and swimming from their advanced base.

No Bathing Suit Censors

No bathing suit censors patrol the beach at Siofok, and the Hungarian maidens who bathe there are as little hampered by modesty as are their distant sisters at Ostend.

The automobile ride from Budapest to Siofok gives a characteristic view of the country as it struts across-land through the edge of the famous plains of Hungary. On an excellent road one whizzes past quaint villages of mud-brick dwellings with tiled thatched roofs, picturesque Gipsy camps, carefully cultivated fields, and above all through a grazing country of dairy cattle and grunting swine; and here and there a goose-girl, in colorful peasant garb, minds her hissing flock. From these rural scenes one looks over a hill and comes suddenly upon Hungary's Atlantic City.

High School, Winchester, Mass.

Dear Mr. Faussey:

Doubtless your attention has been called to the fact that there have been a number of articles reported missing at the High School. Ordinarily the persons making such reports claim that the material which is reported as stolen, may I not present to you the situation as it is.

We have established this year a Lost and Found Department under the efficient direction of Miss Weeks. We find that continually there are large numbers of books taken to the building. At the present time there are approximately fifty books which have not been claimed. She informs me that up to date through the medium of this department twenty-five pocket-books have been returned to their owners. These pocket-books, of course, were left carelessly about the building.

Not long ago a young woman went to wash her hands. Very carelessly she left the ring upon the washstand. It was reported to be missing. The ring has been returned.

Some time ago a patrol of the school reported to me that five pocket-books had been stolen during a period of physical examination for young women. Upon investigation I found that two pocket-books had been very carelessly mislaid and the two pocket-books were returned to the owners.

Very recently a mother notified me that her daughter's bloomers had been stolen. We went through the lockers, found the bloomers and called to account the young woman assigned to the locker where the bloomers were found. They claimed that they did not know that the bloomers were in the locker. Shortly afterwards the girl who lost the bloomers came with a friend and apologized, explaining that she had told this friend that whenever she wished to borrow her bloomers, she might do so. The friend had borrowed the bloomers and by mistake returned them to the wrong locker, thus causing all this trouble.

Not long ago a new overcoat was found to be missing. Upon comparing notes with the High School in Lexington, where about the same time a new overcoat had been stolen, and taking the matter up with the police, we found that a professional thief had made away with the coat.

The situation, therefore, resolves itself to this. The Winchester High School is a public institution where "all the children of the people" are permitted to attend. These children while they follow the rules and regulations and behave themselves to the best knowledge of the school authorities may retain their memberships. Without doubt under such conditions of admission a few will be found who do not live up to the standards of good school citizenship. Among this number are those who are prone to regard the property of others as lightly and who therefore are apt to become involved in what is commonly known in the school vernacular as petty thieving. It is a matter which is very difficult to detect. This is a prevalent trouble in every public school in the United States. One needs but to read the daily newspapers to find constant reports of thieving in the various schools in our immediate vicinity. However, a very large percentage of the articles which are reported as stolen, upon investigation are found to be carelessly mislaid or lost by the owner.

I do not know of a high school where the effects of the pupils are so closely guarded by the members of the faculty and those connected with the school as in the Winchester High School, and I imagine that if comparison were made in the matter of petty thieving with other schools, we should find that our record would appear very favorable. To improve further this guarding of the effects of the pupils, there is immediate need of more lockers both in the girls' and boys' locker rooms, and of certain repairs to those lockers which we already have. However, I believe that fundamentally the whole matter comes back to the training in the home. We in the school will ceaselessly endeavor to work upon these problems, and if every parent will emphasize with equal vigor the matter of having his children brought up to their personal possessions and those of others, any trouble in the way of lost articles will be reduced to a very desirable minimum.

Very truly yours,

C. E. Farnham,

Superintendent of Schools,

Winchester, Mass.

"THE BLACK FEATHER"

On Saturday evening, February 17th, the local post of the American Legion will present "The Black Feather," a melodrama in four acts. The play is one which will sustain the interest of the audience from the opening scene until the final curtain.

These who have seen the former Legion shows, "Officer 666," "Nothing But the Truth," or "The Royal Mounted" will surely not want to miss this year's performance.

The minstrel show which was at one time announced for the latter part of January has been given up, and the best talent of the Legion—together with three young ladies, also well known for their dramatic ability—will again appear in the make up of this cast.

As in previous Legion productions, tickets are at popular prices, and on sale at the Star office and Hevey's pharmacy.

LEGION MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Winchester Post of the American Legion will take place next Tuesday evening, February 6th. This will be the first meeting under the newly elected officers. The entertainment committee announces that it has secured a lecturer, who has a subject of particular appeal. He will picture by word and on the screen outdoor life in New England, winter sports, fishing, hunting of birds and beasts in the natural haunts, etc. Following the entertainment, a buffet supper will be served.

At the dinner given by the Massachusetts department of the American Legion at Ford Hall last Tuesday evening in honor of National Commander Alvin M. Oswley, Winchester Post was represented by its officers as follows: Commander, Vincent P. Clarke; Treasurer, Arthur S. Harris; Adjutant, Harry G. Bigelow and Historian Henry B. Harris.

ACQUITTED OF BANK FRAUD

Grovener and Adams Found Not Guilty of Misappropriating National Bank Funds

The jury in the United States Federal Court, before which the case of the Winchester National Bank difficulty of a year ago was tried last week, brought in a verdict of not guilty for former cashier Edward R. Grovener and Joseph Adams a former depositor, last Friday evening after a deliberation of two hours. The case was in process of trial for two weeks. The late Edward P. Foster was also indicted. The Government's case was presented by U. S. Atty Robert O. Harris through a large number of accountants and other experts. Atty Assa P. French and Atty Leonard G. Roberts handled the case for the defendants.

In his argument to the jury, Atty French stressed the point that the entire case rested upon the intent of the accused to act dishonestly in their business dealings, without intent to defraud the bank, they should be judged as making business mistakes rather than committing a crime.

The case was all in to the jury during the afternoon of Friday, and Judge Peters asked the jurors whether or they would prefer to hold over another day or to clear it up at once. They chose the latter and retired, bringing in their verdict at 6:15 after two hours deliberation.

Mr. Grovener resides in Winchester. Mr. Adams, who formerly made his home here, now resides in Marblehead.

WARNING

To The American People

"The Judicial Section of the American Bar Association, venturing to speak for all the Judges, wishes to express this warning to the American people:

Reverence for law and enforcement of law depend mainly upon the ideals and customs of those who occupy the citadel ground of life in business and society. The people of the United States, by some conditional and statutory enactment, have undertaken to suppress the ancient evil of the larceny trade.

When, for the gratification of their appetites, bankers, great merchants and manufacturers, and small traders, both men and women, clothes and stuff at this law, or any other law, they are hiding the truth that constitutes a crime, they are some drug peddlers, and they need not be surprised when they find that no judicial or police authority can save our country or humanity from resulting the harvest."

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Prosperity gives us lots of friends. But it takes old adversity to prove that they are real.

Every Winchester woman thinks she has an ideal husband before marriage, and a very real one afterwards.

Counterfeit $20 bills are in circulation, but that is the last thing on earth a newspaper man has to worry about.

Just before a Winchester man's wife talks him to death he hopes that his worst enemy will be the next one to marry her.

The Boston News Bureau tells the following about the inheritance tax on the estate of a Boston man:

"The Federal, Massachusetts, and taxes on securities issued in a number of other states amounted to $69,000.00, or 25% of the entire estate, while cash on hand amounted to about $17,000.00."

NO KNOCKERS THERE

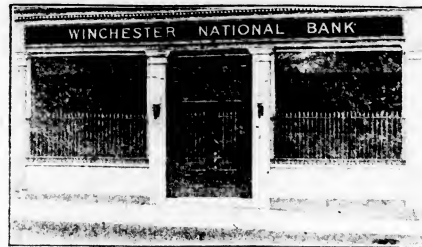

Evidently they all knocked "going in." We did anyway. And furthermore, we were able to return to our desk without further knocking. The STAR votes the High School visitation of Tuesday a distinct success. From observation it did more to cement a bond of good feeling between parent and school, to say nothing of teacher, than anything we have had of this line since when? Obviously the STAR cannot undertake to commend any individual teacher or class, much as it would desire to do so. Equally obvious would it be poor taste to commend those individual parents who were present at the school—the latter would be impossible. So there is nothing else but to commend the Parent-Teacher Association for its program and the pleasing results obtained—which we do most heartily.

The chief thing is interest. That we had aroused last Spring—in the wrong direction on however. That we have it now all will agree. This time it is in the right direction, and as it is a decided step towards better schools and closer community spirit, let it continue.

THE FOOD WAS O. K.

There was a slight variation in the menu at the lunch counter at the High School during the visitation Tuesday. The difference was not in quality, but in articles of food served. Of course it is difficult to cater to the individual taste, but with an unknown number of people coming in to eat, the lunch counter had a difficult job on its hands. Cold ham and meat loaf, if not eaten, were good for the following day, while hot food would not always keep. That the counter catered for the unexpectedly large number of visitors is to its credit. If your choice included the articles on the menu preceding your visit to the counter, make your wants known. Without doubt you may be accommodated at your next visit—and of course you intend to make another.

WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH SUNDAY?

The world is moving, and many things are changing. Time makes ancient good unsmooth, and the world renews itself in many ways. And yet we do not see that there is any need for a very radical change in the keeping of Sunday, says the Christian Guardian. We are not so strict in some ways as our fathers were, and that, probably, is to the good. We are not afraid of whistling on Sunday; the day is not so wholly pleasure and joy in it. But it still remains that it is better to go to church on Sunday than it is to go golfing; better to let the body probably in the long run, better for the mind, certainly better for the spirit. It is still true that the dropping of business and the more elevating pleasures and excitement for one day in seven is a way of renewal and refreshment for men that helps as nothing else could to keep the body and the soul wholesome and vigorous. It still remains very clear that Sunday is meant to be a day of far-reaching good for the human race, and that we will retain it as such by making very few radical changes in the manner of its observance, allowing only such as the more complex life of our modern times makes necessary. It is still a fact that if we allow selfish individual interests to break down all the sanctions that surround the day we will thereby deprive our race of something very precious and of almost infinite worth. The best thing to do with Sunday is to keep it.

The chief advocate of this bill was Edward C. Stone of Lexington, representing the Massachusetts Casualty Underwriters. Both he and Mr. Goodwin pointed out that most dealers would see that buyers took out insurance before they purchased. If there was a lien, and that nearly all owners of their own accord would take out insurance rather than run the risk of losing their machines. The speakers pointed out that indirectly this would accomplish the same result as compulsory insurance without its disadvantages.

THE SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

To the Editor of the Star:
I have just read with very great interest the reprint of the report of our Superintendent of Schools. It should be read by every parent in Winchester. For clearness of thought, conciseness of statement and directness of senses of statement and directness of approach, it is to be highly commended.

The broader policy of education here outlined, and the choice of means to achieve that end, indicate clear thinking and effective action. This statement of educational ideals for Winchester ought to give our citizens great confidence in our school program.

MR. FORD'S ECONOMIC REMEDY

Henry Ford was recently quoted as saying that the world would benefit enormously if all interest on money were to be abolished. Possibly Mr. Ford has in mind some compensating substitute for interest which might be used to induce the owners of surplus savings to loan them for the financial needs of society without other return. If so, he did not take the reporter into his confidence.

Whatever the nature of such a substitute, it would necessarily have to be equally attractive in character and value with the return now received because otherwise no individual would be justified in assuming the risk of loss which always enters into such a transaction as a determining factor in fixing the terms of a loan.

Who owns the money upon which interest is now paid? Every person whether wealthy or poor who has deposited money in any bank; who has paid a premium on an insurance policy; who owns a bond; who has loaned money on a note or who holds a mortgage on property of any kind. If interest were to be abolished, all banks and insurance companies would have to close because practically their entire income accrues from interest paid upon money which they loan. It would therefore become impossible for a man to insure his life or his property or to deposit his surplus earnings in a place of safety unless he paid for the privilege.

No governmental department could undertake a public improvement until after it had first raised by taxation the amount of money necessary for the purpose. No business would be able to expand its facilities for handling increased orders until it had first earned the entire sum required to pay for the necessary labor and material involved in the operation. Widows and orphans, the incapacitated and unfit who now derive their income from interest returns on investments of sums of money for their protection would be obliged to consume the principal.

The inevitable result of eliminating interest from our economic practice would be the stagnation of industry and the prevention of any further development of the nations of the world. It would bring about a marked decrease of production and would precipitate an acute unemployment situation which would render impossible the building of many homes or the erection of new schools for the education of the children.

Without the service now rendered by banks all business would have to be conducted upon a strictly money basis and credit would be eliminated. Enormous increases in the volume of money circulation would thus be made necessary and some new source of wealth would have to be acquired by the governments of the world against which to issue this additional money in order to give it value as a circulating medium.

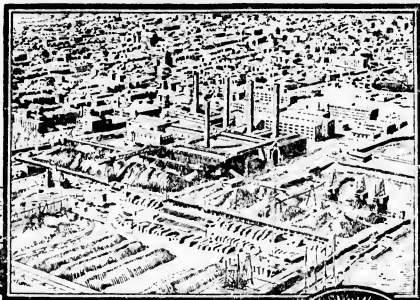

Is it possible that there can exist at the present time any evils in the interest system which would warrant such a disastrous remedy?

The L Street Station of Boston Edison in South Boston, with a capacity of 260,000 horsepower. On Dec. 21, 1922, Boston Edison supplied enough electricity to light eighty million 25 candle power lamps for an hour—enough lamps to circle the United States, if set out 9 1/2 inches apart. Note the 75,000-ton coal reserve.

The Friendly Glow

On that day a great city leapt forward!

THERE are two million people in this Greater Boston of ours—a great forward-moving body, whose progress is as inevitable as the hands of a clock, and so gradual that the eye can't see it move.

But on December 21, in the twilight of the passing year, we saw this city move!

December 21, if you recall, was not an extraordinary day in weather—just a busy Thursday, with Christmas in the air. By a trick of fate, it was the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims—the very day when modern civilization first touched the Massachusetts shores.

How did we see it?

Three hundred and two years later, to a day, a thrilling report came through to the officers of the Boston Edison.

"Every record we ever had is smashed," it ran. "Greater Boston used today more than 2,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity. That's 24 per cent more than was ever used before in one day!"

Do you wonder that we looked back across three centuries to a little boat, making shoreward through the ice? We saw by contrast the power of 179,000 horses, commanded by a lever here, a button there, to make Greater Boston—greater.

We saw a trainload of coal, 44 cars of 40 tons apiece, used that day to drive this city ahead.

And we saw Greater Boston even straining at its boundaries to reach a helping hand to neighbors outside, for that day we supplied 226,000 kilowatt hours of power to territory beyond Greater Boston.

That was your great day

Where were you on December 21? What inspiration made you play your part in the great advance against our common enemies—Darkness and Idleness?

Two million people can think of a lot of things to do with electricity. On that day they did them: more motors drove more machines in factories and shops; more cars carried more people on more missions; in our homes and hospitals and offices and theatres, a great community was getting more done in the business of living and growing.

Somewhere, you contributed to this progress. Just as surely as the progress was made, you will profit by it. You, and the rest of the two million, push a button, close a switch, or swing a lever. On an indicator of the Boston Edison Company a needle shows your command, a current flashes in response—and a city moves forward!

ISLE OF PINES: A TROPICAL YANKEE LAND

The Isle of Pines, in regard to which a treaty with Cuba has been taken from a State Department pig-sty-hole where it has lain since the Spanish-American War, and submitted to the Senate, probably is not a familiar name to the average American. But the chances are that the island, for all that, has contributed delectable dishes to his mid-winter breakfasts, luncheons and dinners.

From the Isle of Pines, as far south of Havana as Havana is south of Key West, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society, "come some of the earliest and the freshest vegetables and some of the most luscious of the grapefruits that reach snow-bound American markets."

Most American Community Under Foreign Flag

This pie-land island of the tropics, while probably not well-known to the majority of stay-at-home Americans, is either a permanent or temporary home to some thousands of Americans who have more than the average share of wander-lust in their make-up, and who have made and are making a unique group formerly almost wholly neglected. The island belongs to Cuba and is governed by that republic; but it constitutes probably the most American community under any foreign flag.

The island was shunned by ordinary folk during the early centuries after its discovery by Columbus, because it became a rendezvous for the notorious Caribbean pirates. Later under Spanish rule of Cuba, it lead a sleepy, almost non-existence and was used for what the Spaniards called "convict settlements." But the convicts were in the main, political prisoners who had plotted the overthrow of Spanish rule in Cuba.

During American control of Cuba after the Spanish-American War, Americans saw the unusual possibilities of this fertile island of equable climate, and began its development through the planting of citrus orchards. Other Americans followed and their industries were developed. Now the one-time pirate island is a "Little America." Ninety-five per cent of the surface is owned by individual Americans and over half the population is English-speaking. American churches, schools, and lodge rooms dot the hilly side, and automobiles spin fine over excellent roads, and farm machinery, changing in field and orchard, supply an atmosphere that might be that of Indiana or California.

Lowest Tropic Pines

"The island gets its name from its forests of pine which are said to exist there at a lower altitude than anywhere else in the tropics. But with these trees of a more northern region, grow palms and oranges, mahogany and ebony.

The Isle of Pines, almost a quarter the size of Porto Rico, has only about one-fourth the density of population of that crowded island. About 7,000 persons were shown to be resident here by the latest census. But during the cold period in the United States, when tourists go south and winter homes are occupied, the population is considerably increased.

Climate might be termed the chief asset of the Isle of Pines, for it makes possible its principal industries of early fruit and vegetable culture. In the tropics, but continually blown upon by the trade winds, its temperature is neither hot nor cool. The thermometer seldom registers higher than 80 degrees or lower than 60 degrees. Such a temperature grape-fruit and lemons and pineapples grow to perfection, and thousands of acres of them have been set out by American plantation owners.

At the other tables were: the Captains Boone, Mann, Dolan and Downer, each with her own respective troop. The decorations were exceptionally attractive. The troop emblems, blue birds, goldenrod, morning glory and forget-me-nots were all made of crepe paper and used as a centre piece on each table. The blue birds were especially noted. A blue bird being placed beside each scout's plate belonging to the Blue Bird troop.

The waitresses, former scouts were Constance Willard, Marion Smith, Dorothy Brown, Frances Lowell, Jean Ryan, Elizabeth Brown, Sunny Night, Emily Wormelle and Elizabeth Dummer.

After the banquet all marched to the High School Assembly Hall where the Golden Eagle Film was shown much to the delight of all. Much credit for the successful carrying out of the whole affair is due our efficient Scout Commissioner N. Joseph P. Givens.

The writer is pleased to quote from Rev. Dr. Chidley the following on the banquet.

"It was inspiring to see these girls, with their day at the morn and their year at the spring, enjoying themselves under the auspices of an organization which disciplines hand and heart and mind. One found himself 'raving the girls in town, too young to be enrolled in this sorority of youth. The Girl Scout movement of this town, former treasurer of the Winchester Co-operative Bank."

EASTER ISLAND: TINY SETTING FOR A WORLD MYSTERY

Easter Island, rumored to have disappeared beneath the Pacific Ocean, is the subject of the recent instructive earthquake shocks in Chile, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

If Easter Island had sunk beneath the ocean as it was rumored to have done, says the bulletin, this dropping of the curtain on the island might have gone some way toward solving the mystery of this tiny bit of land with its unique gigantic statues shrouded in mystery and has remained since its discovery one of the world's unsolved riddles. The theory has been that it represents the last pinnacle of an ancient Pacific Atlantis which disappeared beneath the waters many centuries ago. A theory to which a disappearance of the island might obviously lend support.

Far From Everywhere
Situated 2,000 miles west of South America and almost an equal distance from other Pacific islands, Easter Island is one of the most isolated inhabited regions on the globe. Its greatest length is less than 15 miles and its greatest width about seven. Its triangular shape gives it an area of only 50 square miles. Many say so small has gone practically unnoticed; but former inhabitants unwittingly "advertised" Easter Island by setting up huge images along its beaches; and to geographers and students of human institutions and activities it is as famous as any island of the Seven Seas.

The mystery of Easter Island became recognized when Dutch navigators discovered it on Easter morning 1722 and reported that hundreds of strange stone figures of men more than 30 feet high stood everywhere about its margins, their backs to the sea. The natives had only the crudest of tales to account for these images which evidently had been fashioned ages before.

Recent study has shown that the images were mounted on terraces below which the bodies of the dead were exposed and often buried. But whence came the idea for such statues on this isolated island, and how some of them weighing many tons were moved and set in place by the natives, have proved baffling enigmas.

Gigantic Statues Wear Hats

The statues were carved from volcanic lava on the slopes of an extinct volcano. Scores of them remain still in and near the quarries. Others have been moved, various diseases, some remaining horizontal, others placed in an upright position. Some were moved—the natives say by magic—from the beach to the island. Altogether nearly 200 of the huge figures are now visible, and others are believed to have been buried in landslides. The largest statue stands 32 feet high, but one still reclining in its quarry measures 64 feet in length. On the heads of many of the figures were placed great cylindrical "hats" of a different colored stone, each weighing several tons.

Easter Island, discovered by the Dutch and for a while possessed by the Spanish, now belongs to Chile, but for long periods there has been no civil Chilean representative in residence. A Chilean company operates a cattle and sheep ranch on the island which supports a luxuriant growth of grasses. About once a year a ship

EDNA WADSWORTH MOODY
"WE ARE HERE—WHY?"
New Book by Edna Wadsworth Moody—Sister of Late Walter S. Wadsworth

Of considerable interest, not only to Chelsea people, where she spent a large part of her life, but to many Winchester friends, is the new book by Edna Wadsworth Moody, sister of the late Walter S. Wadsworth of this town, former treasurer of the Winchester Co-operative Bank.

The book has elicited much interest also from literary editors and critics. Her book, which grew out of her desire to make her beliefs reach a larger audience, contains her whole colored plan of life, as she conceived it, in a permanent form. A copy of the book has been presented to the Winchester public library by Mrs. Walter S. Wadsworth. It is published by Marshall Jones Company of 212 Summer street, Boston.

Mrs. Moody describes "We Are Here—Why?" as a study of life's meaning. She presents a Divine Plan for the universe and shows how man can co-operate with this Divine Plan. Reconciling Eastern and Western thought, she embraces Christianity and the mystic and esoteric teachings of the East. Her book appeals to the practical man who is looking for the solution of many of the vexing problems of daily life, as well as to the theosophist who is more directly concerned with abstract thinking. Mrs. Moody's text is taken from Edward Carpenter: "Therefore go forth, and be in truth thine own Creator, no longer in fear and trembling, but in kingship and power, meeting the mystery of the world."

The teachings of Jesus, the Buddha, and the Christian Gnostics form the general background of her philosophy, and she has drawn inspiration chiefly from Plato, Epictetus, Spinoza, Dante, Balzac, Browning, Bulwer Lytton, Emerson and Walt Whitman. Having at one time in her life been an agnostic, Mrs. Moody is now possessed of an unshakeable faith. She lives her religion from day to day. She is self-disciplined, her life is Spartan in its simplicity, and all her thought and time and work are devoted to the spreading of her religion.

No mention of Mrs. Moody's life would be complete without touching upon her extraordinary energy and vitality. In her search for truth, she has put in years of incessant study and labor. She has devoted book after book, gathering material in order that she might steadily move forward in the upbuilding of her theory—reading, re-reading, marking, underlining, and even copying parts of books which have helped her particularly. Her wealth of valuable quotations bears striking testimony to this fact.

Even with her scholarly inclinations, Mrs. Moody is by no means a recluse. Her scientific approach to her problem has been tempered with the humanizing influences which have grown out of her girls' club. She does not believe that religion is alone a thing of books, but more essentially a quality which can be breathed from one living being to another. The Osmonds Club now has sixteen members, and Mrs. Moody is following the older girls through the various steps in their education. For eight years she has not failed to supply the members of the club with the weekly lessons which have played such a part in the crystallization of her own philosophy.

Mrs. Moody was at one time president of the Woman's City Study Club of New York City, and has continued her interest in this movement. She was great brother-in-law, Gilman Hall, formerly editor of "Everybody's," she is well known in the publishing and literary world, and in company with Dr. Moody, she still maintains a vital interest in scientific affairs.

SAVE THE BIRDS

The Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association, 945 Tremont Building, Boston, is instituting a campaign for the protection of birds, which is of interest to everyone who loves our native wild birds, depends for its support on membership dues. More than two tons of grain and grit were supplied by the Association to feed our useful birds during the severe winter weather of January, it being distributed locally through the co-operation of the Boy and Girl Scouts, who were instructed in proper methods of feeding by information sheets and radio talks provided by the Association. The objects of the Association are to secure the rational protection of feeding wild birds, quail, and fish. It is efficiently organized to promptly meet any emergency and to accomplish its objects. 2000 new members are needed. Join now and help save our useful birds.

EXCELLENT DINNER

There was the usual large attendance at the annual dinner of the First Congregational Church on Friday evening, and a very enjoyable occasion resulted in the usual course of events. An appetizing menu was provided, the principal dish being roast turkey. The speaker of the evening was Rev. J. Edgar Park of the Congregational Church at West Newton, who gave an interesting facts connected with the advisability and advantages of a parish house. Rev. Howard J. Chidley and Mr. T. Grafton Abbott also spoke upon that point and the proposed changes in the church. The community singing was led by Dr. J. Churchill Hinds, with Mrs. Hinds at the piano.

The event was made a "Father and Son" night, and many of the sons of the members were present. Mr. Ford's views were greatly admired and included many pictures not before seen upon the stage. He took his audience across the continent, giving especial attention to the Yellowstone Valley and Arizona. The usual Saturday night lunch followed the talk.

The program consisted of vocal solos by Miss Helen Bove, Mr. Winfield Hanson, Miss Hanson, Mr. Lockman; Violin solos by Mrs. Hanson; Harp solos by Miss Olive Potter and Mrs. Lockman; Trio for harp, violin and organ, Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Lockman and Miss Lucy Fish; Piano duets by Miss Fish and Mrs. Lockman.

LADIES' WESTERN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The first meeting of the new year of the Ladies' Western Missionary Society was held as usual the first Thursday in February in the vestry of the First Congregational Church from 10 to 4. A good number was present, and the directors were gratified with the amount of work done. The account of the Church supper coming the following evening, it was necessary to have a basket lunch instead of the usual luncheon, but the ladies who were present and enjoyed the excellent coffee provided by Mrs. Forsaith and Miss Maude Folts decided that there was much pleasure even in a basket lunch. The work during the day was on garments for the barrel that is soon to be sent to Cotton Valley School in Alabama, a school which has long been a center of interest for this Society. It is understood that the Society is to be so fortunate as to have Mrs. Frazier, who is the head of this school, speak before it in the near future.

At the business meeting, which began promptly at 10, the new president, Mrs. Hamilton was in the chair. After a hymn had been sung, she read a few verses from Nehemiah about the rebuilding of the wall of Jerusalem, and brought the lesson home to each one present of the individual responsibility and obligation of the Society for its upbuilding and continuance of fine missionary spirit. Mrs. Edward Gillett, one of the members of the New Year's meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Association held in Pilgrim Hall, January 5th, and Mrs. William Lefavor, that the Council meets once a year, and is attended by two members from each auxiliary. The president reported that for this year Mrs. Forsaith and Mrs. Maude Folts would have charge of the luncheon groups that Mrs. J. R. Smith and Miss Margaret Sands would have charge of the flowers for the Sunday morning services for the first three months; that the new Hospitality Committee is to consist of Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Engstrom, Mrs. Knight, Mrs. Razez, Miss Freeman and Mrs. Snow. The Society voted to have a membership drive to last through the year, and the captains of the two forces into which the Society is to be divided are Mrs. Charles Corey and Mrs. Herbert Brooks for one and Mrs. John Adams for the other. A song to encourage the ladies to exert strenuous efforts in behalf of this drive was sung by Mrs. Corey. It was decided that a feature for all the ladies to have a part in at the next meeting, The mite box money being due in May, a committee was appointed to go into the rooms at the Congregational House to get information as to the best place to send it. When the meeting adjourned it was the unanimous feeling that the new year was opening most auspiciously.

LADIES MUST PROVIDE PHOTOS

An interesting fact in connection with the ladies' night to be held at the Calumet Club next Tuesday evening, Feb. 13th, is that every lady who is to gain admission to the club, must produce a photograph of herself. The affair is to be a Valentine party, the committee in charge announcing that the evening's program will include bowling, stunts and dancing. It is informal. The photograph requirement in connection with the attending ladies is creating much interest, but the committee is inclined to be very lenient in the matter of selection. If the attending lady decides she has lost some of her youthful charms she is privileged to bring a photograph taken at the height of her attractiveness. Should she decide she was never more beautiful than today, she may run up and have a new picture taken immediately. In fact snap shots, tints or even professional photographs will be acceptable, but each lady must produce a picture. The affair promises to be one of the best entertainments of the winter to be given by the Club.

UNVEILING OF ALICE F. SYMMES MEMORIAL WINDOW NEXT SUNDAY

Next Sunday, Feb. 11, the window in memory of Miss Alice F. Symmes will be unveiled and dedicated at 12, the Unitarian Church. This window is the gift of some of Miss Symmes' many friends. The children have taken a warm interest in making the window possible, and the child in the window is their contribution paid for by them, each child giving a dollar earned by himself. The window, very beautiful in design and coloring, is by the same artists who designed the Mosley memorial unveiled last September. The services on Sunday are open to the public, and a special invitation is extended to the friends of Miss Symmes.

ALICE F. SYMMES SOCIETY GIVES ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE

The Alice F. Symmes Society gave a most enjoyable entertainment and dance in Metcalf Hall at the Unitarian Church on last Friday evening. The audience numbered almost two hundred. Dean Symmes, Edith Cummings and George Cummings composed the committee in charge.

Mrs. Reed sang two solos, which were received with much applause, while Miss Dorothy Wood and Miss Mary Whittington also were accepted enthusiastically when they performed. Mrs. Reynolds rendered two humorous readings which were especially well delivered. Kenneth Pratt led the "Reverse Drill" and Herbert Miller, playing the part of a burlesque Loch-in-var, was warmly applauded by everyone.

At the conclusion of the entertainment dancing was enjoyed until midnight. Boone's Orchestra furnished the music.

The affair was declared a thorough success and was certainly enjoyed by all present. The proceeds will be used for the fund which is to pay for the memorial window to Alice F. Symmes.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The February meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will be held at the home of Mrs. George Arnold, Dix Terrace on Friday, Feb. 16 at 3 o'clock a good attendance of members and friends is earnestly requested.

Bishop Anton East of Copenhagen, Denmark, recently visited this country disguised in rough clothes, and wandered about the streets of New York and Chicago. On the eve of sailing for Europe he made his identity known and stated that he had been gathering first-hand information regarding prohibition. "The only drinks I saw during my wanderings" said the Bishop were found in a New York subway. On the Bowery, where I wandered on several occasions day and night, I saw no intoxicated men, but everywhere I saw men sober. There is surely some drinking, but it is quiet, and the tales of wild debauchery told us in Denmark are without foundation, so far as the general public is concerned.

VALENTINE PARTY

An attractive "Valentine Party" was held Tuesday evening at White's Hall under the auspices of the Young Women's Club of St. Mary's Church. A newly instituted organization headed by Miss Mildred Kenneally, president, and Miss Elsie O'Connell, secretary.

There was a large attendance of young people of the parish and many invited guests. Decorations of red and white made an attractive setting for the affair, which was preceded by a concert which included dancing numbers by Miss Cassidy of Arlington, duets by Miss Violet Carroll and Miss Mary Boyle and a reading by Miss Hazel McKenzie.

An elimination dance was won by Mr. Joseph Mathews and Miss Hazel McKenzie. The matrons for the evening were Mrs. Quigley, Mrs. Barrett and Mrs. Halwartz.

WINCHESTER MEETS BROCKTON THIS AFTERNOON

The Winchester High basketball squad journeys to Brockton this afternoon, to meet the strong Brockton outfit which they defeated on the local floor some weeks ago. Brockton stands high in the league and is fighting hard for the championship which they have won so often. On the other hand, Winchester sends forth a team which is so determined to win that their enthusiasm seems exceptional. It was Brockton's investigation that caused the loss of Winchester to the home team, and the boys are eager to prove that the team which they are sending is equally as good as the one which trimmed their opponents recently.

Captain Higbee has had the boys practicing a fast passing game throughout the week and since his guards are so dependable, the forwards will have plenty of opportunity to show their stuff.

And speaking of "full measure," many a pint bottle holds a barrel of talk.

The sewing machine was patented in 1879, and some neighbors have been dropping in to use it ever since.

We are taught that a cow has four stomachs. That must make the average Winchester small boy pretty envious.

We see where a Washington man paid $500 for 20 eggs that haven't been laid. That certainly ought to make the hen nervous.

Police Arrest Henry W. Niles For Begging

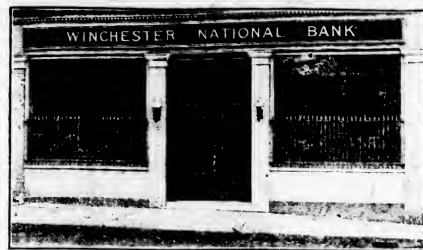

Officer Thomas Cassidy arrested Henry W. Niles of Medford yesterday and the man will appear in the Woburn court this morning charged with begging money about town. Many Winchester people contributed to the fund of from $50 to $70 which Niles is reported to have collected here during the past fortnight.

According to the story of his operations, Niles was equipped with a paper representing that he was a poor man and the father of 10 children. He had been presented with a piece of land and some lumber, and intended to erect a small store for the sale of candy, gasoline, etc. He asked contributions to erect this store. His paper was signed by himself and sworn to before a Notary Public.

Several complaints were sent at various times to the police regarding his solicitations and they were on the watch for him. When arrested he was on his way to visit a family which he had already called upon on two other occasions. He had collected contributions of $1.52 and $5 from a number of Winchester families.

According to the police he has been working this scheme for some time in numerous other places, and he admitted that he had used the money collected to keep him and his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherard Clay who left Winchester Jan. 24th for the South are very pleasantly located at 1719 St. Louis St., St. Petersburg, Florida, where they expect to remain until May 1st.

SELECTMEN PASS RESOLUTION

The following was passed at the meeting of the Board of Selectmen held Monday evening:
Selectmen's Office Town Hall

WHEREAS:
The passing away of a man of the sterling character of our long beloved friend and fellow citizen, David Nelson Skilling, brings, as it necessarily must, a deep sense of loss and grief, not only to his immediate family, but also to his fellow citizens of our whole community—a loss which turns our minds to the many years of his public spirited service; his wise and far seeing counsel and advice, wherein our town has in so many ways found increasing benefit; his unswerving integrity in the conduct of the various enterprises to which he so faithfully devoted himself; and above all the splendid example of good citizenship and unflinching friendship which we, his friends and neighbors, have so admired and enjoyed in the half century of our association with him.

Therefore, be it resolved—
That we the people of Winchester, Mass., through our Board of Selectmen, hereby express to Mrs. Skilling and to each member of her family, our profound sympathy in this our mutual loss, and commend to them the sustaining comfort of the memory of his never failing kindness, his long life of unswerving service to his fellow men, and the enduring benefits of his example as a citizen of the highest type.

DISTRIBUTING GRAIN FOR BIRDS

The following High School boys are busy this week distributing grain in various outlying sections of the town for the birds: Guy Sargeant, Clinton Mason, Frederick Hammerstrom, Frank McCaw, Harry Winde. This grain is being put out under the auspices of the Mass. Fish and Game Commission, the work here being in charge of Mr. Charles A. Lane, who is assisted by Supt. of Schools Fahey and Principal Farnham of the High School.

Miss Emma Beebe, of this town, has taken the Nursing position of the Allied Medical, Mills and Dover District Nurse Association.

THE MURMAN COAST: AN UN-FROZEN SPOT IN THE ARCTIC

The questioning recently of British fishermen's right to fish along the Murman coast almost led to a clash between Russians and British in those far north waters, and the British decided to send a war vessel to the region for future protection. Something of this land on the fourth sea which Russia touches in all in the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

When it is realized that the Murman coast is on the Arctic Ocean, one naturally pictures a frozen waste, with even a solid sea in winter, says the bulletin. But the long arm of the Gulf Stream, stretched across the Atlantic, around the northern tip of Europe, and along the coast just beyond, makes the Arctic waters which bathe the northern end of Norway and the nearby strip of Russia more truly Atlantic waters. This is an open sea the year round while Arctic waters to the east and the gulfs of the Baltic far to the south are frozen solid for many months.

Another Three-Mile Limit
Foreign fishermen have been making the most of this region of iceless waters, where in the proper season, schools of cod, herring and salmon abound. Chiefly, the fishing vessels are those of British and Norwegians who have maintained that they have the right to carry on their trade outside the three-mile limit. This, the Russians dispute, and have arrested boats nine miles off shore.

The Russian fishermen of the Murman coast are a nomadic lot who live along the coast in the spring and summer and desert the country in winter.

Tremendous Labor Army Built
The Murman coast was practically unknown to the outside world until the blockade of the Baltic and Black seas during the war made necessary dependence on the unused easy dependence in the north. An army of 100,000 laborers was set to work pushing a railroad from Petrograd to the port of Murman, where in an inlet 30 miles from the open sea, in a wide deep harbor free, from both currents and ice, the largest ocean freighters could dock. In spite of the greatest engineering difficulties through a country of bogs by summer and ice by winter, the line was completed, but only a little while before the Russian revolution came to make it useless.

Several thousand American "dough-boys" were sent to the Murman coast with British, French and Italian contingents, to hold the railroads of the region, and spent long months in the cheerless region. When the war-time population left, the country slipped back and now except for the railroad villages is almost as sparsely settled as before. A few Lapps live scattered over the Kola Peninsula whose northern edge forms the Murman Coast, living largely on their reindeer. As in many Arctic regions, mosquitoes are a serious pest, and the Murman Coast in summer, and even the reindeer flee to the interior highlands to get away from them.

PUBLIC INDEBTEDNESS TO THE "STRIKE-BREAKER"

The term strike-breaker has usually been adopted by members of organized labor in an impliedly offensive sense. Because of such common application of the words the general public has unconsciously absorbed much of their opprobrious meaning and has come to look upon the person who fills a striking workman's position as a somewhat incidental opportunity.

Whom whose interests are entitled to but scant consideration in the final disposition of the matters in issue.

Were it not for the strike-breaker, however, the public would be absolutely at the mercy of every organized group of workers at all times and would be obliged to concede to them any and every demand for increased pay or improved working conditions which they might at any time determine to be their due. It would then be necessary for us to forego entirely the use of commodities or services or otherwise to accept unqualifiedly the dictates under every circumstance of the workers who happened for the time being to control the production of the goods or services in question.

Whatever may be the motive which prompts men to accept the positions left vacant by striking workers, it is undeniable that by so doing they make possible the continuance of service to the public which otherwise would be lacking. They possess every recognized moral and legal right to seek and retain employment wherever or whenever it offers and their persons and property are as much entitled to full and complete protection under our laws and constitution as are those of every other class of citizen.

When thousands of men have been induced in good faith to accept positions left vacant by striking railroad workers with a definite promise of permanent employment and seniority ratings, and have thereby under most disadvantageous and trying conditions rendered invaluable aid to the entire community which the strikers have assiduously attempted to prevent, we cannot in good conscience permit them to be deprived of what they are justly and equitably entitled to without our becoming guilty of the basest ingratitude toward them for the benefit we have received at their hands.

Any other attitude of mind must be considered an admission that the public itself is responsible for the strike and should rightly therefore withhold protection from the punishment which the strikers have attempted to administer to it.

The issues involved in this matter are vital. If the public fails to recognize adequately its obligation to those who have accepted their positions in the future to accept the bitter consequences of such injustice without complaint.

"Little Mothers" Work in snail.
Youngsters who use the wide plaza in front of the city hall playground in the evenings have adopted a system that makes lighter the task of those who look after babies. Under the system one youngster will hold a group of about twenty or twenty-five wards on the steps and keep them amused and safe for 15 minutes or so. Then she is relieved in turn by another.

(Of course, the system doesn't always run smoothly. There are quarrels about time and turn of work, but for the most part it enables all the East side "little mothers" to get in a turn at playing and roller skating without neglecting their little broods—New York Sun.

Mrs. Edward S. Foster of Magnolia, formerly of Grove street this town, has instituted proceedings for the recovery of her Winchester residence. At the time her husband was accused of misappropriating funds of the Winchester National Bank, she signed over this property to the Bank as a means of restitution. She now claims that this act was committed under mental stress, and seeks to have her act annulled.

THE greatest problem in many a household is the boy. It is a big problem. One of the most important hints toward solving it is to encourage the boy to start a savings account of his own. This means thrift and character.

De Gama and Columbus Almost Ruined It

Geographic exploration in other parts of the world may seem far removed from the prosperity of an ancient city in Syria, but Europe's destruction in the fifteenth century were quickly felt in Aleppo. For the Christians, Europe demanded an ever increasing supply of spices and other products from the East, and, as Aleppo, near the western end of the land route over which such goods came, became more and more prosperous. Nearly all the Western trading nations established representatives and warehouses in the city.

The establishment of a sea route around Africa to the East injured Aleppo somewhat, and the opening of the Suez Canal almost dried up its trade to its old place of importance.
It brought up the pessimistic picture of a time when camel-trains might be a curiosity.

But the railroad locomotive which Westerners nickname "the steel horse," has proved Aleppo's "steel camel," and is bringing the city back to its old place of importance.

The famous Bagdad Railroad, which connects the mouth of the Euphrates with the Bosphorus and Europe, dips into Aleppo almost exactly at its center, and meets the railway which now extends from Egypt northward across the Valley during our stay.

It is a fair way to become "the Chicago of the Near East."

How an olive branch started a little volcano of his own in the Valley is told by Robert F. Griggs in his recently published book, "The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes," describing expeditions which he led into this amazing country for the National Geographical Society.

When first discovered, the active area was devoid of evidence of living creatures, writes Dr. Griggs. The next year a single bear ventured to cross the Valley during our stay.

But in 1919 bears were frequent visitors. They seemed to represent a new population of bears which, having probably grown up in the vicinity of the Valley, had come to regard it as one of the normal phenomena of their world. They were not satisfied with merely crossing through the steaming areas, but apparently were attracted in some degree by the smokes. Their tracks were found close around the largest vents, even far up toward the head of the Valley, many miles from any possible source of food.

From their behavior, indeed, it seems not at all improbable that they enjoyed lying on the warm ground, seeking good places to bask in the heat, just as a dog nuzzles in the hottest place behind the kitchen stove. We could not assure ourselves of this, however, for we could never catch sight of them in the Valley, and the ground around the big fumaroles is baked so hard that only claw marks remained to show where they had walked. If they lay down their shaggy coats lost no mark on the hard crust, so we were little the wiser concerning their real habits.

It is own world sufficed for many centuries to keep Aleppo a thriving city into which scores of long camel caravans came yearly. The Crusades did not greatly interfere with this prosperity for the successes of the Crusaders stopped literally at Aleppo's walls. Antioch, on the Mediterranean coast, barely 70 miles away, was the first Syrian stronghold to be captured by the Christian Knights and the last to be surrendered; but they were never able to subdue Aleppo which stood for 300 years as a barrier to the Muslim invasions. The Crusader's stronghold, became Saladin's capital, and it was from there that the Christian army was finally driven out of the country.

ALEPPO: ON A 4000-YEAR-OLD "LINCOLN HIGHWAY"

Aleppo, Syria, which has appeared in recent date lines as the point to which 50,000 Armenian refugees have fled, is a city of 200,000 people, the remains of their old homes in Turkey, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Aleppo's name was once more familiar to Western ears than that of any other city of the Near East except Constantinople, and it is probably destined to be great again when that part of the world settles down after the ravages of the war.

It was not unusual to find the tracks of a bear leading straight up to one of the large vents, where evidently he had stopped to peer into the mysterious hot hole. In one of the steaming areas Hagebarger found a place where the hot ground had apparently excited the bear's curiosity. He had dug it up until he started a small fumeroles of his own. The appearance of a cloud of steam under his claws as he broke into the hot crust must have given him a great surprise. It did not seem him, however, for not satisfied with a single experiment, he tried again in several places, each time digging down until he started the steam before turning away.

Memories Perpetuated by Lamps.
A curious custom exists among the natives of the island of Ralutun (the chief island of the Leward group of the Society Islands) to preserve the memory of deceased relatives. In the large church of Tiarua the principal settlement on that island, will be seen a great number of brass hanging lamps hanging from brackets all about the building. Each of these has been prepared by some native family in memory of some beloved member of the clan who had died, and they constitute a memorial, such as a bronze tablet or a stained-glass window would represent in European countries.

Microbes Hard to Destroy.
Though some microbes are very tough and can stand great extremes of heat and cold, the majority of them are easily killed if the right methods are used. But what puzzled scientists for many years was that "acid" microbes seemed able to come to life again.
You could kill them as dead as dead mules, but in a very short space of time they would appear in swarms and be lively as crickets. The principle discovery was made. It was found that many microbes bred by means of seeds or spores, which are almost indestructible, save by fire.

Letters received this week report that Prof. Charles Zuehl is expected to arrive from Europe today or tomorrow.

TSINGTAO, GERMAN-JAPANESE-CHINESE CHAMBLEON

The relinquishment of Tsingtao and the Kiaochow leasehold by Japan on December 19, and its subsequent troubles with Chinese bandits mark the passing of one dream of Japanese expansion in the Flowery Kingdom. Just as the surrender of the same territory to Japan almost exactly eight years ago marked the tragic end of the dream of the imperialism in the country, remarks a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

This 200-square mile slice of famous old Shantung, continues the bulletin, for millenniums had little in its lot to distinguish it from similar sleepy patches of China's coast country. Suddenly it awoke twenty-four years ago with the world's spotlight beating fully upon it. It has been in the place ever since: the bone of contention of empires, and an object for power, and for diplomatic forces and ultimatums, when it was not the target for all too material naval guns and their high explosive shells.

Snatched From Shabbiness to Prosperity

Tsingtao, the port of the Kiaochow leasehold, has been a veritable Cinderella among Oriental communities—and to mix the metaphor, a chameleon nationally. Snatched from its existence as a shabby fishing village to serve first as a gateway for German Kultur and commerce; and later as an entrepot for Japanese influence and goods.

When Germany decided to compete with other European nations that were taking possession of slices of Chinese territory, and later, when the German Empire in 1898, it consisted of little more than a narrow main street lined by low Chinese buildings with paper windows and straw roofs. One of the few groups of buildings of any consequence was the "Yamen" of the Chinese Governor of Tsingtao, with its central structures, its courtyard and surrounding houses. The Germans took over for the headquarters of their governor.

Once on the ground, the Germans worked feverishly at making over the village and constructing the combination of "Little Berlin" and "German Hongkong" of which they dreamed. Chinese houses were taken over and made clean; and temporary barracks were built, followed by permanent ones. Wide streets and avenues were laid out and lined with shade trees; substantial business buildings and residences were established and others were under construction.

Water was taken from the hills. Massive granite breakwaters and piers were constructed; the harbor was dredged to a depth to accommodate the largest ships. A huge floating dock capable of accommodating merchantman or warships, was built. The surrounding hills, previously barren, had been cultivated to forest. German schools were established. The excellent bathing beach had been capitalized by the building of hotels and the place was fast becoming a pleasure resort for Europeans resident in China.

From Little Berlin to Little Tokyo

The character of this most German of towns was changed in 1914 almost as radically and as quickly as a motion picture setting is transformed from a representation of London to one of New York. The German flag came down in November and most of the Germans were sent to Japan as prisoners. Civilian Japanese and soldiers poured in; and while the architecture of "Little Berlin" remained for the most part unaltered, the whole atmosphere of the place became that of Japan. On their part the Japanese displayed greater energy even than had the Germans, to give the city its second transformation. They, amid the incongruous German buildings, blossomed the influence and culture of Nippon. Indeed the Japanese were more thorough than their predecessors. By the middle of 1920 more than 28,000 Japanese had moved to the city. Schools had been established for teaching Chinese to newcomers, as well as the regular system of lower and higher Japanese public schools. Commerce through the port grew amazingly, most of the ships, of course, flying the Japanese flag.

THE FUTURE OF FLYING

Aviation by radio is one of the startling early developments of air travel predicted by Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, Assistant Chief of Air Service of the U. S. Army, in a communication to the National Geographic Society.

Aeronautics is progressing more rapidly at this time both from a scientific standpoint—as far as the development of flying machines of all kinds is concerned—and also in the art of actually handling and flying planes. Gen. Mitchell writes:

Can Rise Vertically

A speed of two hundred miles an hour has been accomplished. To rise vertically from the ground is an accomplished fact. We are able to fly at night, through the storms, and through the fog. Our worst enemy is fog near the ground, and even there we are making progress in eliminating fog over our landing fields.

Radio telegraphy makes it possible for us to talk from plane to plane, from the ground to the plane, and from the plane to the ground. Radio is also able to guide us to our landing fields or to any place that we desire to go. In fact, airplanes have been sent on long journeys with no living pilots in them, but controlled by gyroscopic instruments. These automatically controlled airplanes rise from the ground and fly at whatever altitude is set.

Radio Controls Plane Fleet

In addition, by the aid of radio impulses, their courses may be changed, or, if blown off the course by the wind, they may be brought back to it. Airplanes may be controlled by radio from the air as well as from the ground, so that it is entirely within the realm of possibility that an airplane with its crew may start out and control a number of others flying near and around it.

Aircraft are the only things in existence that are able to deliver their cargoes at a station in the air. Nothing can compete with them in this respect, so that, from a military standpoint, the time has come to deliver a bomb, shot, or observer wherever they will have the most effect on an enemy, aircraft have no equals.

Since the first use of radio in the radius of action of the airplane. In our own Air Service the airplane has remained aloft for thirty-five hours and during that time has covered some three thousand miles. The distance from Ireland to Newfoundland is only seventeen hundred miles. The forces at Tsingtao in 1898, it consisted of little more than a narrow main street lined by low Chinese buildings with paper windows and straw roofs.

One of the few groups of buildings of any consequence was the "Yamen" of the Chinese Governor of Tsingtao, with its central structures, its courtyard and surrounding houses. The Germans took over for the headquarters of their governor.

A Letter From Home
Does It Carry Your Store News
Mr. Boston Merchant?

"The city press has turned so largely to scandal, crime and sensational news that the country weekly is occupying a field all its own, and without competition except by papers of its own kind. The demand for mediums for the expression of healthy, honest, moral sentiment in the smaller communities is growing day by day."

These home weeklies make it their policy to print nothing but what is of direct interest to their communities. In fact the slogan of the editor is to make the paper a letter from home.

TRANSJORDANIA: WHERE THE DESERT IS A FRIEND

Where is Transjordan, and what is it? These questions arise as Transjordan appears more frequently in date lines since Great Britain confirmed Emir Abdullah nominal ruler of the province.

"Another name for Transjordan is the Emirate of Kerak," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Geographically it is easy to locate—it is an area, almost as large as the State of Maryland, lying between the River Jordan and the Syrian desert.

A Political Enigma Politically, Transjordan's affairs have been highly complicated since the Armistice. On the borderland of French and British influence, feeling the native pull of Syria, Hedjaz, Palestine, and Mesopotamia, and now a center of Arabian nationalists, she has awakened with a jolt from her long tranquillity.

A small river like hundreds across which modern trains dash with scarcely a rumble to mark their passage, has separated Transjordan and Western Palestine from the time of Moses till today.

Transjordan is the home of parables, where Arab tents, long symbols of transitory residence, have persisted while rich Roman ruins, once the gathering places of cultured crowds, have disappeared; where the death, which to so many signifies doom, has furnished a welcome haven to many to whom the narrow Jordan seems an impassable gulf.

Why Jordan is a Barrier To civilization, the deepest and swiftest river is only an incident. But the trackless desert is a barrier, not easily passed. Not so in Transjordan. Up in its high plateau, swept by refreshing breezes, the desert is a neighbor so near that none can say just where its boundary lies. With the changing seasons, the boundary moves with the population and the crops and flocks. But the deep depression of the Jordan is a permanent barrier across which the commerce of the ages has flowed but which has turned back the shepherd to his cooler hills and open plains.

Sheep and camels can easily venture out into the desert, following the changing fodder line according to the season. But few traversers the great wash which yawns between the Mount of Olives and the heights of Pisrah.

The city has its traffic routes, enforced by agents of the law. Not so the desert village in the land of Gilead or the Ammonites. There the traffic shifts in keeping with the movements of the sun. Shepherd and camel-driver seek the shifting shadows of the scanty shelters.

Thrives on Changes: Remains Unchanged Transjordan is the land of the permanent. It thrives on changes which change it not. Cities have risen and fallen, highways been laboriously constructed only to fall into disrepair more impassable than the surrounding fields.

Nomad tents, long since the poetic symbol of transitory residence, continue to dot the plain while rich ruins crumble away before the careless attacks of Arab or Circassian, to whom a beautiful carving is only quarried stone. The theater of Amman and the Naumachia of Jerash, once the gathering places of multitudes of leisurely folk who boasted in their civilization, are being ruthlessly destroyed by those whose main demand of a dwelling is that it shall outlast its builder's immediate need.

Gilead is there, with its oaks. The Hauran with its rich fields of grain, unshaded by a single tree except those few semi-sacred monarchs which shelter the tiny tombs of long-dead saints. There, too, is the land of the Ammonites, whither David sent Uriah.

LIMERICK: CITY OF FISHHOOKS AND RHYMED QUIPS

The town that rained a rhyme presents another case in evidence that "history repeats itself" for dispatches state that opposing forces in Ireland are contending for possession of Limerick.

Limerick has always been considered a point of great importance in most of the wars that have swept over the storm-ridden Emerald Isle, says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its Washington, D. C., headquarters. It is located where the River Shannon flows near the head of the unbroken stretches of the green Vale of Tipperary, continues the bulletin. The portion of the river immediately above the city is without navigation, for fifteen miles of rushing torrents, of falls, and rapids, make the passage of any kind of boat impossible. Above these obstructions, however, the river flows from its origin, far to the north, through ten counties, widening into stretches of placid lake along which boats sail as far as the ford of historic Athlone.

Nonsense Verse Made City Famous

That five-line stanza which most of us are guilty of attempting to compose at various times in our careers made the town as well as Edward Lear famous. And many notable, such as Rudyard Kipling, George du Maurier, Gelett Burgess and Carolyn Wells, have tried their hands at penning it. It is said that the composition of limericks originated as a form of amusement when a crowd of people gathered together for a pleasant evening in the Irish town. Each person was supposed to compose a stanza in turn, and the following chorus was sung after each new rhyme in order to give the next contributor time to get his limerick ready:

"Oh, won't you come up, come up, come up, Oh, won't you come, come all the way up, Oh, won't you come up to Limerick."

The town which occupies both sides of the river as well as King's Island (about 100 miles from Dublin, its bacon-curing industry, its breweries, its condensed milk factories, and its salmon fisheries keep busy its Rory O'More and its pretty little Irish cottages, the glances of whose beautiful blue eyes are like to prove as fatal as those of Kate Kearney. Limerick, however, has its beginning, and in the Limerick lake worked upon the quality of net derived its name from the city, it is mostly made in other portions of the island at the present time.

Old As Days of Ptolemy

Limerick has had a past. It was the ancient Regia of Ptolemy; the Danes desired it for a long while before they finally occupied it in the ninth century; and in 1210 King John visited it and built forts upon its coveted soil. The dethroned James II of England made it his last stronghold. On the island in the river the ancient Limerick has its beginnings, and today its maze of crooked streets, and its old cathedral dating from 1170 are important points of interest.

Limerick also has her romance and poetry. All Irishmen may well be proud of Gerald Griffin, whose "Eileen Aroon" is a lyric of the tenderest and most musical quality. The bells of Limerick are famous for their beautiful tone. The story runs that they were made many years ago in Italy by a young bellmaker, who after years of toil perfected a set of bells the purity of whose tone satisfied his critical ear. They were hung in a nearby convent, but during a war the bells were carried away and no one knew of their whereabouts.

Misfortune fell upon the bellmaker and he wandered far from home at ways with the hope that he would find his beloved bells again. Hearing that they had been taken to Limerick, he set out for the city. While sitting on the deck of the vessel as it made its way up the River Shannon, he heard the sweet, pure tones of the bells once again. He fixed his eyes on the distant cathedral whence the music came, but when the captain told him that he might enter the city, he was dead.

First American Tannery.

In 1620 the first tannery in America was built in Virginia. A second one was established a few years later at Lynn, Mass. The tanning industry was well represented among the early settlers of Massachusetts, for it is recorded that no fewer than 51 tanners came to the new colony before 1670. Their industries were in great demand. Skins accumulated so rapidly that in 1640 it was found necessary to pass a law "that every hide and skin should be dried before it corrupts, and sent where they may be tanned and dressed." The tanning industry also received encouragement throughout the colonies by many laws forbidding the exportation of untanned skins. Tanners flourished everywhere, and by 1810 their annual output was worth 20 million dollars.

Correspondence with children of foreign countries, such as that carried on by pupils of the Wadleigh School, is one of the most important and interesting activities of the Junior Red Cross. Youth sympathizes with youth the world over and by exchanging letters with pupils in foreign countries, our pupils come to know something of the youth of other lands and the youth of other lands learn something of those in America. Someone has suggested a "League of Youth" to promote amicable feelings between the people of America and the people of European countries. It is proposed to send one hundred boys of secondary school age abroad to study in the schools of Europe and to bring here to America five hundred boys from the countries of Europe to study in our school. Such an enterprise doubtless would do far to establish better understanding between our own and other peoples, but such a project, doubtless, is a good one. Not the least of the benefit that comes to pupils comes from their effort to write creditable letters. Working together with other they hammer out with infinite care the sentences that will express their thought abroad. Such exercises have a high value by way of training pupils in the arrangement of thought and in the use of English.

The following letter written by the pupils of the seventh grade in the Wadleigh School is a good example of this correspondence:

November 20, 1922.
From the Wadleigh School, Winchester, Mass.
To Italy.
Dear Girls and Boys:
The members of Grade Seven, Latin Two, have been looking forward during the summer for a reply to their letter. We enjoyed your letter greatly. We were especially interested in the accounts of your visits to historical places in Rome. Our country is not so old as yours, so we do not have the opportunity to visit ancient ruins. Instead of being in the Prince School we are now in the Wadleigh. This school is located near the center of the town. The material on the outside is a light shaded brick. This building has four stories. In the summer it is a wonderful sight as vines cover the walls. We have two fire escapes on the building. Steps lead up to the two main entrances; one is for the boys and one for the girls. The playground behind the school is for the boys and the one at the front for the girls. In the front yard there are shrubs and a little green lawn. We used to have a large lawn, but as the girls had no place to play, the school committee allowed them to use the front lawn, and soon the girls killed out most of the grass.

As one enters either of the main entrances one comes to a small corridor from which a short flight of stairs lead to the basement. Here on the left of the girls' stairway is a spacious sewing room well equipped and ready for use. Miss Knight is the sewing instructor. This room is arranged with small tables side by side around the room. Each child sits at an individual table. We all have a large black box with our name on it in which we keep our sewing materials between lessons. There are also sewing machines. In front of Miss Knight's desk, she is so busy she seldom sits at it. Along on part of the wall is brown burlap which is used for exhibiting finished articles, and samples of different kinds of thread used for cloth and stitches we make. Next to this room is the book room where a small library is being established. Many books to assist us in our lessons are here. A teacher is always in charge. The bicycle room where the bicycles are kept during school hours adjoins the book room. The boiler room is also near. The printing is in still another section of the basement. Here are fourteen cases with ten drawers to every case. They are filled with type. The boys print various school notices; also our school paper "The Wadleigh Life" under Mr. Ockerbloom's supervision. Near to the printing room is the manual training room. Here the boys learn to construct various useful articles from wood under the instruction of Miss Bailey. There are twenty-five benches each of which is equipped with two planes, a chisel, screw driver, right angle and a rule.

On the second and third floors there are four classrooms. These rooms are numbered from one to eight. There are two English rooms one taught by Miss Hayward and the other by Miss Hills. We have Miss Hayward, and she is very jolly and nice. We are reading and dramatizing "The Courtship of Miles Standish." Every Monday we have oral compositions. This is most interesting because we are allowed to have a pupil leader to call upon the ones to recite. Other children criticize the stories and thus tell them how to recite better. Oftentimes we play baseball with crumpled paper. Two diamonds are marked on the board. Miss Hayward, a different pupil from each side of the room questions. After four questions have been answered correctly on one that side gets a home run. The greatest number of wins wins. We take the names of the two teams.

There are two arithmetic rooms where Mrs. Dresser and Mrs. O'Sullivan teach. Mrs. O'Sullivan is so jolly that we sometimes wish we could have her all day. Mrs. O'Sullivan teaches us many short methods in arithmetic. Next come the two history and geography rooms where Mrs. Rowe and Miss Davis teach. Mrs. Rowe is teaching about our country. She shows us pictures about your country and the people. When we are studying it makes us feel as if we were there.

Mrs. Davis is our music and drawing teacher. We are at present learning a Thanksgiving song. There is a piano in her room. She shows us how to make wonderful pictures in drawing. Miss Barr is the other music teacher. She is also our Latin teacher. She teaches us songs and stories and how to say words in Latin. She tells us stories in Latin and we translate them into English.

Mr. Higbee gives us exercises to make our bodies strong. Our teachers have us sit up straight and stand on both feet. They make us do this so we will become strong. In our school we have a student council. Each of the eight home rooms elect a president, vice president and secretary and each of the eight divisions a leader and an assistant leader. These forty people with two teachers from the Student Council. The council has a pupil president, vice president and secretary. It meets every two weeks and discusses how it can make the school a better one. The members of this council wear a co-operation pin.

what's that? My car on fire?

DEDICATION OF ALICE F. SYMMES MEMORIAL WINDOW

The window placed in the Unitarian Church in memory of Miss Alice F. Symmes was unveiled and dedicated Sunday Feb. 11th at 12, in the presence of the Sunday School and a large gathering of the friends of Miss Symmes. Two of Miss Symmes' last class, Miss Frances Mason and Miss Barbara Watters, unveiled the window. Mr. Smith told of the many different ways in which the children earned the money which paid for the child in the window. Mr. Reed spoke of Miss Symmes as a living epistle of the faith she loved, and Doctor Francis Clark, "Father Clark," founder of the Christian Endeavor movement, a cousin and lifelong friend of Miss Symmes, spoke of the fine loyalty of her life. The window is the gift of some of Miss Symmes' friends, the children in the Sunday School each giving a dollar earned by himself to make the child in the window possible. The memorial is rich in color and beautiful in design.

SNOW STILL WITH US

Another snow storm arrived as per schedule Tuesday morning, adding considerably to the already abnormal amount now on the ground. The storm was a good one while it lasted, it starting just before daylight and continuing until shortly after noon. The snow was heavy and caused considerable inconvenience to traffic, the trains running late and the electric cars at odd intervals.

Owing to the fact that the electric from Stoughton, which brings the morning papers here, ran off the track, the town was without the early papers, they not arriving until nearly noon.

The Highway department tackled the problem actively and by Wednesday had cleaned out the centre and half of the road open. Cold weather continued with the storm, the glass dropping to six above, while another light storm was experienced Wednesday morning, with cloudy weather through the week.

MEETING OF MISSION UNION

The Mission Union held its regular all day meeting at the Congregational Church on Tuesday with a good attendance in spite of the bad storm. The serving for the day was held at the home of Miss Mary Furbush, a school for white girls in the mountains of Tennessee.

After a delicious luncheon a short business meeting was held and then Mr. Eddy Asorvatham of Madras, South India, a student at Andover Theological Seminary, gave a very enlightening talk on the Christian and Hindu religions, bringing out the advantages which Christianity has over Hinduism in helping with the spiritual and social uplift of the people of India.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Fowler have christened their newly arrived son Robert Newton Fowler.

We're afraid that at the present rate bandits and bootleggers will have so much of Uncle Sam's money he won't have any to lend Europe.

We defy any woman in Winchester to answer this: "Why will a woman treat her husband like 30c and then want $100.00 damages if some other woman gets him?"

The latter part of December a Twenty-Five Thousand Dollar Policy was issued on the application of a Boston man. The agent urged him to have the policy put in force at the time of examination by signing a note.

This he would not do, but thought he would take the insurance and pay for it immediately after Jan. 1st. On Dec. 28, he was exercising rather violently, and a clot of blood entered his heart killing him instantly.

It is interesting to note that according to information secured by our School Building Committee, the increased cost of building from last Spring is about 20 per cent.

Our new school buildings are to again come before the voters at the annual town meeting. The special committee on new school houses is to submit two matters for consideration. One the changing of the location of the much discussed Chapin School and the other the retention of the brick stable on the Shattuck lot, wherein the new Wyman School is under construction. As regards the latter, there is no question whatever but what this stable, commodious and well constructed, will make an excellent addition to our school property. Possibly its most desirable use may be in the way of a storehouse or for auxiliary use. The STAR is inclined to the view that it is too far from the center of affairs to be used for the Superintendent's office or for administrative purposes. It should, nevertheless, be retained. The primary question to be considered is the change in location of the proposed Chapin School. This too, appears a desirable feature. It is well known that many difficulties have been thrown in the way of taking the site voted on Florence street and it is equally well known that in planning the program of new buildings, a school on the northern side hill was omitted. The argument of the committee also holds numerous favorable considerations. We print the committee's report herewith. As the STAR stated earlier in the season, the School Building Committee has no hesitation in placing its opinions before the Town, and public opinion and discussion is now sought.

A lawyer decided to turn over part of his practice to his son. Shortly afterward the young man, beaming with pleasure, entered the office and said: "Father, I've settled that John-son case we've been about so many years." "Settled it?" was the astonished reply. "Why, my dear boy, I gave you that case as an annuity."

The Friendly Glow

A step today, and— you can meet tomorrow

IT used to be New Downer's Landing—a picnic grove, with an amusement park, and rowboats for hire to idle about the Fore River. It's just across Quincy Point Bridge, and just opposite the shipyards, on the main shore road to the Cape.

We have bought 60 acres there, and when winter is out of the ground there will be activity. The plans are drawn, the contracts awarded, and you will see the building of a station there to generate 400,000 horsepower of electricity.

It will rank with the largest generating stations in the United States; with enough capacity to supply the Greater Boston district with twice the electricity it used on December 21, 1922, the biggest day in its history.

It will have storage space for 300,000 tons of coal—enough to make electricity for Greater Boston for 170 days like last December 21st.

And it is built by simple arithmetic!

How do we dare build so far beyond the maximum of present requirement? By simple arithmetic. You aren't likely to come to us today for twice the electricity that is now helping you to live and work more easily, and more effectively; even if you do, it isn't likely that the two million others in Greater Boston will have the same needs at the same moment. Aren't we guessing? No, we're figuring!

For example: In December of 1921 you did so many things with electricity in home and shop and office and factory, and in going to and fro, that you used 38,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity.

One year later, in December, 1922, you used over fifty million kilowatt hours in the business of making Greater Boston greater—an increase of 32 per cent over the previous December, and the first time you ever needed more than 50,000,000.

A one-third increase in one year! If that rate of growth were to go on, in less than three years Greater Boston would use twice the quantity of today. It won't be quite as fast as that, for Greater Boston is no boom town. But it is our business to know exactly what your requirement will be, and to meet it even before you know your needs yourself.

Arithmetic plus Faith

Every calculation we make looks forward so Greater Boston can step forward. Every record we have shows it has stepped forward. Our simple arithmetic is based on the relentless advance of Greater Boston in a common spirit that for nearly three centuries has made this city greater every year.

That sort of figuring is called Faith. Faith is one-way, and two-sided. We grow together.

THE LOT OF A FUEL ADMINISTRATOR

Meanwhile, may I say that last March in accordance with my usual custom, I gave to the Staples Coal Company—the only company from which I have bought coal for several years for my Boston home—in order to deliver some furnace coal for my heater and some stove and nut coal mixed for my range. The order was for about one-third the usual quantity consumed. I gave this reduced order because of the difference of opinion that prevailed as to whether or not the mines would actually shut down April 1st, and on the theory, first, that if they did not shut down prices might be lower; and secondly, that if they did shut down—as I stated to my dealer—and a coal emergency should arise, I would not be happy with my bins filled with coal. Having several small children it was necessary that the house be kept warm, and with this coal I had a heater load spring until such time as the weather became sufficiently warm to close it up, and continued to use my range coal for cooking purposes until we closed our house for the summer. This almost fully depleted the coal I had on hand, and when we reopened our Boston house in October, again because the small children had to be kept warm, I burned wood. We also burned wood in the country again because the small children had to be kept warm.

On December 2nd in order to make sure that I had enough fuel for the winter, I had delivered to my house 10½ tons of lumphead coal, costing $10.50 per ton, steeple size, and upon which there are no royalties, and a substitute fuel for prepared sizes of anthracite.

On January 24, 1923, being entirely out of range coal, I bought three tons at $16 per ton.

Today, I estimate that I have in my home about five tons of lumphead coal, a substitute—about a ton and a half of furnace coal, and about a ton to a ton and a half of range coal, and perhaps a couple of tons of anthracite, may I say, that wood continues to be in our home the principal fuel. The actual measurements of what I have on hand, however, I hope Mr. Moss will give to the public some time today.

In this same morning newspaper, reference is made to a copy of the regulations which I have posted in my cellar for the guidance of the man who is in charge of my range, and the regulations of the Federal Fuel Administrator for the purpose of conserving coal; also to the grade of coal I have there. I do not refer to these regulations, unless it is to emphasize the fact that I have been dealing with responsible people in the purchase of my coal.

In the same article the following statement appears: "Mr. Phelan is a director of one of the largest soft coal corporations in the country."

In the heat of the recent gubernatorial campaign, a somewhat similar statement was made from the political platform at the moment I read it, I wrote His Excellency, Governor Cox, under date of Oct. 2, 1922, as follows:

My dear Governor Cox:—

Owing to the carelessness and reckless statements made by the press, I feel that it is only proper that you should be informed that I am not a director of the Staples Coal Company, Incorporated. Under the laws of Massachusetts, mine, smelting, refining and mining business, the principal coal mines are derived from the mine, refining and treating of coal in Mexico. This company owns and operates a coal mine in Utah, its product being what is generally known as bituminous or soft coal.

Its average yearly production of coal, covering the last ten years has been 921,282 tons. Its greatest production for one year has been 1,022,222 tons. The total production of bituminous, or soft coal of this country is estimated at about 10,000,000 tons per annum.

Coal is sold in Utah by lot for $4.50 to $5.50 at the mine, and the freight per ton on coal shipped from Utah to Massachusetts would be about $1.50 to $2.00, or a total cost landed in Massachusetts of $6.00 to $7.50 per ton. This company adds the cost and profit to the Massachusetts dealer for handling it. From these figures, it is quite apparent that none of this coal will find a market in New England.

I am not a director of the New River Coal Company, nor I directly, or indirectly, financially interested therein; nor am I a director, or directly, or indirectly interested financially in any other coal company. I am, however, financially interested in many industrial corporations in various parts of the country, which are consumers of soft coal. These companies, naturally, would be interested in obtaining their coal as cheaply as possible.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) James J. Phelan

Under ordinary or normal conditions, I should be extremely loath to discuss my private affairs in public, but realizing that the responsible position I hold as State Emergency Fuel Administrator is a very serious one under existing conditions, I feel obligated in this instance to continue to do what I have been doing since I took office, namely, to give the public the facts on the fuel situation as I see them.

When His Excellency, Governor Cox, drafted me for this office, I realized that the incumbent thereof would be subject to criticism, and very little, if any, commendation, on the theory that those who would be fortunate enough to obtain the coal needed would feel that they got nothing but what they deserved, and those who did not get what they needed, would naturally feel that the responsibility rested upon the Fuel Administrator. However, I did not enter the office looking for bouquets. Therefore, I have not been disappointed. I entered it with the full purpose of serving the public and the entire public to the best of my ability, and I appreciated from the beginning that my job was to get as much coal into the State as possible, at as low a price to the consuming public as conditions would warrant. This I have tried to do, from the beginning, am trying to do today, and without fear or favor.

James J. Phelan, State Emergency Fuel Administrator.

This letter is sent out at the personal expense of James J. Phelan.

Travel about town was greatly improved this week when the Highway department had its men out picking up the deep ruts in the main highways. Most of the principal streets were thus smoothed off, greatly to the satisfaction of motorists.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE

Judging from all the precedents of "The Boyhood of Famous Men" and similar publications so familiar to well-read Winchesterites, the mathematical guess of the future of the age of 17 or less, silently listening to a family discussion of the good and bad features of the daylight-saving law.

"When Men Leave Home" is a new play. One fellow here in Winchester says it is because he hates to stay there alone.

Business men in and out of Winchester need to be very careful as to who answers telephone calls in their places of business. A good friend of the Spectator's just had a disagreeable experience with a snappish answer to his telephone call. To hear a courteous, pleasant voice over the wire conveys the impression that the place is run in a smooth, harmonious, business-like way. It makes one wish to have more dealings with such a place. It induces a Winchesterite to call up that establishment before others when business in that line is desired. A competent, pleasant person at the telephone is a big asset to any office and the Spectator only wishes that more of our business men realized it.

Whatever may be said of the merits of the question whether only boys with the right kind of brains should go to college, a little investigation shows that a college education is not absolutely essential to success as the world usually estimates success. The truth of the matter seems to be that, if a boy has a capacity for hard and persistent work, he will succeed whether he has a college education or not, and probably the college education would help him provided it didn't spoil his capacity for hard and persistent work. Unfortunately one of the objects of modern educational methods seems to be to weaken this capacity by making a boy's mind so full of facts and figures that he can't think for himself. Brains can't be made by spooning an inclination to work hard.

Longer skirts are not laid, remarks a Winchesterite, so far as he can see.

Nature's wild life and the complex industry of civilization never mix more strangely than when a deer was killed by a locomotive in the yards of a city near Winchester. Such incidents surprise the European, and in this land so new in all that science can accomplish, so old in its rocks and vines. A surveyor station in his work to shoot to beat a collector of students visit an Indian reservation. Girls on botanical excursions see rattlesnakes. Amateur photographers light on a structure left by a mound builder who declined to sell at the prices real estate agents would offer. Elsewhere the lover of the fine arts and the antiquary are men cast in different moulds. Here the man who desires the latest pattern in wall paper may choose a home because of its archaeological interest for him.

This Friday is an active day at the Cabaret Club, there being an afternoon lecture for the ladies opening at 2:30 o'clock and a visitation by the Newton Club of Newtonville this evening. The bridge party is to be in charge of Mrs. Philip C. Simonds, Mrs. J. Frank Tuttle and Mrs. Willard T. Carleton. Exceptional interest is attached to the visit of the Newton Club to the club that the organization will bring with it double the usual number of teams in billiards, pool and cards, besides two bowling teams. This will mean a big attendance and great interest in the sports.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

On Monday afternoon, Mr. C. E. Kendall of the Winchester Water Board gave a talk illustrated by a map upon the Reformation work of the board. Thousands of white pine have been planted about the reservoirs in the Falls so that in the future Winchester will possess one of the finest forests in this section of the country.

This interesting talk was followed by a group of songs "The Nightingale" by Whelpley; "Daisy in the Forest," by Ronald and "Youth" by Ferrari, sung most acceptably by Mrs. C. W. Dunham.

One of the lectures heard at the Fortnightly this season was given by Dr. Edgar H. Lichter on "The Vaudeville Mind." It was a witty, and thought provoking.

Dr. Lichter described the Vaudeville Mind as a chaotic mind; one which does not think clearly on any subject, but is crowded with scattered and unrelated impressions, with no sense of values. Mr. Robinson alludes to this type in his mind in the making and shows that thinking is one of the most difficult things to do. The majority of people take life and the life of their own times for granted. If we were to think clearly and think ahead on International and other vital questions, we would have no wars nor labor troubles.

We Americans have had attack of the Vaudeville mind at the present time. It is like a Vaudeville performance where we check our brains outside when we go in, for there is no connection, no sequence, no standard of refinement in such a performance. Certain Institutions are often gripped by this type of mind.

We note it in the field of education. A superintendent brings into a town a certain policy with its principles, text books and trained teachers.

Assume for instance that an old fashioned curriculum is adopted with emphasis on the Fundamentals and insistence on the study of distasteful subjects for the sake of disciplining the mind.

Before this is given a fair trial, it is supplanted by the modern idea,—the urge to achieve some one thing and take the other studies as by-products; thereby getting educated without being aware of it.

Few communities are willing to stay by one policy long enough to see it through. They become restless, and take a little of each, adopting part of the new without elimination of the old thereby producing confusion of thought.

Dr. Lichter speaking as a "puzzled priest" facetiously drew a picture of the multiplicity of activities in the schools, showing how they are liable to defeat high scholarship and how they tend to produce the Vaudeville Mind in the pupils.

He made it clear that if they were wild young people today it was because there are wild old people; that uncultured homes were responsible for the unfortunate tendencies of this generation. He believed, however, that the youth of today were 100% better than those of a former age.

The Vaudeville Mind is also seen in politics where measures for the public good are defeated by partisan minds; also in religion where the church seeks to keep its hold on people by popular Sunday evening meetings so that your prophet is lost in your entertainer.

The way out of this kind of mind is by taking thought. Every step in silence is a re-examination of fundamental ideas. All progress means a re-thinking of old ideas.

But even more than clear thinking, we need the cultivation of a new attitude of mind, viz, the culture of the liberal aspect, imagination and sympathy of another's view point.

The speaker gave illustrations of this new attitude in his associations with individuals of other religions and other races than his own where he succeeded in finding the common ground each could stand on.

He showed that classes in Citizenship (a better word than Americanization) should be supplemented by social contacts letting each race make its contribution to the common good.

When we thus think, however, we try to make education self-realization and social efficiency; we try to make "Home a place, not of 'don'ts' and 'thou shalt not's'; but a positive force for good will; we try to make the church break down barriers and create warmer sympathies; we try to make industry co-operative.

Dr. Lichter closed with a strong plea to those present to try to cultivate this new attitude and get the viewpoint of another, adding that he knew that only a few who believed in it are willing to pay the price.

"Henry Hudson's last voyage," he recited, which closed with the words: "So point her up John. King No'west by North."

We'll keep the honor of a certain aim And sail ahead, and leave the rest to God."

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, our State Representative, will introduce the first of her classes on current events in the Fortnightly room on Friday, February 23, at 8 o'clock. It was a rare piece of good fortune that enabled the Civics Committee to secure so able a speaker as Mrs. Poole and not one of the three lectures of the course should be missed by those enrolled in the class.

Monday, March 26, at 8 o'clock in the evening, is the annual Guest Night. On this new occasion the play "Billeted" will be presented by the Dramatics Committee, after which it will be dancing and refreshments. This is to be a formal affair. Any member desiring guest tickets may have the same by sending a stamped, self-addressed return envelope to any of the following persons: Mrs. Kerrison, Mrs. E. F. Boyd, Mrs. I. L. Symmes, Mrs. W. B. Wood, Mrs. B. F. Miner, Mrs. W. S. Davis, Mrs. A. D. Rogers, Mrs. G. F. Fenn. Positively no tickets will be sold at the door nor will tickets be sold after February 23. This is in order that the Special Committee may know in plenty of time for how many to provide refreshments.

A Far Cry

The distance to which a man's voice will carry depends upon many different circumstances. The condition of the atmosphere is one—damp will slow down the sound waves, while dry, crisp air will forward them easily. Wind is another factor—so is the height of the speaker in regard to the number of objects, rocks and so on in front of him. The number of competing noises also has to be considered. Under ordinary circumstances few voices will carry intelligibly much over a couple of hundred yards, but this distance has been far exceeded with exceptionally favorable conditions. In the stillness of the frozen north, for instance, a voice will carry for over a mile. And a song, as rendered from a mountain top, was once heard at a distance of four miles.

Identity Established

Betty and her brother were each given a baby chick some time ago and for many weeks they had nursed them tenderly and were now being rewarded for their care by two adorable chickens. But there seems to have been some competition between the children as to superiority of their pets, and of late Betty's protégé had been affecting grand manners and rather a strut to flaunt her success. One morning she wakened to hear him crowing with all the fervor of an opera tenor. "Mother," she called, excitedly, "I know a rooster, because I heard it

DEATH OF ARTHUR H. RUSSELL

Arthur Hastings Russell, one of the most eminent and highly respected citizens of Winchester, died at his home on Mt. Pleasant street at 2 a. m. yesterday following a severe attack of heart trouble with which he was overtaken on Tuesday, at his office in Boston. Mr. Russell had been a resident of the town for 36 years, during which time he had risen to the first rank in his profession of law, and had received many proofs of the high regard for him for his worth as a

He came of a family of great lawyers and in his practice of nearly 40 years proved himself worthy of its best traditions. His ideals of the law were the finest and these he embodied in a long and honorable career, distinguished alike by his ability and attainment of the highest standards.

Mr. Russell was born in Boston, Dec. 1, 1859, the son of Thomas Hastings and Maria Louisa (Wiswall) Russell, and the descendant of William Russell who settled in Watertown in 1645, and Col. Samuel Hastings.

He was graduated from the Boston Latin School in 1877, from Amherst College in 1881, and from the Law School of Boston University in 1884. He became at once a member of the firm of C. T. and T. H. Russell.

founded in 1845, and for over 75 years conducted by members of the same family. He remained with it during the whole of his professional career, becoming its head 20 years ago, when it was changed to Russell, Moore and Russell. He was notable in admiralty practice, representing the Dominion Government in some international matters, and had many trusts and estates to administer. He was offered a place on the Superior Court bench, but this he declined. He was a member of the American, Massachusetts and Boston Bar Association.

Mr. Russell served in 10 different years as moderator for the town meeting, from 1897 to 1901, then in 1903, 1905, 1906, 1909 and 1910. He was chairman of the special committee appointed to consider the building of a high school in 1901, and was very active in the movement to secure a new form of town government six years ago. He was identified with the Church of the Epiphany from the outset, drawing its constitution, securing its incorporation and serving for 10 years on its vestry. He had been a member of the University Club of Boston and of the City Club of Chicago.

for Boston, and of the City Club. He was a member of the Calumet Club and had served as its president. He was a member of the Country Club.

He was married in Dorchester, Feb. 17, 1885 to Fannie Estelle Hunt, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Hunt, who survives him, with three daughters, Mrs. W. A. Claffin, Mrs.

Frank Baker of Randolph, Mrs. E. C. Doubleday of Springfield, and five grandchildren; also two sisters, Mrs. Edward Walley of Brookline and Mrs. H. P. Peck of Mt. Vernon, N. H.

Funeral services will be held at his home, 10 Mt. Pleasant street, tomorrow at 3 p. m.

WILLIAM ALLEN DODGE

William Allen Dodge of Washington street, a well known house painter of this town, died at his home on Wednesday morning after a long illness. He was 68 years of age and was a na-

Mr. Dodge came to Winchester 40 years ago and engaged in his trade of painter, for many years conducting a large business. He was the son of Allen and Charlotte (Upton) Dodge. His wife, who was Elizabeth Metcalf of Oxford, died about six years ago, and since that time he has been and since that time he had been in steadily failing health. He is survived by two daughters, Miss Charlotte E. Dodge and Miss Harriet L. Dodge, and by three sons, George S. of Waltham and Harry W. and Fred A. of this town. He also leaves two brothers and three sisters in St. Johns, N. S.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Clifton H. Walcott of the First Baptist Church yesterday afternoon and were held at the residence. The pall bearers were the three sons of the deceased and Mr. Arthur W. Lloyd. The remains will be interred in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

A daughter was born on Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lovett of Boston. She has been named Eugenia. Mrs. Lovett is the daughter of Mrs. Harrison Parker of Main street and was before her marriage Miss Esther Parker.

A SKATING MARVEL

Little Winchester Girl Attracts Much Notice on the Ice

A little girl named Maribel, who wears a red jersey with ducks embroidered on the collar and cuffs, has been picked by experts as the coming world champion fancy skater. Maribel intends to be a brain specialist.

She was found in the dressing shed at the Cambridge Skating Rink, a private place next to Longfellow Park. She was sitting on a bench beside her mother, who had Maribel's foot on her knee, so she could lace Maribel's skating boot.

Maribel's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Vinson of High street, are fancy skaters. Mrs. Vinson has gained honors and Mrs. Vinson has done fancy skating for fun, although she has never been in competition. Maribel is six years old. They have always come to the Cambridge skating rink in the winter and when Maribel was old enough to walk they brought her along, first with double runner skates. They gave her real skates when she was 4 years old. From the first Maribel didn't have to take hold of anybody's hand. She was skating in imitation of her parents before they realized she could get along at all. Maribel is now 11 years old. For her skating she has been awarded four cups, three plates, one bowl, seven badges and two medals. Last year she skated in the annual exhibition at the rink.

Now, she is studying skating with "Willie" Frick, exhibition skater at the arena.

She will give an exhibition soon at the Ellis Memorial Carnival. School studies come easy to Maribel. She is attending the Girls Latin School in Boston, is in the sixth class of the Latin School, or what would ordinarily be known as the seventh grade. Her last report, containing seven marks, had six "A's," meaning excellent.

Maribel is an unusual little girl in a good many ways. She has disliked dolls from babyhood. Her pleasures have been of the outdoor, although she had dabbled sometimes in making pies and can make them well, also cakes and candy. She never went to school until she was 9 years old, because Mrs. Vinson, a Radcliffe graduate, took the child's primary education into her own hands.

Along with the activities of the child has grown an immense capacity for ideas. She has ideas on most everything and on fashions she has ideas "decidedly."

She stopped suddenly in a cardinal whirl and gazed up at the reporter, pert as a sunny bird. "I think powder and rouge are sins and I think long skirts, with what do you call them, panels, hanging down from them, are horrid. And I think that knickers are not the thing for skating—absolutely. They're not disgraceful, I've got knickers, but I wouldn't wear them skating."

"O, I like other things than skating. I like to climb trees and I like to swim, and run and jump and ride horseback." (Maribel rode in a horse show a month after she was first put on a horse.)

"I like Latin best of all my studies. I'm taking history, geography, mathematics and physiology."

"I'm going to be a doctor. A brain specialist."

Maribel is a dashing, flashing, graceful little thing. As she flashes over the ice every movement is like a fancy dance. She lives pictures—obviously not a set of poses taught her, but poetic motion due to an innate sense of rhythm.

Mrs. Vinson goes with Maribel to the Cambridge Skating Rink on afternoons, to Maribel's class at the Arena two afternoons a week, and otherwise sees that Maribel is given the right amount of motherly care. Maribel goes to bed at 8 every night, gets up at 6:30 a. m. and leaves her home somewhere after 7, so that she may get to school on time.

But though Maribel may be a little girl, she has quite a hand in the way things shall go. When Maribel decided what should and what shouldn't be topics for an interview her mother quieted her and explained: "You'll notice Maribel is a little bossy."—[Boston Globe.]

THE BLACK FEATHER

Mr. Wray Bohman made an excellent Frenchman, being in the manner (and likewise the slung) born. He filled in the necessary part of the tool of the conspirators. Mr. Alden Symmes, the wicked Baron who caused the trouble, was perfectly natural except for the mustache and goatee. Nothing else need be said in praise of Alden. We have all seen him and all enjoyed his acting, which, along with that of Francis Wyman, has a finish beyond comparison. Regarding the chauffeur, William McKee, and the gamekeeper, Charles Harrold, 3d, we also assume they were perfect in their parts. We know McKee is a good chauffeur and probably he drove his master in haste and safety—as in private life. Harrold looked able to do the wicked Baron in hand and probably turned him over to the proper authorities without further incident. You should ask Harrold about that.

The cast was as follows:
Baron Ernest Von Anthonen, Alden Symmes
Jack Thornton, Jack's sister, Wendell Bent
Sir George Gordon, Harry Barker
Lady Victoria Gordon, Margarette Waldner
Dick Kent, Kenneth Caldwell
Paul de la Roche, Wray Bohman
Countess Wanda Von Holtzberg, Rita Johnson
Baroness, a chauffeur, William McKee
Patron, a gamekeeper, Charles Harrold, 3d
The play was given by the Legion was headed by Mr. George J. Bodley, and included Messrs. Louis Goddard, George W. Harrold, H. Harold Dover, Henry B. Harris and George F. Le-land. A substantial sum was realized from the play, which will be used for the benefit of the Post, the officers of which was Vincent P. Clarke, Commander; George J. Barbano, Vice-Commander; Harry Bigelow, Adjutant; Arthur S. Harris, Finance Officer and Henry B. Harris, Historian.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Rehearsals for the Guest Night play "Billeted," give promise of its being as fine a production as any Fortnightly play of recent years. Be on hand with your tickets Monday evening, Feb. 26, at eight o'clock. No tickets can be obtained after Friday, Feb. 23. Remember, this is to be an informal party with dancing and refreshments after the play.

There are so many interesting offerings by the various committees of the club, that unless one follows announcements carefully one is likely to forget some occasion which one was most desirous of attending. The postponed literature meeting will be held in the Fortnightly room on Monday afternoon, February 26, the same date as that of Guest Night. Miss Richmond and Mrs. Carrier will conduct the afternoon which will be devoted to reading Percy MacKaye's "The Scarecrow" and "Washington, the Man Who Made Us." Governor Cox is to give the chief address at the Mid-Winter meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, which will be held at the Somerville High School on Tuesday, February 27. The morning session opens at 10 o'clock and the afternoon session will be held at 2 o'clock. Every club member other than a delegate desiring to attend may do so by applying to the President for a white admission ticket.

On Thursday the 15th of Feb., Mrs. Cyrus Dallin conducted a party of ladies through the Art Gallery of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. She faced the trip by a short sketch of the History of Painting in order that the progression in technique, in the handling of color, light, etc., in the pictures might be more fully understood. Certainly without her explanation the room containing examples of very early paintings would not have been so thoroughly enjoyed. Here were pictures of saints and martyrs, virgins and madonnas, done in a purely decorative manner, with lovely gold backgrounds. Then through rooms, where problems of technique, had been thoroughly mastered, where wonderful scenery had taken the place of the gold backgrounds, and the portraits were living, human beings; stopping to admire Turner's "Slave Ship," a revolution at that time, in the treatment of light. The room of Impressionists was, as always, a joy. The walls seemed to vibrate with the luminous light of these masterpieces. Mrs. Dallin is so full of her subject that she is an inspired speaker, and the walls seemed to vibrate with the luminous light of these masterpieces. Mrs. Dallin is so full of her subject that she is an inspired speaker, and the walls seemed to vibrate with the luminous light of these masterpieces.

The next lecture will be in the Fortnightly Room at 10 o'clock on March 14. The subject is "Life in the Latin Quarter."

The Misses Edith and Flora Caverly of this town are among the members of the Appalachian Club who have been spending the week in New Hampshire.

The old Houston Block, one of the oldest business blocks in the town, is being demolished to make room for a gasoline station. This block, at the corner of Main and Park streets, was long occupied by Edmund Sanderson as a general store and as a hardware store in Winchester's early days.

Miss Helen Bowe gave a tea and shower in honor of Miss Carol Dow on Saturday at her home on the Parkway. Thirty young ladies attended. Miss Dow, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowe of Main street, has recently announced her engagement to Mr. Guy Howe. She was the recipient of many attractive gifts.

NEWTON THE BEST

The Newton Club of Newtonville was the guest of the Calumet Club on Friday evening, and notwithstanding the fact that the night was one of the coldest of the winter, about fifty members came to Winchester and took part in the various matches and enjoyed the entertainment provided by the local organization.

The visitors had much the best of the argument and captured the majority of the points represented by the various sports. Calumet, however, had considerable save for its wounds in viewing the work done by its second bowling team and by Arthur E. Sanford in particular, for the team, after rolling a single string of 582, piled up a total of 1648, only 25 pins below the club record, while Sanford covered himself with congratulations by making a three string total of 402.

The work of the second bowling team was the only redeeming feature, however, for Calumet lost all but one point at cards and the first bowling team lost all four of its bowling points. Calumet won two out of three in pool. There were no billiard matches as the players for both teams were unable to reach the club in time for play.

In the bowling the second Calumet five started right off and created a decided sensation with its first string. Newton second never had a chance. Sanford with 129, 137 and 146, rolled 402 for a total and his team-mates were not lagging. S. W. Taylor rolling 313 with 118, Heaton being second in order with 322 on 116 and Aseltine 319 with 115. Calumet first tied the second string, but lost on the roll-off. Newman was the only man on the team to go the nine rings in good shape, he making a total of 329 with 125 for his best string. Bloomfield of the visitors, with 366 on 139, rolled what would have been a magnificent game under ordinary circumstances, and several of his team-mates were well up.

THE STATUS OF ORGANIZED LABOR

Recent efforts in many quarters to readjust unsatisfactory economic conditions have frequently resulted in conflicts between employers and groups of their organized workers.

Both the authorized and self-appointed spokesmen for the labor unions have loudly proclaimed that these controversies have had their inception in the desire of employers to destroy organized labor with the further implication that such a motive was so creditable as necessarily to require subterfuge and secret plotting for its accomplishment.

Unoubtedly many employers have good reason to seek permanent relief from restrictions, exactions and embarrassments which often have been unjustly imposed upon them by union labor to the serious detriment of their business. If, as a consequence, they experience a desire to accomplish the destruction of organized labor they are clearly entitled to advocate it openly without the necessity of an apology for so doing.

There is nothing sacred in the conception of the labor union which entitles it to a greater public consideration than that accorded to any other body of individuals who may associate themselves together for purposes of mutual benefit. Organized labor constitutes, at the most, not more than 10 per cent of those who are required to earn their living in this country. It is organized primarily for an assumedly legitimate although admittedly selfish purpose. It makes no pretense at altruism either in its methods or policies.

Under wise leadership, organized labor is capable of contributing constructively to the welfare of the nation. It is susceptible of producing much that is good or much of evil according as its efforts are intelligently or viciously directed. If beneficent results predominate it will deserve and undoubtedly will receive the sympathetic support of the people of this country. If, on the contrary, its pursuit of a false philosophy precipitates conditions prejudicial to the interests and welfare of the great unorganized mass of our population, its destruction, as an agency of evil, will become not only legitimate, but highly desirable and commendable as well.

It is an appropriate time to caution the leaders of the labor movement in this country that they occupy no exceptional position in the social order which assures to them superior advantages over their millions of fellow men and that the permanence or destruction of their organization depends entirely upon the manner in which they discharge their obligations and responsibilities to the balance of society.

Charles R. Gow

THE PHILOSOPHY OF PROFIT

Leaders of radical thought usually assert that all production is the fruit solely of the wage worker's toil and that, therefore, profit in industry is morally indefensible.

The fallacy in this reasoning lies in the obvious fact that workers in modern industry can produce nothing until some one has first supplied them with the necessary tools and facilities required for their several operations. Even then, production can result only under the proper direction of an intelligent management capable of intelligently co-ordinating the varied abilities of the individual employees.

In the days when man lived a primitive existence, he retained for his own benefit the entire productive result of his labor, but it should be noted that under such conditions he was frequently subjected to extreme privation and suffering owing to the meagre return which oftentimes attended his efforts.

From the time when men first conceived the principle of the division of labor, which has made possible the advancement of civilization to its present status, the individual worker has been obliged to contribute a portion of the value of his production to those who have assisted him to prosper beyond the limits of his own unaided ability.

It is a most significant fact that every experimental effort which has ever been undertaken to eliminate all profit from industry and to appropriate to the individual worker the entire value of the output of his labor, has resulted in an involuntary return to a social condition approximating the primitive state of mankind. The present unfortunate plight of the people of Russia demonstrates anew the inevitable consequence of attempting to eliminate profit as a factor in industry.

If the dissatisfied elements of society were called upon to make their choice between their present condition—unsatisfactory as it may appear to them in many of its aspects—and that of their primitive progenitors there is little question as to the course which they would be likely to pursue.

MUST WE CURTAIL IN SCHOOLS?

The annual report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, made public today, contains much important matter pertaining to many of the problems of our educational system besides the usual summary of the activities of the foundation for the past year. Such matters as teacher training, pensions, dental education, legal education, insurance and annuities are treated at length. Especially interesting to Massachusetts readers will be the comments in the report on the municipal pension system of Boston and the study by the president of the foundation, Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, of the problem of the rising cost of education.

In the judgment of the foundation, "a better plan for sound pension legislation could be made than the statement presented by the Boston finance commission to the Massachusetts court." "With the exception of a few minor points," the system is commended without reservations. It is clear and simple. All can understand how it works. The retiring allowances are based on assets actually in hand and not on salary scales prevailing some 30 or 40 years hence. The reserve system makes it an improvement on the Massachusetts teachers' retirement system. These remarks are made in the course of a long study by Dr. Pritchett of pensions in general.

Perhaps the most startling statement in the report, however, comes in the course of an elaborate discussion of the general problem of the increasing costs of education. Says Dr. Pritchett: "It is perfectly clear that if the demands of the school continue to increase at the present rate, or, as seems more probable, at an increased rate, the financial inability of society to pay the cost will in a measurable time bring about radical curtailments."

This opinion he founds upon such comparisons as these: That the expenditures for public schools, elementary and secondary, has risen from $10,000,000 in 1900 to over $1,000,000,000 in 1920, and that in the same interval the salaries of teachers have mounted from $80,000,000 to $130,000,000; that while in these 20 years the increase in elementary enrollment has been about as rapid as the increase in population, the attendance in high schools and colleges has advanced at a rate several times that of the growth of population; that while in this time the national income has grown greatly, "the burden of taxation that has fallen on the citizen of every state of the Union has been in an unprecedented fashion."

Therefore, says Dr. Pritchett, "the simple fact is that municipalities and states are finding the rising cost of their educational budget a most serious and a real problem."

He asks, then, "the question: What are the greatest demands made upon these communities and states has become a real and acute question."

Dr. Pritchett does not undertake to solve this question. "Statesmanlike" qualities are needed for an adequate study of educational needs and possibilities and of financial difficulties and burdens. The necessity for education in a democracy is not to be doubted. The people still believe in education, "perhaps as fervently as ever," but they are becoming somewhat critical of the results that our schools are producing. The most basic suggestion offered in this striking study of the situation is this: "The way to any reform in the cost of education, if such reform be needed, lies in a clear conception of the kind of education which the people of the United States need, and what its schools can be expected to furnish." DAILY PHILOSOPHY

At last reports the Sultan had reduced his total number of wives to 27. That still entitles him to be a movie actor.

About the fastest think we know of is opening a window and then getting into bed before the cold air hits you.

Some Winchester women have such a keen sense of humor that they even take their husbands as a joke.

We notice that the girls are wearing a few more clothes, but it is due to the change in styles, not the change in weather.

Read the Warrant.

Melting weather.

Pity the poor "mafic" stars—too poor even to marry.

What our election lacks in interest, our Town Meeting promises to supply.

The Finance Committee has made an excellent report.

If these sidewalk drainage plans are really, let's start in with the work—and begin on the Common.

The last two weather of the winter was experienced on Saturday morning, when the glass went to the low. Now for a spell of mild, thawing weather.

The warm days of Spring are approaching, and with them comes report of the growing conviction at Washington of an actual coal shortage in Massachusetts.

We may when the day's celebration is playing out that the "outstanding" thing is to be better to us as a municipality.

We are progressing with our new schools. Now comes the request for bids for the new Ramford building. It is quite evident that no committee could build four schools in a few months, and we hear no outcry for haste today.

It speaks well for the STAR cartoonists and our artist when we say that one prominent Winchester man, in paying his coal bill to a well known dealer, simply cut the head out of our cartoon of February 19th, stuck it on the envelope and mailed it. We need not tell you that it arrived safely at its correct destination.

With but one contest for town or five, our election this year holds less of interest to many of our voters than for many years. Under this condition it is not only possible, but very probable, that an extremely light vote will be cast. This should be guarded against by every voter—man or woman—in town. Every voter who has the interests of Winchester at heart should attend the polls and cast his vote. Even though there is but one contest on the ticket, you should have enough faith in your choice to give your candidate the support of your ballot. The polls are open through practically the entire day. Take ample time for all to attend the Town Hall and vote. The act will take but a small portion of your time. See to it that you cast your vote at Monday's election.

The Town will have presented at the annual meeting the report of the Committee on War Memorial, the same being printed in this issue of the STAR through the courtesy of its members. The latest recommendation is along the line of a monument, three types being suggested, together with a recommended location. We have now had presented to us almost every type of memorial. Committees have successively taken up one idea after another. They have all given the matter careful thought and consideration from every viewpoint. With all this information and discussion, it would appear that the time has arrived for definite action—at least in the decision regarding the type of memorial, for the original memorial on Manchester Field, combining quarters for the Legion and an athletic stand, was most desirable. This, along with other suggestions, could not bring a united vote in its favor, and successive committees turned to other forms of memorials. If we are to unite in the selection of a type, now seems the time to do so.

An article will appear on Monday's issue under the State law calling for a vote on the installation of an accounting system by the Commonwealth. This matter has received little attention here, although it has been adopted by various towns and cities elsewhere, including our neighboring city of Woburn. Winchester has an excellent accounting system, and so far as the Star can ascertain, the general opinion here is in opposition to the adoption of the proposed system. There is objection to the system itself, which provides for a Town accountant, who shall maintain office hours through the day at the Town Hall, and also in the matter of expense. If the system is accepted, and an accountant appointed by the Selectmen, control of power is placed in the hands of this new officer, who will have the right to hold up any and all Town bills, as he sees fit. The expense is reported to be in the neighborhood of $2000, but it is said that in Woburn the acceptance of the system added $5000 to the city expenses. Viewing the matter from these angles, the Star is of the opinion that the matter can well await future action. Our accounting system has been carefully installed and our expenses are passed upon by competent boards and heads of departments, and likewise carefully audited. An added expense of $5000 can well be postponed at this time, and there is considerable question whether we can obtain a Town Accountant, hold regular all-day office hours, and run the new department for even this amount. The article is placed on the ballot in compliance with the law, which states that it shall be voted upon in such manner. It is the last article on the ballot, and should receive the careful attention of every voter.

COAL STILL SCARCE

The coal situation in Winchester remains acute. There is plenty of soft coal on hand (provided you do your own hauling) but little or no hard, although dealers report that plenty is on the way.

The moderation in the weather has aided greatly in relieving the situation, and possibly, since President Harding has discovered that Washington reports have misinterpreted him in his views of the situation in New England, we shall soon have a supply large enough to give house-owners sufficient fuel to get through the winter without unpleasant interruptions.

Soft coal may be the ideal fuel some experts would have us believe, but the majority of our citizens would never hesitate in their choice of anthracite. A report to normal deliveries by our coal dealers will be equally welcome along with the arrival of the long expected hard coal.

THREE FIRES WEDNESDAY

The fire department was called out for three fires Wednesday afternoon and evening, some of them fortunately, proving serious. The first call was during the afternoon, a still alarm being answered for a chimney fire at the Hunter hotel at the corner of High street and Westland avenue. There was no damage.

Early in the evening box 64 was sounded for a fire at the home of Mr. William H. Borden, Prince avenue, where an oil lamp exploded. There was considerable smoke, which was quickly extinguished with no loss of consequence.

A still alarm at about 8 o'clock took the firemen to the house at 11 Harvard street for another chimney fire. This house was occupied by Joseph Ferro, the department having answered a still alarm there early in the winter. While the firemen were at this fire, box 87 was rung in by some hoodlums. This box was at the fire. There was no damage.

DROPPED DEAD AT WORK

Marcellino Focciello, 43 years of age, residing at 38 Oak street, died suddenly on Wednesday night while attending to his work at the Hood Rubber company factory at Water town. He appeared in good health to his fellow workers, but suddenly dropped to the floor. The company's physician, Dr. Sumner, who pronounced him dead. His death is supposed to have been caused by heart disease.

Focciello was well known in this town. He leaves a wife and eight children here. The remains were brought to his home yesterday.

REPORT OF WAR MEMORIAL COMMITTEE

The following report will be submitted to the citizens at the annual town meeting by the Committee on War Memorial:

Your committee have in mind the discussions of the past two years, at Town Meetings on this subject, this year, after a number of interviews with various citizens of our Town, worked on the idea of an outside Memorial in the monumental line. A number of trips have been made to sections where monuments have been erected. We have also gone thoroughly into the matter with manufacturers of the same, and have had Sculptors visit our Town, looking over the ground with the idea of obtaining the most suitable Memorial; also the best location for placing the same. The result develops that there are three types of Memorial which seem to be most fitting for our Town, should it decide to adopt this form of Memorial. One of these is a very fine Monument, similar to one which has been erected in Exeter, N. H., and is considered by experts to be the finest Monument erected anywhere. The cost of this monument was in the vicinity of $25,000. The next type consists of a Monument erected of rough stones, with suitable bronze plates; with an appropriate statue, which from estimates would cost in the vicinity of $25,000. The third is a mound of rough stones with suitable bronze plates for inscriptions, with a flag pole at the top, from which the American flag should fly. The estimated cost of such a memorial is $15,000.

If it is the desire of the Town that this be the form of Memorial that should be erected, your Committee feel that either one of the three, described above would be suitable. But, believing that this is a matter for the citizens of our Town to decide, we have presented the same to you in the above form rather than make any recommendation ourselves. If the above is adopted, we recommend that the sum of money be appropriated for whatever type is decided upon and a committee appointed to go ahead with full power to erect the same at as early a date as possible.

As to siting, your committee carefully looked over the Town and has also had the Sculptors who were not at all familiar with our Town do so. Both agreed that a most suitable site for the erection of such a memorial would be at the end of the Parkway at a spot opposite the Unitarian Church.

Respectfully submitted,

The Committee.

WINCHESTER BOARD OF HEALTH

The bacteria count in this chart gives the number of bacteria found in one c. taken from the center of the sample after it had been well shaken. It should be remembered that another c. taken from the same sample might give a somewhat different count, but the difference would rarely, if ever, exceed 10 per cent.

WINCHESTER POST SET THE AMERICAN LEGION

To the Editor of the Star:
This year, at the annual town meeting, the question of a war memorial for Winchester will again be brought up. I am, therefore, writing you, considering this question, have asked, "What do the boys want?" or "What does the Legion want?" To these questions, we believe it is safe to reply that there are as many different opinions among the former service men regarding the form of memorial as there are among the citizens at large. There is a feeling on the part of many Legion men that the matter should be decided by the town, and that the Legion as an organization should not take any definite stand in the matter. This attitude is explained by the fact that, whatever form the memorial may take, it will be given in recognition—in part at least—of their own service.

We believe it may be further stated that there is a keen and deep interest regarding the memorial among the Legion men; that while no definite action or expression of opinion has been taken by our organization regarding the form, there is probably not one among our membership who does not feel that a memorial should be erected, and that this should be done in the not far distant future.

In justice to the parents of those who gave their lives, or who have died since the war ended, we feel that something should be done, as soon as possible, to show to them in a tangible way that this town has not forgotten, and will not soon forget, what their sacrifice was. But a few short months ago these men were among us. While memories of them are still fresh in our minds, we should like to see a memorial erected which will cause them to be remembered for generations to come.

Yours very truly,
HENRY C. BODDLOW

HEAVY STORM

Final Kick of Winter in Keeping With Conditions

What is thought by many to have been the worst storm of the winter, and by others to have equalled any other at least, hit this city Tuesday night and Wednesday morning with a medium snow storm. Weather warnings gave notice of a heavy fall, but town meeting persons and other residents who were abroad during the evening had little evidence of what was coming.

Wednesday morning opened with the storm still continuing and a fall of about four inches of solid, heavy snow. At daylight the real center of the storm arrived, and from then until afternoon the storm raged with unrelenting violence. A gale of hurricane proportions drove the fine snow into every crack and crevice, drifting rocks and roads, and making short work of blocking all traffic.

Our snow plows were out before daylight and had opened paths over most of the principal streets before the gale arrived, but this work was soon obliterated. Early realizing the exceptional conditions, the Highway Department took active steps to meet the situation. It was decided to call all snow plows in, and in fact some had already been called in.

Wise heads got busy and lashed two plows together, side by side, giving a spread when opened of a little more than the width of a single automobile. Four horses were hitched up to these contrivances and the work started again in keeping the town open. No attempt was made to clear the walks except in the centre and Main, Church and Washington streets, and the five ingeniously made plows took the centre of the streets and soon had passable ways cleared about town.

The truck plows were also out and did heroic work about the centre and main streets. In fact by two o'clock, when the storm had somewhat abated, the work was marvelous and one could hardly realize the change in conditions from the early morning hours.

The storm was at its height from 7 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., during which time as much or more snow fell than during the entire night. The rich wind drifted in paths almost as soon as they were made, some portions as exposed places being swept bare of every particle of snow, with others waist deep.

The electric lines ran their early cars as usual, placing them behind their largest plows, but shortly after 7 o'clock their service went to pieces. The Arlington line suffered through the derailment of a car between Winchester and Stoughton and did not get a car through from early morning until nearly six in the evening. The Waburn line fared better, running its cars occasionally. The trains were as badly delayed. The early through trains failed to arrive and the locals were soon away off schedule, and many Boston business men, after reaching the centre and taking a good look at conditions, decided to spend the day at home rather than take a chance at being stuck on their way to work or spending the night in town.

Needless to state, this town went through the storm and the following days in much better shape than any of our neighbors, thanks to the efficient clearing of our streets, and it was possible yesterday noon to reach all parts of Winchester. The heavy snow, about 8 inches, necessitated much use of the shovel again on the part of householders.

Unseasonably low temperature added to the difficulty of the clearing down to 10 above Monday morning and standing at only 12 above yesterday.

Mrs. Nancy Cosgrove, widow of William Cosgrove, died March 1, at the home of her son, Charles H. Cosgrove, 34 Lowell street, Woburn. She resided in Winchester 60 years, moving to Woburn 18 years ago. Two children, Charles H. and Mrs. Michael McLaughlin of Winter Hill, and five grandchildren survive her.

WHOOPIING COUGH

At this season of the year, whooping cough is always prevalent and this winter has not been abnormal in that respect. While generally not a particularly serious disease, it does in many cases leave permanent injury and frequently lowers the child's resistance against other disease organisms. It is not therefore desirable to expose children to it intentionally and particularly children just recovering from other diseases or whose vitality is below normal.

This is the basis upon which rests the policy of the Board of Health with respect to quarantining the disease. Unfortunately this disease is contagious some time before it can be definitely diagnosed by your physician and as soon as reported to the Board a sign is placed on the premises warning others of the presence of the disease, and the patient is restricted to the premises until the attending physician considers that danger of contagion has passed.

Fresh air and exercise are valuable in treating the disease and the child is not required to stay in the house. He may play outdoors and other children who have had the disease may play with the patient but the child should not be permitted to play in the streets, in the schools or where he may give the disease to other children.

Whooping cough, frequently commences like a bronchitis and is peculiarly difficult to detect in its early stages, but we would earnestly request parents in families with children, to use care in allowing a child to attend parties when there is good reason to suspect that the child may be developing this disease. Care of this kind would do a great deal in preventing the general spread of the disease with the consequent interference with the child's schooling, and the occasional serious cases which develop.

Our attention is further called to the Massachusetts Statute which requires the householders or the physician to promptly report all cases of contagious disease to the Board of Health. As the general practice of reporting is sufficient but if you do not have a physician you are liable to serious penalties, if you do not give such notice.

Respectfully submitted,
CARL F. WOODS, Chairman.

Miss Nellie Lahan announces her Easter opening at the Boston Millinery Shop, 372 Main street, Stoughton, March 15, 16 and 17. A complete line of trimmed hats, also a new line of ladies and misses dresses at moderate prices, will be shown.

WE WANT TO BE YOUR

Laundry

Having made this statement, you naturally will ask us,

WHY?

Our reply is that in relieving you and your home of all the drudgery connected with weekly washings, you have assurance that the work will be done in a modern plant, where the rules of scientific sanitation are observed rigidly.

This is but one reason. The Representative who will respond to your call will give you others.

AN INTOLERABLE SITUATION

(Columbus, O., Dispatch, Jan. 23, 1923)

Whatever one may think of the wisdom of our Prohibition policy, the presence of our coast, just outside the line of our complete jurisdiction, of a fleet of vessels under the flag of another nation, striving continuously to aid men from our own shores in violating both our customs regulations and our liquor laws, creates a situation that cannot be allowed indefinitely to continue.

If the coast of Ireland, or any part of it, were today lined with a fleet of vessels under the American flag, trying to supply arms and ammunition to the "irregulars" in rebellion against the Irish Free State, the situation would be exactly parallel to that presented by the rum-running vessels along the New Jersey coast, most of which fly the British flag.

If American vessels were engaged, on any such scale, in an attempt to violate the laws of any other power, we should be expected to deal with the situation, under the power which we get from the well known principle that any ship under American registry, and flying the American flag, is legally "American soil."

A vessel engaged in this kind of lawlessness can be dealt with only in one of two ways—either through capture and punishment by the power against whom law she is offending, or by the power whose flag she flies. If the nations of the world are unwilling to sanction by international agreement the use of the first method, beyond the three-mile limit they should each consider themselves bound individually to look after their own offenders. The high seas can not be allowed to become the resort of unrestrained lawlessness. If such a condition is tolerated against one law, it will very soon be used against other laws as well. Liquor is only one of many things that can be smuggled into the United States at a profit.—[Winchester Citizen Alliance.]

HELPED 723 GIRLS

To the Editor of the Star:
I noticed in the article on the Florence Crittenton League which appeared in last week's Star that it was said 123 girls and 184 babies were helped by the League in Boston last year. This should have been 723 girls and 184 babies.

Will you please give space for this correction?

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

Monday, March 12th is the date of the next regular afternoon meeting of the Program in Prohibition, a fine one. Professor E. Charlton Black of the English department of Boston University, a Scotchman and a fellow student of both Robert Louis Stevenson and James Matthew Barrie at Edinburgh University, will draw intimate word pictures of these two famous authors. Professor Black will read from unpublished works of these writers. Isabelle H. Winslip will sing.

Mrs. Chamberlain gives the second of her lectures on "The Well Dressed Woman" on Thursday, March 15, at 8:30 o'clock before the Home Economics Class.

Augustus Thomas was the dramatist discussed at one of the most interesting meetings of the year of the Literature Class held in the Fortnightly Room on Monday afternoon. Mrs. William Hill gave a clever sketch of the playwright's life from the time when, as a little chap he wore flour sacks for breeches to the troublous days of an actor on the road. Mr. Thomas is a man gifted along many lines. He is a caricaturist as well as a writer of great ability. At the age of 66 years he has written sixty-four plays among which are "The Witching Hour," "The Copper Head," "Missouri," and "Mrs. Lellingwell's Boys."

"The Witching Hour," a play which carries as it's undertone the hypnotic power that one mind may have over another, a play of powerful and stirring action, was excellently read by members of the committee with Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Lazelle as leaders. Afternoon tea was served by Miss Pierce and Mrs. Getty.

JOHN FOLEY

John Foley, an old and respected resident of this town, died of heart disease at his home at 15 Hill street last Saturday night.

He was born in Ireland, July 21, 1841, and had lived in Winchester for the past fifty years. He had been married for fifteen years.

Mr. Foley is survived by his wife, Catherine McNamara, J. Joseph Foley, lawyer of Cambridge, William H. of Wakefield, Fred C. of Beverly, Dr. George A. of Boston, Margaret Catherine and Rhoda of this town.

Solemn requiem mass was celebrated in St. Mary's Church at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Rev. Joseph Quinley was celebrant. Rev. Hugh McGuire deacon, and Rev. Henry McGee, subdeacon. Interment was in Calvary cemetery. Services at the home were read by the Rev. Charles J. Ring of Roxbury, a nephew of the deceased.

The collectors were Joseph and Fred Foley, grandsons, and Edward McQuinn of Quincy, James Cunningham of North Easton, Edward Lawson and James Murray of Winchester.

MIXED BOWLING TOURNAMENT

Straight wins were the result of Monday evening's matches at the Calumet Club in the mixed bowling tournament, now ratings having a dampening effect on some of the leaders. Teams 4, 2 and 5 all won their matches. Teams 7, 13 and 6 being the losers. The scores produced no particularly high marks. Mrs. Crowley tied the ladies, rolling 132 for a total and 84 for her best single. Mrs. Tuttle rolled a single of 87. Mrs. Berry and Mrs. Taylor 86. Mrs. Corey 85 and Mrs. Newman 83. Mr. Newman was high for the gentlemen with 207 on 104, while Mr. Pittman rolled 200 with 116. Mr. Barnard 114, Mr. Kelley 107 and Mr. Jacobs 104.

WINCHESTER DOWNS WELLESLEY 14-13

Winchester playing one of the best games of the year defeated Wellesley High at Wellesley 14-13 on last Friday evening. The game played close and fast throughout and the final result could not be foretold until the last minute.

Winchester made a wonderful comeback since they lost some of their best players, and Coach Higbee now has a team which will match well with any in High School circles.

Captain Tansey rolled up six points to his credit, two floor goals and two fouls. His playing was as usual fast and his shot quick and accurate. O'Donnell at the other forward position also did very well. His passing to Tansey was to a considerable extent responsible for that player's scoring.

Fitzgerald at center seems to be satisfied with just leading a team. He cued one basket but he had been needed he would undoubtedly come through with them. His jumping is getting better and on very few occasions did Watkins of Wellesley better him.

Chapman and French at guards did their usual good work and held the Wellesley guards to but four baskets. French was also high goal scorer with three baskets.

The lineup:

WINCHESTER	WELLESLEY
Tansey, Jr., forward	W. Mann
O'Donnell, center	W. Barry
Fitzgerald, center	W. Watkins
French, right guard	W. Hill

AMERICAN LEAGUE BASEBALL

Considerable progress has been made by the baseball committee of the American Legion the past two weeks. They are very fortunate in having secured for their manager this season a man well known to the fans of Winchester. He is well versed in every angle of the game and with the aid of the committee and the townspeople will produce first-class baseball that no one will want to miss. Players are being engaged now so that we may have first choice. Some new equipment is necessary which will be obtained at an early date in time to start the season with a snappy appearing and capable team ready to tackle the best the state can produce.

The committee realizes this will mean much work on their part; work by the manager and good hearty cooperation by the public. The work is progressing faithfully. The co-operation will be forthcoming, the committee feels, when the people realize we are trying to put baseball in Winchester that will put the town among the leaders of baseball towns.

It is hard at the present writing to imagine or even think of baseball, but in a short time now the field will be green, the air will be balmy, and the crack of the bat will be music to the ear of old and young.

Serget, John A. Harrolo, with officers Regan, William Cassidy and Rogers, were detailed for duty at the polls at the Town Hall from 5:30 to 10:30 a. m. Monday. From 10:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Serget, Thomas F. McCauley, and officers Hogan, Farrell and Kelley were on duty.

WINCHESTER OVERCOMES CHELSEA 37-23

Winchester High running true to form and playing first class basketball defeated Chelsea 37-23 on last Tuesday evening 37-23 in the local gym. Glen Kendrick, who was re-elected from high school athletics some weeks ago for having played more than four years, was again in the lineup, it having been found that there was a mistake about his record and that he was eligible to play. With the lineup thus strengthened the local boys entered the game feeling fully confident that they would win. Coach Higbee sent in the second team at the latter part of the second half and these boys proved that they also were able to take care of the visitors.

Captain Tansey was again the high point scorer with four floor goals and five fouls. He was the outstanding star of the game and gave the spectators plenty of thrills by his fast dribbling and lay ups. O'Donnell at left forward also did well by carrying three baskets and greatly assisting Tansey by his passing.

Fitzgerald at center was in the game at every minute but never using himself unnecessarily. However, there was nothing which got by him and Bergeon of Chelsea found that to get two baskets was quite a feat.

The old combination of French and Kendrick at guards was undoubtedly the reason why Chelsea was held to so low a score. The visiting forwards found that to get through this pair they needed to know more about the game than had yet been taught to them.

The second team which went in during the last period played much better than they had in the regular second team game. Prime and Roll at forwards looked like a pair of regulars. Harrolo at center gave Bergeon a good match at the jump, while Kelley and Lench held the guard positions with credit.

The lineup:

WINCHESTER	CHELSEA
Tansey, Jr., forward	W. Mann
O'Donnell, center	W. Barry
Fitzgerald, center	W. Watkins

LADIES' WESTERN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Western Missionary Society was held on the first day of March in the First Congregational vestry, with a good number present, even the weather, for a change, favoring a good attendance. Considerable singing was accomplished for the Winchester Hospital, for which the society sees one meeting every year. A beautiful luncheon was served at 12:15. Mr. Joshua Phippen and Mrs. Arnold, chairman.

At the business meeting in the afternoon, it was voted to co-operate with the Mission Union in organizing the women of the church to get behind the great undertaking now before the church of raising money for a parish house and church. The hospitality committee and the chairman of the membership drive reported progress, and the committee to look up objects for the white box money to come in, in May, reported that they had been fortunate enough to procure the secretary of the Woman's Home Missionary Association (of which this society is an auxiliary), Mrs. Badger, to come out and address the ladies.

Thereupon, Mrs. Hamilton introduced Mrs. Mabel Badger.

In her opening remarks, Mrs. Badger said that the association was different from other missionary organizations in that its treasury was dispensed through the other societies, i. e., the American Missionary Society, the Congregational Extension Boards (Congregational Home Missionary Society), the Congregational Church Building Society, the Congregational Sunday School Extension Society, the Congregational Educational Society, and the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief. In this way its work is spread throughout the length and breadth of our land.

Through the American Missionary Association it promotes religion and education among the Indians (Santee University), the negroes (Lincoln Academy, N. C., and Cotton Valley School, Fort Davis, Ala.), Highlanders of the South (Pleasant Hill, Tenn.), Orientals (California), Mexicans (Albuquerque, N. M.), Portoricans (Ryder Memorial Hospital, Porto Rico). Through the extension boards, Sunday Schools are established in the homes of the poor, and the different denominations have co-operated in the missionary work large sections of the country have been given to each denomination to be responsible for, and in this way is being eliminated the serious overlapping that has been a just criticism of missionary work in past years.

Through the Board of Ministerial Relief aid is given ministers and their families that have grown old in long and faithful service. Through the education society, the association shares in the support of pastors and student helpers in tax-supported colleges and universities.

The aim of the work in the university is to lead to the care for the student in Christian life and conduct those who come from our Congregational families: to co-operate with all other agencies to interpret Christianity in thought and life as to give it standing in the university, and by joint efforts to make the atmosphere and attitude within the university favorable rather than opposed to the Christian program; and to find certain of these youth who through proper stimulus and knowledge of facts will give their lives to professional Christian leadership.

When we realize that each of these universities has anywhere from 100 to 1000 Congregational students, we can readily appreciate the importance of such co-operation.

As Mrs. Badger gave specific instances of all these different interests her hearers realized with what a power for good. From the university favorable rather than opposed to the Christian program; and to find certain of these youth who through proper stimulus and knowledge of facts will give their lives to professional Christian leadership.

Similar books are to be placed in every county house and city hall in the state. The governor was the first signer of the attorney-general the second and the mayor of Lawrence the third. The governor's reason for this campaign of pledge-signing is to counteract the spirit of lawlessness which has been wide spread since the world war. He has already called a conference with the county attorneys of Kansas to work out plans for enforcing the law. He also warned them that if they fail in accomplishing this task, they are likely to lose their positions.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

There is no life so strong and complete, but what it yearns for the smile of a friend.

A real friend is one who to himself is true and therefore must be so to you. One soul in two bodies.

Your true friend is a stimulant to the nobler side of your nature. The essence of pure devotion, and the sun-shine of capacity.

Friendship means the greatest love, and the truest union of minds of which brave men and women are capable.

Winter, it should be remembered,
does not end until March 21st.

Our Collector of Taxes, Mr. Stinson, presented his case modestly and convincingly, and thoroughly deserves the increase in salary accorded him.

A "human fly" falls to his death before a multitude of onlookers! How much longer will authorities continue to permit a morbid population witnessing this kind of spectacle?

The temperature at 6 o'clock this morning was four above zero. Winter still pursues us.

An interesting feature of this year's election was the fact that Mr.
George F. Parker cast his 60th consecutive vote in a town election, not having missed a single voting day during this long period. Mr. Parker got a new experience as well, for this was the first election in which he cast a vote at a ballot box presided over by a lady. He remarked over the fact.

The STAR is decidedly of the opinion that the bathing beach on Mystic Lake known as "Sandy Beach" should not be closed. It is equally of the opinion that the Town of Winchester should not undertake any expense in its conduct. This is decidedly a Metropolitan matter. The beach is used by residents of many cities and towns in this vicinity and should be kept open for their benefit, but Winchester should not maintain it.

The STAR notes from the report of the committee on fire protection of school buildings, that said committee "strongly recommends that in these buildings (with fire escapes) regular fire drills be held," etc. It might appear that the "regular fire drills" are not so regular as they might be.

The territory served by Boston Edison is shown in white in this map.
The sub-station shown by a black dot is only a few of the 85 in our system. The distribution points for electric service over the 700 square miles, from the new station at Weymouth, are shown in white. The territory now served from the L Street station is shown in white. The Weymouth station will be completed with L Street by main lines. The Weymouth station will add largely to the capacity of Boston Edison, without disturbing existing conditions.

The Friendly Glow

Out of the way— and on the job!

"WHY are you building the new generating station at Weymouth, ten miles from Town?"

This is a query we have often heard since our announcement of the plans for the 400,000 horsepower station which will start rising this spring on the point at Fore River opposite the shipyards.

Because Greater Boston
is growing.

Because at any generating station on the coast there must be deep channel for the fleet of ships from Virginia to discharge coal. At Fore River there is deep channel—used for years by the great battleships built across the way—the only available deep water within many miles of Boston.

A great generating station must have elbow room, both for its own growth and for coal storage. There are sixty acres of Boston Edison land at Weymouth—enough room for one of the largest stations in the country and enough to store 300,000 tons of coal.

A new station, serving a vast metropolitan community, must be placed where the electricity can be sent to its territory along the lines of least resistance. Thickly settled districts must not be disturbed. The "arteries" will radiate from the "heart" at Weymouth straight into the territory of present and future growth, avoiding densely settled Boston entirely.

And there must be water, for a central station uses (for condensation) actually more water than all the homes served by the station. Weymouth has an ocean of salt water which costs nothing.

IT is too easy to think of this Greater Boston of ours as the small five-mile circle around the State House, or the smaller hive of activity on the city peninsula itself.

For the two million of us have a lot of varied interests, and a lot of uses for electricity, whether we farm in Millis, or manufacture in Waltham, or commute from Framingham, or spend our summers at Hull. We are all active partners in the supreme effort of making Greater Boston greater.

And wherever we are, we must have more and more electricity to make that effort effective.

Weymouth, being just what it is,
and just where it is, will supply us just that.

Grant's eastern program was arranged long in advance, and it was only in recent days that the many Winchester friends who desired to hear him and his club that he arranged to delay his return over that evening in order to visit our town.

It would be interesting to some, to hear a few town meeting speakers who support our particularly large and constantly increasing school budget, who have no connection whatever with schools. While the average citizen would never hesitate to vote for the proper and necessary school appropriation, he is all at sea when it comes to the installation of an appropriate system by the commonwealth, as it now stands, calls only for a new system. Auditor Priest, elected Monday for another year, continues with his department as before, and will keep on doing so unless another vote is passed carrying out the provisions of the act applying to an appointment, etc., by the Selectmen.
Such a vote can not be introduced in the present meeting, and it is doubtful if it is in the future as far as can be ascertained.

Massachusetts will be required to carry insurance to protect pedestrians or others in case of injuries, if a bill favorably reported by the Joint Legislative Committee on Judiciary is enacted into law. At present no insurance is required. Persons owning a sufficient amount of property, under the terms of the measure, may file a bond with the State automobile register, instead of taking out the insurance contract. There are 388,099 machines registered in Massachusetts.
That the proposed legislation will be strongly backed on the floor of the House and Senate is indicated by the fact that there is but one dissenter to the report. The passage of this bill will be the first step in protective legislation of importance since our highways have become crowded with reckless and irresponsible auto drivers, and it has only been recognized as a necessity after repeated efforts covering a number of years. It should have been made a law long ago.

The Massachusetts House of Representatives, after considerable debate, has refused to substitute for an adverse committee report, a bill to increase the penalty for those found guilty of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.
In other words, the House is content that the average penalty of punishment for drunken automobile drivers shall stand at the current figure of $50 provided someone is not killed or maimed for life. It is too bad that this figure does not also apply to railroad engineers and trainmen. Their responsibility is only slightly less than the present day automobile driver. An attempt was made to pass a bill providing that for the first offense there should be a fine of from $20 to $100 and imprisonment of from 30 days to one year; for the second offense imprisonment from six months to two years, and for the third offense not less than six months and not more than two and a half years.

This was killed. We may expect, then, during the coming months, a continuance of the usual list of accidents and deaths due to drunken automobile driving. The plea was made that the bill was necessary to check the evil caused by drunken automobile drivers, but our legislators failed to recognize it as such.

It appears from Tuesday night's town meeting that that rumor which has been going around for the past six or eight years regarding the "individual" selection of Finance Committee members has at last reached somebody's ears. We are surprised at the stir created. The Star supposed that everyone in town knew the qualifications necessary to receive appointment to this office. But we are further surprised, and not a little amused to learn that the Committee itself is held responsible for the condition. The Star always thought that this committee was a pet child of our Moderator. To learn that its composition is not fairly selected and that this situation is the fault of the committee itself, is decidedly ludicrous.
In fact, as one prominent gentleman said, "no one but 'Bill' Packer and his humorous remarks could have got away with it." The poor Finance Committee! The enemy of all and the friend of none! Well, the matter is easily arranged. When the old "Appropriations Committee" was reorganized into the present Finance Committee, the present method of appointment appeared the most satisfactory. If it needs revision—why, simply revise it. No one objects. Least of all the Finance Committee. In days gone by the method of appointment, and his words of objection fell upon deaf ears. But do not forget that the Finance Committee is composed of bright and able citizens, striving to give a service to their town, and those who seek a membership through personal desires are few and far between. It is not composed of a "ring" or a "gang," and it gives careful and personal consideration to the problems which you, Mr. Voter, are even more than willing to "leave for George." If "George" does it, give him credit for doing it to the best of his ability and in your interest. If you do not like the way
"George" is picked out, change it, but do not accuse "George" of perpetuating himself, for the men on this committee, as a whole, are serving as a public duty and proving their worth as true citizens, as anyone at all familiar with the revenue mounting work and time they put into their job will agree.

AN OPEN LETTER

Mr. A. A. Sargent,
28 Scotia street,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

Upon receipt of your first letter I had my clerk mail you copies of the Star of Feb. 23 and March 2. Upon receipt of your second letter I had the same papers wrapped and myself handed them to the local Postmaster.
Our Postmaster stated that he would send them with a "back stamp."
There is nothing I can do for you in insuring the delivery of your paper.
Our Postmaster states that he gives personal supervision to your copy in following it through the local office—and I think he does.

The mails are all "shot to pieces."
I note from Tuesday morning's Herald that a government expert is coming on from Washington to give attention to local conditions. Possibly there will be a change—I hope so.
We in Winchester are only receiving one delivery a day. Places but a fraction of a mile from the Post Office,

the same. Our Postmaster states that he has asked for additional carriers and has been refused and instructed to economize in every way possible.

I have written several editorials on the matter but have held them all owing to the extreme weather conditions, for I do not, without more proof than I now have, desire to fasten blame upon local carriers; but conditions are certainly deplorable.

Respectfully,
T. Price Wilson.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FIRE PROTECTION OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS OF THE TOWN OF WINCHESTER

In March 1922 the Committee reported to the Town that of the $27,- 000 appropriated in June 1921, the Committee had expended $18,245.60 in the manner set forth in that Report, leaving an unexpended balance of $8,754.31. Since that time the Committee has spent $208.25 in further minor alterations leaving an unexpended balance of $8,546.06.

In presenting this final report, your Committee desires to state, that, in such building as the High School, and the Wadleigh School, which will remain in use for many years, the danger from fire, and smoke, has not been, and cannot be, wholly eliminated, but the erection of fire escapes has provided additional means of exit, and your Committee strongly recommends that in these buildings, regular fire drills be held, so that the danger to the pupils in case of fire may be minimized as much as possible.

The town is now engaged in a building program which will eventually eliminate most if not all of the present wooden school buildings.

Your Committee recommends that the unexpended balance of $8,546.06, be transferred to the Excess and Deficiency Account and that your Committee be discharged.

THE WINCHESTER, MASS., SAVINGS BANK

Winchester, Mass., one of the municipalities carved out of the original territory of the Plymouth colony, the Mystic Valley, is a residential town of over 10,000 inhabitants and like many of the suburban towns about Boston has more than the usual proportion of the well-to-do. It may be of interest to the student of history to know that the farm of John Harvard, for whom Harvard University was named, was within the present town limits.

A town of Winchester's type is able to support a municipal savings bank, and such is the fact. On Dec. 10, 1870, a group of incorporators filed a petition to the Great and General Court of Massachusetts seeking that an act be passed incorporating a savings bank in the town of Winchester. On Mar. 3, 1871, the act was approved by Governor William Claflin and on July 1 of the same year, the first meeting of the incorporators and members was called. At this meeting the organization was perfected.

Doubts Set at Rest.

Some of the citizens of the town expressed doubt of the success of the undertaking and there was some speculation on the probability that the deposits of the same would not exceed $500. This skeptical attitude put the trustees of the new bank on their mettle and they agreed to deposit to deposit substantial sums. When the day was over the receipts had reached a total of $11,658.64 from 68 depositors and the new enterprise was vindicated.

The loyalty which assured such an auspicious opening has characterized the attitude of the trustees from that time to the present, and has done much toward making the bank an important factor in the town. Serving as they do without expectation of financial reward the trustees play an important part in the success or failure of a municipal savings bank. Winchester is indeed fortunate in the high ideals of the men who originally connected themselves with the bank and the success of the enterprise has taken up the duties laid down by those who have gone before them.

During the 50 years which have elapsed since the opening of the Winchester Savings Bank there have been over $2,500,000. A half million of the assets have accumulated during the five years since 1917, notwithstanding war time and after war time conditions. If these rates of increase can be obtained during the next 50 years it is no wonder that the Winchester Savings Bank has a value of $2,500,000.

Dividends Rate Is High

The first dividend was declared on April 16, 1872 and was at the rate of six per cent. Since that date semi-annual dividends have been paid regularly at an average rate of 4.78 per cent. For 1922 the rate was higher than the average, or 4.79 per cent. These who are familiar with the bank's financial statements know how it is possible to pay this comparatively high rate of interest even though the State law restricts the income of the principal sum is absolutely safe. In great part this possibility is due to the fact that so many of the connected with the bank have banked their services without remuneration.

The bank began business in the Cutter House on Main street and remained there for eight years. At the end of that time the institution moved to the second story of the Brown & Stone Block. In 1912, the present attractive banking home at 26 1/2 Vernon street was provided as a permanent home.

Two Presidents of the Same Name.

Among the petitioners to the legislature in 1871, was David Nelson Skillings and when the bank was organized, Mr. Skillings was elected president. His period of service lasted until 1881. It is an interesting fact that when the Winchester Savings Bank celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1921, a David Nelson Skillings was also president and vice president.

During 1921, Harry C. Sanborn who was previously clerk of the corporation, was advanced to the presidency making the seventh to hold that office in 50 years.

Valuable to the Community.

The Winchester Savings Bank lives up to the best traditions of this excellent kind of bank as an educational factor in teaching young and old habits of saving. It has been a striking factor in the community. It is always a matter of conjecture as to how much of the money which is now safely deposited in a savings bank would have been dissipated and forever lost to those who now have some provision made for old age or for a time of reverses. Because the savings bank will accept small amounts, many accounts have been started and have grown to fair proportions. If it had required a hoarding of money to open a savings account, a majority of the depositors would have failed to accumulate enough to make this important step and not only would the bank have failed to receive the money, but the important lesson taught by a bank account.

The Winchester Savings Bank is one of nearly 200 mutual savings banks in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. This is the largest group of banks in the States of the Union and as a group is working entirely in the interests of the people. The bank whose story has just been told is representative of the best which this group has to offer.—United States Investor.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE TOWN STABLES

Editor of the Star:

It certainly was humiliating to your humble servant to listen to the unconstructive criticism of our Water Board by a noisy voter at the second session of the annual town meeting last Monday night. Inasmuch as every municipality has a grumbling clown who usually performs at town meeting for the edification of the voters assembled, it was certainly pathetic to hear him articulate on the fundamentals of our water system, the best asset that we have—in fact one of the best in this County.

It was asserted at the meeting that the horses at the town stable could be boarded elsewhere cheaper than the Town can board them, and yet we expended over $12,000 to erect our town stable when the late Dr. Allen suggested that we board our horses elsewhere.

As a matter of economy, the folks who now suggest what he advocated, were bitterly opposed to his suggestion. In fact they were so opposed that we practically eliminate the horse entirely. There have been times this winter when we would have had no coal delivered at our domiciles, only for that sturdy beast, the horse. Take the last snow storm. Where would we have been only for the wheels of the automobiles could not plow the snow, due to the fact that the wheels could not get a purchase on the ice that was over the snow.

It seems to me Mr. Editor, that before we abandon our town stable we should have a comprehensive report from our Finance Committee based on facts. Our Finance Committee informs us what it costs to educate a pupil in Winchester and elsewhere; now let us be informed what it costs the Town of Winchester to maintain a number of horses and what it costs the towns elsewhere to support an equal number of horses. And remember, there is a very important town meeting next Monday night. There are several very important articles to be discussed and voted on.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Crouchwell.

THE FORTNIGHTLY MUSICAL

The music committee of the Fortnightly had to work under great difficulties in giving the musical, which was held in Lyceum Hall, Tuesday evening, March 13. In spite of everything the committee will have $20 to turn in toward the piano in the Fortnightly room.

Mr. Warkins, the chairman, first planned to give the musical in her home, but on account of illness, was unable to do so. The time selected, Mr. Lavey, was 10 in the last moment and was unable to find a substitute. Mr. Tarnarkin, the pianist, a student in the New England Conservatory of Music, was willing to play without any special preparation, but with Mr. Topley, a violinist from the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and his able accompanist, Miss Sade, a delightful program was rendered.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

A friend is like a bank of credit on which we can draw supplies of confidence, counsel, sympathy, love and hope.

A real friend is a jewel whose lustre the strong acids of poverty and misfortune cannot dim.

A friend to you is one who will consider your needs before your deservings.

Friendship often ends in love; but love in friendship—never.

Our Finance Committee feels better.

But our Water Department found the shower cold.

It appears that our Collector has a popular rival in our Clerk.

The Michigan girl, with a temperature of 114, made good material for the newspapers while fooling (?) the medical profession. Most of us here, concerned with what we actually know of this winter's temperature, are not surprised that the exceptional figures were faked.

The Star is informed that owing to the vast amount of snow this winter, it has been thought better to omit fire drills in the Prince School.
This was in line with protecting the scholars from catching cold. Quite right. We agree with the Master.
Now comes a fine spring morning.
No slush, mud or deep snow. The Master takes advantage of the conditions and after inspection of the grounds, holds fire drill. Again quite right. Unfortunately he failed to secure the approval of a self-appointed censor to his actions and received a preface hawking out before his scholars. It speaks well for his patience

"IN the window of a store where fireproof cabinets played.

that no blood was shed. "A servant of the Town" he is; a servant of any abusive citizen who enters his school during session and interrupts routine and classes to vent personal grudges, he is not. The Star commends him for his forbearance, and hopes he made this fact clear.

For many, many years, in fact ever since we commenced to use the south reservoir for drinking, there has been a lament over the fact that this town, so abundantly blessed with water, has no place for its boys and girls to bathe. Then came Sandy Beach Miles away, over a hot asphalt parkway, our children tramped through the heat of summer. It grew into popularity with every nearby town and city at one leap. Then the city of Woburn, recognizing the need of bathing facilities, opened a public bath, which was the most popular feature of that place all last summer. Now comes the opportunity to open a bathing beach here. Wedge pond is as handy as any body of water we have except our river. Analysis of its water produces a clean bill of health. Why not at least try it out? Give the kids a chance to swim. It is important as schools and next to god-liness.

A REPLY TO AN OPEN LETTER

The Winchester Star,
Winchester, Mass.
Attention Mr. T. P. Wilson,
Dear Sir:—
I have your letter of the 5th inst.
it is interesting reading.
I have received two Winchester Stars, one of Feb. 23rd and one of March 2nd on Wednesday of this week. I note that you sent two papers of each date. I have received but one of each date. (Note. These were the original regular papers.) One was twelve days on the way, the other one was five days on the way, pretty good service for United States Government.

We have all known for years that the Post Office Department is the worst managed and run department in the United States Government. It is almost useless to make any complaint, as you can get no satisfaction whatsoever.

I thank you for sending me two lots of papers, although I have not received but one lot. (Note three lots were sent.)

Yours very truly,
A. A. Sargent.

Our Finance Committee is feeling better. It received a little recompense for its labors at Monday evening's meeting. Last week it got knocked pretty hard. There is a tendency to knock our committees, notwithstanding the fact that without exception they serve without pay and largely from a sense of fulfilling their duty to their town and fellow citizens. The Water Board, while not a committee, serves without pay and is composed of respected citizens, who take pride in their department and who strive in every way to improve our supply. Who is there in Winchester who feels that he could select any better hands in which to place the care of his drinking water? This board did not de-

PATHE REVIEW

COMEDY

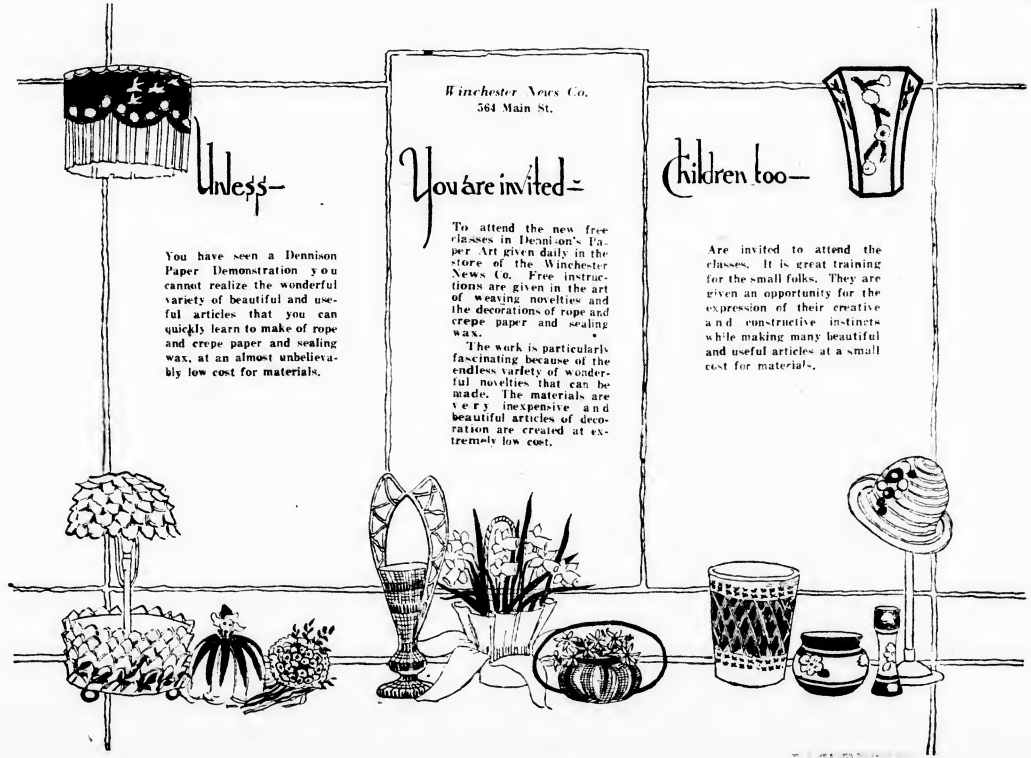

THE difference between the two men is that the wise man takes measures against trouble, and the fool thinks that trouble will never come. The wisest way to prepare yourself for whatever may happen to your finances is a savings account with this bank.

CHOOL CUT STANDS

Mr. Carpenter spoke at length in advocacy of the larger amount, citing various branches of his department which needed funds, showing some of the departments which needed enlargement, and closing by stating that not all of the appropriation would come out of the Town, as the State turned in an appropriation to the Town in proportion to what was expended. This came to $17,500 last year, he said, but did not show to the average taxpayer. He spoke of such items as his committee had agreed to cut after conference with the Finance Committee, laying especial stress upon the fact that the Town should not begin to cut in its salaries to the teachers.

Chairman Blaisdell replied in an able speech. He stated that an appropriation of $190,000, which was virtually what was asked for, would mean an expenditure per pupil in our schools of $104. This same sum was only comparable with two other cities in the State spending more than we do. Of these places, Mr. Town, Wellesley, appears in the same position as ourselves, for it is conducting an investigation into the financial condition of its schools, and in the meantime having been engaged for that purpose.

He gave credit to many towns and cities in the number of teachers employed, the number of school houses and the cost of fuel, salaries, and general analysis of the condition. His remarks were clear and very well put. He went into detail and gave some interesting information, including the fact that much money was spent for "classroom literature." He also mentioned that more money was spent for such literature than for books in the library, and in one instance a set of books for 30 scholars had never been completed except by one boy.

He went into all departments, including the children's library, and spoke for the improvement of the school, and in the end, Mr. Blaisdell's remarks were very well put.

Mr. Guild responded that the teacher's salary was not cut, but that the school had not been granted and had not been granted. Included in his item was an appropriation for books, which the school was to be denied. He said that the school was to be denied the money for the books, which the school was to be denied. He said that the school was to be denied the money for the books, which the school was to be denied.

Mr. Guild also mentioned the new Woman school, which was to be denied the money for the books, which the school was to be denied. Guild, retiring chairman of the School Committee, for his work that board during the past year. This was voted. Following this an attempt was made to introduce a motion along the lines of Article 19 but Moderator Ives denied against the effort.

Mr. Carl Larson introduced a motion for the appointment of a committee of five to consider the advisability of using the present Chapin School building for a trade school when it is replaced by a new school. The motion was carried by Mr. Carpenter, and the matter was favorably acted upon.

This brought the meeting to Article 6, borrowing money in anticipation of taxes, which was passed, after which the meeting adjourned until next Monday evening, March 19th, the hour being 10:40.

HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY DOWNS SENIORS 32 TO 24

One of the most interesting basketball games to be played in town for some time was when the High School faculty team overcame the Senior class team 32 to 24, on last Wednesday afternoon. Much interest was shown in the game and about 150 students were present, cheering for their favorite instructors or classmates.

Rufus Bond, the old Harvard star, was the big man for the faculty. He scored eight baskets and gave the cheering spectators plenty of thrills with long shots and fast breaks. Prime, who played opposite Mr. Bond, was the high scorer of the game with five baskets. It was his excellent shooting that kept the Senior team in the fray up to the last whistle.

Charles Cassidy, of the student body, played with the faculty at left forward, in place of the absence of one of their players. He caught three baskets.

Thomas J. Chase, athletic director of the Winchester schools, jumped at center. He played the brand of basketball that he has been teaching the High School team for many years, but did not play his lastest, which was to be fortunate for the seniors, for everyone knows that above all his many talents, Mr. Chase is a superb basketball player, and it is his game.

Mr. Butters, the former University of Maine star, was at right forward for the faculty. He played his game well. He is not so fast as he was a few years ago but he still manages to keep ahead of many of the boys in the younger classes.

Mr. Fuller, the science professor, was Mr. Bond's assistant at guarding. He also shot both the fouls that were committed. This was two more than anyone else managed to toss.

Dawson, president of the class was at left forward for his team. Pinsky was a basket ball player and merely "filled in" to accommodate. He played well but did not seem to be able to find that basket.

Clinton Mason, star end of last year's football team jumped opposite Mr. Higbee at center, and showed up to advantage. He caught three baskets and did plenty of work around the floor.

McNelly and Tucker played the guards for the seniors, and guarded the forwards well.

Kenerson, Woodberry and Haidley substituted and proved their class spirit by working very hard, but they lacked the experience of the game.

SETTLE WILL OF MRS. COFFIN

Newport, R. I., March 16.—Newport beneficiaries have learned, after a year of spirited litigation, that a settlement has been made in the case of the will of Minnie Coffin, widow of Abraham Coffin of Winchester, formerly of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts. Mrs. Coffin, who died suddenly a year ago last June, had spent much of her time in this city, where she herself drew her will, naming all her next of kin, and giving her estate to persons whom she had met in a business way and in friendship.

To Alfred Steinforth, an antique dealer of Boston, she gave $5000; to Mrs. Arto, sister of this city, $1000; and to Mrs. James Jones, of San Francisco, a large sum. To Mrs. Carter Crawford, of this city, she gave much valuable jewelry. Her will, which was signed and witnessed, and which she herself had drawn her will, that while two persons had signed as witnesses, no one had really seen her sign her signature, and, moreover, that there was no residuary clause. Counsel for the relatives therefore asserted that not only was the will invalid, but that the executor of the estate was a person who had executed it here in the summer of 1921. The estate was found to be worth about $5000, which will now be divided among the relatives, with a slight abatement of the special legacies.

TOWN MEETING

Mr. Sanborn stated that his committee has considered taking the original lot and leaving the houses, but this would reduce the area to the size of the Rumford lot, which provided for a building of six rooms and kindergarten. The Chapin building was much larger and it was the important building of the group. The town had gone on record in its connection as desiring ample play space. In checking up the altitude, he found it but a few feet lower than the original lot, and in the matter of stables, he found conditions excellent, with the prospect of a change to gasoline within a few years which would eliminate the condition altogether.

Mr. Barbano favored the new location and told of the appeals of the seven house owners on the original lot to have their little homes saved from destruction. Mr. Chidley asked if the present vacant land would not favor the new location in the matter of the center of population, to which Mr. Albi replied that it probably would.

A two-thirds vote on the lot found 23 in favor of the new location and none opposed.

Article 13 provided for the report of the Committee on Historical Record—the record of Winchester—men and women in all ways which the town desired printed and distributed. Mr. Bartlett of the committee offered a motion to the effect that two copies be made of the work thus far accomplished, one to be placed in the library and one in the Legion house.

In speaking to his motion, Mr. Bartlett stated that his committee felt it undesirable to publish a book at this time in view of the lack of material. Its data would be very incomplete. He outlined the great work the committee had done in attempting to secure data for the book, and said that of from 650 to 675 names, but 20 to 25 per cent had taken notice of the matter at all in aiding the committee to compile the records.

Every effort had been made to secure the data, the committee even having clerical assistance to make personal interviews without success. Returned letters remained unanswered and individual canvasses had failed.

Mr. A. S. Hall amended Mr. Bartlett's motion and desired to still keep on with the work, recommending the appointment of a new committee to continue with the original purpose set forth. He wanted the book issued with the least delay, and that it be obtainable. His views were supported by Chairman Vincent Clarke of the Legion, who thought all information could be secured. Mr. Bartlett recommended sending someone to that city to secure it. Chairman Blaisdell of the Finance Committee also favored Mr. Hall's idea. The amended motion was carried.

Article 14 called for action once more upon a permanent war memorial and in introducing the matter, Chairman Willey of the last committee appointed on the matter outlined what his committee has done during the year. He advocated the erection of a memorial in monument form.

Mr. Lewis Parkhurst then introduced a motion to approve the report of the committee and appoint a committee to pursue further studies of the form of memorial suggested, mentioning the sum of $50,000 as its probable cost and granting the committee $1000 for expenses. His motion was seconded by Mrs. Frances T. Conlon. Mr. Tuck amended the motion by increasing the sum to be expended for the memorial to $75,000 and appointing the Selectmen a committee to erect it, with instruction to comply with the vote at once. His amendment was lost.

There was no opposition to Mr. Parkhurst's motion other than the amendment, and the motion was carried.

Under Article 15 several clauses in the existing by-laws were eliminated, the idea being to let up on the restrictions and make them less severe.

At this time Mr. Carl Larson introduced a motion regarding the lot line regulations which was ruled out of order.

On Article 16, calling for the building of a bath house at Wedge Pond on the Palmer street playground, Mr. Davidson offered a motion calling for an appropriation of $8000 for such a building. Chairman Blaisdell, in opposing the motion, stated that the house asked for was only in minor part a bath house, but was to be used for other purposes by the Park Board. He stated that the State Board of Health, in examining the water reported that the pond was unsuitable for bathing.

Mr. Davidson had previously read a report on the analysis of the water by a prominent firm of chemists, giving a clean bill of health. Dr. Blaisdell stated that there was a vast difference between summer and winter conditions, and the State Board of Health should examine the water in the summer. He felt it most unwise to allow the bathing there, as the State Board of Health might back up its report at any time and stop the bathing. If so, the bath house would be a waste of money. Any cases of sickness arising from using the place might result in a law suit.

Mr. Croughwell also opposed the motion, and a rising vote killed it 13 to 36.

Article 17 was designed to act in conjunction with Article 16 upon the issue of the latter. It called for the repeal of the town by-law relating to swimming or bathing in public water. Under the by-law no one can lawfully bathe anywhere in town, for the clause read: "No person shall swim or bathe in any of the waters within the town so as to be exposed to the view of persons in a public place, alley or house within the town."

There was no comment made upon this article and it was repealed by a vote of 12 to 2.

Article 18 brought a motion to have the Selectmen request the Metropolitan District Commission to prohibit bathing at Sandy Beach on Myrtle Lake. Mr. Davidson spoke to the motion, stating that conditions at the beach were such that they should not be tolerated. He thought that if the beach were closed it would not be again opened unless these objectionable conditions were eliminated.

Mr. Chidley favored closing the beach, as did several other speakers, the event of the water being more discussed. Inasmuch as the water from Wedge Pond, which had been equally condemned and praised, entered the lake, and as the water of the lake was declared suitable for bathing, the discussion along this line led nowhere. One who stated that following a drowning accident at the beach last year she was one of a committee of ladies organized to interview the Commission in order to improve conditions. The committee was unable to secure the attention of the Commission and finally, through the Governor, succeeded in having a guard placed there.

Various speakers argued, some favoring closing the beach and others opposing it open, all however, agreeing that the conditions there were deplorable. It was finally argued that as long as the beach remained open no action could be secured towards providing a bathing place for our Winchester children, and that only by closing the beach could the Commission be brought to the realization that something in the way of adequately providing for the bathers must be done.

As regards the water, it appeared that our river is still in its unsanitary and unsatisfactory condition, notwithstanding the work of the recent committee appointed to remedy it. Furthermore it appears that it will continue so until some active steps are taken to improve it. If the water does not kill human beings, as it does the fish, it may be continued for bathing purposes, but the question of using it still remains.

Mr. Davidson argued that closing Sandy Beach would not deprive the children of bathing facilities, for they could still bathe in Wedge Pond, although without a bath house. The repeal of the by-law relative to swimming gave them right to use this pond. Some speakers thought Sandy Beach an excellent place for bathing and the water excellent for that purpose, although not advocating it for drinking purposes. It was stated that 90 per cent of the people would be affected by the closing of this beach. Mr. Davidson stated that the closing of the beach rested with the District Commission, but it could be easily done by erecting a fence around it. Dr. Blaisdell suggested that it be closed one-half hour after sunset.

It was during this discussion that Mr. Tuck persisted in speaking after being refused recognition by the Moderator, and for a time there was quite a warm session. Mr. Tuck moved to lay the matter on the table, and as the hour was almost 11 o'clock, it was apparent that most of those present were more concerned with returning to their homes than continuing the argument. Mr. Tuck's motion was lost and his attempt to adjourn was refused.

A vote was finally taken upon the original motion to petition the Metropolitan District Commission to prohibit bathing at Sandy Beach, a rising vote showing 135 in the affirmative and 54 in the negative.

Mr. Chidley then moved for the appointment of a committee of three, one of which should be a woman, to consider and investigate the bathing facilities of the town, including Sandy Beach and Wedge Pond, and report at the annual meeting of 1924. Mr. Parsons amended the motion by making the committee five persons, one a

MASSACHUSETTS SUPPER A GREAT SUCCESS

There was a vestry full of Massachusetts at the First Congregational Church on Tuesday evening for the first in a series of geographical suppers.

Mr. George E. Willey acted as toastmaster and kept the audience in good humor by leading the singing and engineering the program. Miss Mary A. Whittington won applause by her well-rendered solos.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Edwin B. Robinson of Holyoke. His theme was "The Biggest Business in the World," which he interpreted as the Church ministering to the spiritual life of men. He covered a wide range of Massachusetts history in his illustrations. He made the point that whatever else the church did, it must stick to its central

The young naval officer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Howard McQueen. The wedding took place in St. John's Episcopal Church of Newtonville and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Richard T. SOMETIME IN MARCH

This morning, of a sudden, Spring is here! Not that it is warmer or brighter than some other mornings have been but they were not spring yet as unmistakably as this. The weather man had predicted rain for today, but it proved to be no more than a few flurries during the night, and this morning there is not a blade of green nor a single returning bird to greet us, she is here.

How is it we know? The vegetables in my pantry—unwashed potatoes and onions in wooden boxes—have somehow known about it for some time, and stirred by their interstices knowledge have been pushing out pale, little sprouts, there in the dark nooks. How did they know?

For us, there is a faintly-pinkish haze in the elm tops, a vague awareness of the stirring of new life. But clearest of all is the enchanting perfume which fills all the world and makes one draw long breaths of delicate rapture. Yet there is not the first hint of a blossom. It can only be the ineffable fragrance of the breath of spring.

Our vita nuova has begun. M. B.

EIGHTY PER CENT OF WAR RECORDS IN

March 28, 1923
To the Editor of the Star:
We should like to call your attention to an error made in the issue of March 26th, in the report of the town meeting with reference to the number of completed service records returned to the Committee on Historical Records by World War veterans. In your report of the town meeting you quote the chairman of the committee as stating that only 20 to 25 per cent of the total number of service records desired had been returned to the committee.

Approximately two years ago, the Committee on Historical Records published a list showing that 521 service records had been received. In final form from a total of 521 World War Veterans listed by the committee, it appears, therefore, that at the time this list was published, nearly 51 per cent of the service records had been obtained and were being prepared for publication.

We believe that a large majority of the desired service records can be obtained by an active committee working in close cooperation with our post officers and executive committee.

Very truly yours,
Henry B. Harris
Harry G. Bigelow
W. J. McKee,
Publicity Committee.

A LETTER

To the Editor of the Star:

In view of the fact that the Winchester Town Team which in previous years has entertained the local baseball enthusiasts have decided to discontinue, Winchester Post No. 97, the American Legion, has been prompted to obtain the Manchester Field privilege for this season to the end that Winchester may be represented by one of the best semi-professional teams in this section.

We have not in mind a selfish motive, but rather feel that we can place a team on the field of such caliber as to warrant the moral and financial support of those who wish to obtain an afternoon's diversion.

Mr. George D. LeDuc, who has managed the most successful baseball team ever representing Winchester, has agreed to act as manager of the team. As Mr. LeDuc has not been directly connected with baseball for the past few years, he felt that he preferred to be a reader rather than control the destinies of a team as manager, but being one of the Legion's strongest supporters since its start, he has set aside his barriers and will handle the team. Every fan who has followed local baseball knows that a team managed by Mr. LeDuc will hold the interest of all the fans.

The Legion is very grateful to the officers of last year's baseball association, who have not only turned over the balance left in the treasury, but also considerable baseball equipment, which is a material help.

We have given much thought to the financial phase of this proposition and it is a well-known fact that moral support is not sufficient to take care of the many expenses of running a first class ball team. We do not intend that the people of Winchester who are interested in baseball be asked to bear the whole financial burden of this proposition, but we do feel that they will proportionally contribute to its support while the opportunity comes next week. After a partial solicitation of the members of our Post we have raised a considerable amount of money, but not sufficient to present the class of baseball that Winchester is entitled to. We trust therefore that there will be sufficient interest shown to assure the committee in charge of the Legion team that their efforts will not be in vain.

Committee:
 R. M. Hamilton, Chairman
 J. L. Johnston, Secretary
 D. L. Hanlon, Treasurer

A new baseball league has been organized for twilight games including the towns of Winchester, Stoneham, Wakefield and Woburn. George LeDuc will manage the Winchester team. A meeting of the league is to be held at Stoneham on Sunday, at which time the officers will be chosen and rules drawn up.

Long and Rapid Journey.
 Were it possible for an airplane to fly from the earth to the moon at the rate of two hundred miles an hour, it would take seven weeks to make the trip.

Long-Lived Trees.
 The heart of the common oak, it is said, begins to rot at the age of 300 years so even when an oak is undisturbed it rarely lives much beyond 500 years. A larch may live 275 years, a silver fir 435 years and a pine over 500 years. The yew has a remarkable power of resisting time's ravages and may survive for 1000 years or more.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

Do you know that every day we breathe into our lungs about 32 pounds of air, while during the same length of time we only take 8 pounds of food and water into our bodies?

This is a statement worth remembering, for although we are extremely careful about the food and water we consume, we give very little attention to the kind of air we breathe. Scientists admit that the pollution of our air is a growing problem that cannot be neglected any more.

The remedy for this situation lies in the universal use of gas and the elimination of the wasteful and health-damaging practice of burning coal in the raw state, with its smoke, soot, ash and other evils. Herein lies the future of the gas industry—a future calling for work of untold benefit to humanity and a gas industry ten to twenty times as big as it is today.

TOWN MEETING ENDS

In opening the meeting the Coffin bequest was presented and the following motion voted:

That the Town of Winchester accept the gift of $2000 contained in the will of the late Abraham L. Coffin, bequest of the purchase of books and writings for the town library upon the terms and conditions stated in said will, and request the Board of Library Trustees to receive the bequest and to use the same for the appreciation of the Town for this bequest.

The regular warrant opened upon article 21, which called for an appropriation of $1200 for a new floor in the Town Hall. A motion to appropriate that sum was made by Frederic D. Clement, who spoke in support of the project, stating that this, the one and only large hall in the town, was unsuited for dancing, its principal use. Chairman Blaisdell of the Finance Committee, which had recommended the appropriation, replied by stating that the Selectmen had a well laid out plan for renovation of the town hall building, which was being carried out. Last year the new heating apparatus was installed and this year interior decorations would be made. Further work was to be carried out in the future. A motion to appropriate was made by Mr. Davidson, who was seconded by Mr. Blaisdell, although very close.

Under the following articles: Cottage avenue, Sherburne street, Florence street, Border street, Watson place and Florence street were accepted as town ways under the betterment act. Building lines were also established on these streets with the exception of Border street.

Cottage avenue received the same treatment of the Finance Committee, but the other streets were opposed. Chairman Blaisdell stated that his committee favored acceptance, provided all the necessary agreements were signed. It had not been wholly secured, the acceptance was opposed. Mr. Davidson stated that he would not be in the future. A motion to appropriate was made by Mr. Davidson, who was seconded by Mr. Blaisdell, although very close.

Following this, regarding the streets were all accepted without comment down to Florence street. Mr. Davidson asked and Mr. Blaisdell answered from the Finance Committee regarding its recommendation of the cottage avenue. Chairman Blaisdell stated that the Finance Committee had not yet decided on the matter. Mr. Davidson stated that he would not be in the future. A motion to appropriate was made by Mr. Davidson, who was seconded by Mr. Blaisdell, although very close.

This left but one article remaining in the warrant, the four being $10. This article calling for the betterment of Railroad avenue in the town, was carried with the majority of about 1800 feet of land in Winchester square in front of Lyceum building, owned by Mr. Lalla W. Sanderson. It had been reported that the article, while favorably considered by the Selectmen, would be dropped, as it was not in the interest of the town. The present owner threatened to fence in the land, which had been an open way for about 40 years. He said that the title had been registered in the Land Court in 1913, so that the owner has legal claim to the land. It was not assessed prior to 1922, when a valuation of about $1000 a foot was placed upon it. The Selectmen, to avoid controversy and notoriety entailed if it were fenced off, now brought the matter. The owner had asked $3500 for the land, but if the matter was settled at this time had given indications of accepting $2500. The sum of $1500 was mentioned as a point of agreement.

Mr. Bateman stated that there were taxpayers who thought the title could not prevail, citizens who think the Town should allow the owner to fence off the property and others who thought the propriety should be purchased. The question was, what is a fair price. The property was assessed for something over $3000. Mr. Laraway stated that the land was not worth $2500 and that the owner would not dare to fence it in. He favored taking the land and read "a gentleman's agreement."

Mr. Prime moved unfavorably seconded, "No one of intelligence," he stated, "thinks for a moment that the square will never be used for anything but what it has always been used for. He failed to see how the owner could shut off the stores of her building. The square would have to be left open for her tenants."

Mr. Gleason read a letter upon the matter. He stated that the land court action was known by the Town and had its approval. He was of the opinion that the title would not hold. The land had been open to the public since 1850 and in 1880 had been fenced in, the fence being taken down after a short time. He favored no action until the owner fenced it off. Then the Town should take it by eminent domain. The motion as put to the meeting was the original introduction, and this being lost, the meeting dissolved.

Methodism in America.

Immigrants from Ireland and England brought Methodism to the United States. The group leaders by Philip Embury formed what was called the first Methodist society in America in New York in 1700. About the same time Robert Strawbridge began to preach and form societies in Fredrick county, Maryland. Some claim the Maryland beginning was prior to that of New York. The matter is in controversy.

THE TOMB OF CONFUCIUS

The tomb of Confucius, the Mecca of the Chinese of China, pilgrims have journeyed, is said by dispatches to be covered with weeds due to a dispute between descendants of the great sage, who have inherited the duty of caring for this shrine of the nation. The burial place of the man who has dominated Chinese thought for centuries, was described as it appeared a few years ago, in the following communication from Charles K. Edmunds to the National Geographic Society:

This Confucian temple, an enormous and magnificent place, occupying the grounds of the whole of one side of the town of Kufu, is the model of the Confucian temples found in all the cities of China. It is almost certainly the growth of ages.

Containing Image of Sage Within the main building called "The Hall of Perfection," sits the canopied image of the great Sage, of which there are not more than three throughout the Empire. Ordinarily, Confucian temples do not contain an image of the Sage, but a simple tablet before which visitors kneel and devotion is expressed.

The statue is of wood, larger than life size, and represents the Sage seated, holding in his hands the imperial tablet or scepter is a symbol of his sovereignty in the realm of thought.

He is clothed in nine different silk garments, on which the twelve imperial emblems are embroidered, namely, sun, moon, stars, mountains, dragons, pheasants, antelope, water, birds, flames of fire, rice, axes, and clouds. While none of these were used for great purposes, as well as embroidered, they were also placed in the temple. This is doubtless the high rank which Confucius has long been honored.

Duke is Descendant of Confucius

The temple grounds are separated from the town by the street that marks the site of the ancient village in which Confucius was born, the still a site of the house in which he was born. The Duke is a descendant of Confucius, and the temple is a shrine of his memory. The Duke is also in charge of the temple, and the temple is a shrine of his memory.

Causes of Mental Decay. The failure of the mind in old age is often less the result of natural decay, than of disease. Ambition has ceased to operate; contentment brings indolence and indolence decay of mental power, ennui, and sometimes death. Men have been known to die, literally speaking, of disease induced by intellectual vacancy.—Sir B. Brodie.

How Names Come. The Naxos is included for the information that the name of Cuneza Kato (properly spelled Kanoza, in Haverhill) is the Algonquin word for the "naked fellow." This interpretation the Naxos has been given by the Naxos Indians. She holds the interesting circumstance that the word "naked" which is sometimes spelled "naxos" is a simple translation of the French of the expression, "the naked fellow" or "naxos fellow."—Boston Transcript.
